September.
 September morning's gray, with mist that trails its soft films past
 Like smoke from far-off goblin fires that smoulder out at last;
 September morn brings fragrance sweet from downs all sheen-cropp'd sod,
 From wet wild mint and thyme o'erswept by wind like the Breath of God.
 September noon's all golden glow o'er long bright fields reap'd bare,
 Where yellowhammer's thin, sweet note falls tinkling down the air;
 September noon sees rows flash their scarlet in the sun,
 And hears the acorn's pixie cups down-dropping one by one.
 September night's all soft blue gloom with stars in sea and sky.
 When sweet with honeyed orchard scents the wind goes liting by.
 When shimmering dew with rainbow bells threads ew'ry trembling blade,
 And silver moon keeps watch and ward o'er nights for lovers made.

Pointed Paragraphs.

Reflections of a Bachelor.
 It's trying to be a millionaire that nearly always makes a man go broke.
 The way for a man to be a hero to a woman is for him not to belong to her.
 Mock modesty is ever so much more squeamish than there is any need to be.

 A man tries to educate the children by being cross and a woman by feeding them
 When a girl is shy with men, it's a sign her mother would be astonished if she knew how she really was when there weren't any parents around.

Family Reunion.
 There was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Furney Southall's near Louisburg a family reunion by Mrs. M. E. Clark on Friday, Sept. 22, which was a day long to be remembered by those that were present. In the morning the children had a romp in the woods, then we had singing of old hymns played on the organ by Mrs. Billie Daulel, Miss Esther Edwards and Mrs. Johnie Clark, then dinner composed of barbecue and all the good things imaginable out under the shade of a large Chantauqua tree in the yard. After dinner the family gathered together and had their pictures made.
