Bunn News Items.

The boys of Bunn are a part of that great organization known as the Boy Scouts of America. A movement which had its beginning in England and which now has in the country nearly two hundred thousand boys enlisted. The local band Boy Scouts was organized by Dr. B. C. Johnson last year and has a large number of enthusiastic members. The regular Boy Scout suits are coming in this week, and clad in these the boys, with their leader, expect to invade the city of Raleigh during the coming State Fair. Their trip to the fair will be a matter of considerable interest over the State as they will probably be the first uniform rank of Boy Scouts seen in North Carolina. About twenty-five are expected to go and a camp will be arranged near the fair grounds.

The Junior Order Council of Bunn is making itself felt in the life of this community. Its most recent progressive step is to offer to the Bunn High School three medals, one for each room to be presented at commencement to the pupils making the best all round record for the school year. This generous offer means much for the school and has received the hearty approval of the entire section.

An extra teacher has been added to the force of the school. This addition was made necessary by the continued growth of the school. The new teacher will take charge of the intermediate work, while the former intermediate teacher will assist in the high school. The teacher elected is Miss Lyndia Mitchell of Bertie county. In the high school department including grades 8-11 there is at present enrolled thirty-five pupils. This is considerably larger than any previous years enrollment. The music department is especially strong this year, the class being an unusually large one.

Quite a number of delegates from Bunn Baptist church are attending the Tar River Association at Samaria church this week. Though young, this church has an able membership and an excellent pastor—Rev. Geo. M. Duke. The church expects to build in the near future, the school building being used in the meanwhile.

On Monday night, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Carmal entertained in honor of Misses Dora and Louise Goode of Spring Hope in addition to the teachers of the school there were present as guests, Mr. R. W. Montgomery, Dr. B. C. Johnson and Mr. J. H. Weathers. A bountiful supper was served and the evening was one of much pleasure.

THE WALL STREET GAME.

Advice to Those Who Would Buy and Sell on Margin.

"A broker once told me that there was one rule which he would give if he dared to his customers: to guide them in selecting stocks for trading purposes: 'Take a piece of chewing gum; reduce it to an adhesive condition, mold it into a form convenient for throwing; throw it at the board. Buy or sell the stock indicated by the spot on the board to which it adheres. Go to Europe for three months.' By following this advice, he said, the customer would have a chance—not much of a chance, it is true, but some chance. If however he reads the financial page of the newspaper and listens to the gossip in the brokers' offices, he has not even the gambler's chance, since he will be doing exactly what the powers back of the market want him to do in order that they may as quickly as possible get his principal before it is exhausted by the constant nibbling of the broker.

"A well to do man showed his ingenuite bride a check for $1,800. 'Do you see this check? Now with this I'm going to buy sugar. Sugar is going up, and I'll give you the profits.' Sugar went down, and he lost his $1,800. The lady asked for an accounting. 'My dear, sugar went down. The money is lost.' 'And you haven't even any sugar?' she asked plaintively. 'Not even any sugar?'

"As a means of making money speculating on margin is worthless; as a means to loss and ruin it has no rivals. With the large number of sound investments constantly offered by banking houses to the public on terms which offer a reasonable chance of increasing value, together with security of principal and income, it should no longer be necessary for men and women to put their savings into margins."—Edward Sherwood Meade in Lippincott's.

JUVENILE PRODIGES.

Master Betty at the Age of Twelve Played Richard III.

Of all juvenile prodigies was there ever one to compare with Master Betty, the infant Roscius? The press of the day voted him "a very extraordinary phenomenon. . . . playing marbles in a morning and Richard III. in the evening; . . . an inspired being . . . of exquisite judgment and sensibility. . . . the energy of whose delivery was such as to leave all description at a distance. . . . The intelligence of manner, the eloquence of the eye when speech was denied, the rapid yet judicious transitions from prostrate affliction to dignified resentment, are qualities which a Garrick might display." The Edinburgh manager was in fear that the young actor's voice would not fill the house. "My dear sir," said the twelve-year-old genius, "I beg you will be under no apprehensions upon that score, for if my voice does not fill your house my playing will."

Writing for the stage seems always to have attracted the prodigy. Douglas Jerrold wrote his successful farce, "More Frightened Than Hurt," before he was fifteen, and Lope de Vega, the famous Spaniard, was not fourteen when his first play was produced. And William Ireland produced his Shakespearean forgeries, which were good enough to deceive the learned, when he was about fifteen.—London Chronicle.

Measuring Moonlight.

The full moon is said to give a great deal more than twice the light of the half moon. The ratio is approximately as nine to one. Taking advantage of the extreme sensitiveness to light of a selenium cell, experimenters have measured the amount of light coming from the moon at different phases, with the result above mentioned. The reason for the remarkable difference shown is to be found in the varying angles of reflection presented by the roughened surface of our satellite to the sun. The moon is brighter between first quarter and full than between full and last quarter. The cause of this is evident in the more highly reflective character of that part of the moon that lies west of its meridian.

The Old and the New.

He was an old timer slowly adapting himself to modern customs and acquired wealth. He had progressed as far as the open back shirt and was proud of it. The coat front was yet to be attained.

"Just look at me," he said to some friends calling on him while he was dressing. "By heck! When I came to this town I hadn't a shirt to my back, and now—now I haven't a back to my shirt!"—Judge's Library.

Berlin's Outdoor Life.

Berlin is an amazing contrast to Paris and London in the complete absence of a leisured, well to do class with outdoor tastes. It has no Thames, no Ranelagh or Hurlingham, no weed-endy Brighton, hardly any motoring do-naughts. Its flat races are attended by dowdy tens where the race courses within reach of London are thronged with smart thousands.—Berlin Cor. London Bystander.

Afraid of Him.

"You never go to banquets with your husband."

"No. I'm always afraid that they'll ask him to make a speech."

"And he can't make one?"

"That's it exactly. He can't. But if he were asked I just know he'd get up and try."—Detroit Free Press.

Truth is clothed in white, but a lie comes forth with all the colors of the rainbow.

Warm Floors and Healthy Children Make Happy Homes

There is no better way for you to avoid worry and expense than by insuring your children's health.

Warm floors in the home, which is the children's play house in winter, are assured when using Cole's Original Hot Blast Heater.

The steel base and body construction allows the heat to be radiated to the floor keeping it warm during the coldest weather.

Cole's Original Hot Blast Heater

The Cleanest—Easiest to Care For

Burns Soft Coal, Lignite, Hard Coal, Crushed Coke, Wood and Cobs.

Users of coal must remember that the ordinary heater is a big care to operate. That its smoke and ashes entail dusting, curtain washing and carpet sweeping. Think then of the ease of operation and the cleanliness of Cole's Hot Blast.

Cole's Hot Blast has a guaranteed smoke-proof feed door—open the feed door and the current of air draws the smoke directly across the top of stove to the stove pipe—away from the opening. Contrast this simple, cleanly feed with the side door in an ordinary heater. The side door used on other stoves permits escape of dirty smoke, unpleasant gas and accumulated soot drops from it. If you overfill a side door stove, coal falls to the floor. And note this, you cannot make a side door heater air-tight—an everlasting advantage in favor of Cole's Hot Blast which is air-tight and guaranteed to remain so always.

No fires to build—the fire is never out in this remarkable heater from fall until taken down in the spring.

Better select one today—surely it is the heater you need—
