

MRS. MCGILL BROKE DOWN

Gives the Real Facts in Regard to Her Case and Tells How She Suffered.

Jonesboro, Ark.—"I suffered a complete break down in health some time ago," writes Mrs. A. McGill, from this place. "I was very weak and could not do any work. I tried different remedies, but they did me no good. One day, I got a bottle of Cardui. It did me so much good, I was surprised, and took some more. Before I took Cardui, I had headache and backache, and sometimes I would cry for hours. Now I am over all that, and can do all kinds of housework. I think it is the greatest medicine on earth." In the past fifty years, thousands of ladies have written, like Mrs. McGill, to tell of the benefit received from Cardui. Such testimony, from earnest women, surely indicates the great value of this tonic remedy for diseases peculiar to women. Are you a sufferer? Yes? Cardui is the medicine you need. We urge you to try it.

Lesson VIII.—Second Quarter, For May 26, 1912.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Matt. v. 33-37; Jas. iii. 1-12; v. 12—Memory Verses. 34-36—Golden Text, Eph. iv. 25, R. V. Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

The topic of today's lesson is "Truthfulness," but from the first and last Scripture selections it would seem to be a warning against swearing or, taking the three passages, a lesson on the control of the tongue. The essential thing is a right relation to God, who is the God of truth (Isa. lxx. 16), whose throne is heaven, His footstool the earth and Jerusalem His special city, the city of the great King. That title makes us think of Mal. i. 12-14, where He complains of the deceit of His people in bringing Him offerings they would not bring to an earthly ruler, and he said, "I am a great King. . . . and my name is dreadful among the nations." In Mal. ii. 1, 2, He said that there would be a curse if they did not lay it to heart to give glory to His name. Sometimes men are so honored by others that it is said of such a one, "That man's word is as good as his bond." How much more should the word of God suffice as the firmest possible foundation on which to rest. "Forever, O Lord, thy word is settled in heaven." "Hath He said and shall He not do it?" "The Lord of Hosts hath sworn, saying, Surely as I have thought so shall it come to pass, and as I have purposed so shall it stand" (Ps. cxix. 89; Num. xxiii. 19; Isa. xiv. 24). The more we meditate upon Him and upon such words concerning Him the more we shall become like Him in word and deed. Beholding as in a glass the glory of the Lord, we shall be changed into the same image from glory to glory as by the Spirit of the Lord (II Cor. iii. 18) and thus by more manifestly children of our Father who is in heaven.

This cannot be till we have been born from above and have thus become children of God, standing before Him in His righteousness, as we learned last week. James in his epistle is as clear about the new birth and the manner of it as is Peter or Paul or our Lord Himself (Jas. i. 18, 22; I Pet. i. 23; John iii), but the Spirit through James lays special emphasis on the need of a manifestation of such words and works on the part of saved people that those who cannot read the heart, as God does, may see in daily life the reality of the faith that saves. If a company of believers are asked to repeat the verse beginning, "This is a faithful saying," it would be an almost unheard of occurrence for some one to ask, "Which please?" but with one consent all would repeat I Tim. i. 15, and not one in fifty or a hundred would think of Tit. iii. 8, for it seems to be almost an unknown saying, but it is so important. James great point in chapter ii is that a mere word of mouth, a mere "say so," does not amount to anything necessarily; it must be a heart word, which will show itself in the life, for "with the heart man believeth unto righteousness, and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation" (Rom. x. 10). In our lesson he speaks of the power of the tongue for good or evil and uses as illustrations a great creature like a horse controlled and turned where the driver pleases by the bit in his mouth and also a great ship guided by a very small helm. Even so the tongue though a very small member of the body, can accomplish a great deal of good or evil, and, while many kinds of creatures can be tamed, the tongue can no man tame or woman either. But there is one who can subdue and control it. It is not right that from the same mouth there should flow sweet water and bitter, and if the Lord Himself is the fountain in us it will not be so, and He can stop the other fountain from which the bitter comes. Salvation is wholly of God, whether it be the gift of eternal life or living out that life day by day. We are as utterly helpless in the one as in the other. He must do it all. It is ours to receive Him and be saved and then to let Him rule in us. As we yield fully to Him we will find that He is able to subdue. If Job, who is mentioned in connection with the last verse in our lesson could under very great trial reject his wife's proposal that he curse God and die (Job ii. 9) there is equal grace for every tried one, and God is able to make all grace abound toward us that we may have all sufficiency in all things (II Cor. ix. 8). Our tongues will be used by God or the devil as we yield to one or the other, as in the case of Simon Peter (Matt. xvi. 16, 17, 22, 23). "He that keepeth his mouth keepeth his life." And, "Whoso keepeth his mouth and his tongue keepeth his soul from troubles" (Prov. xiii. 3; xxi. 23). It is well to act often, according to Ps. xxxviii. 13, "I as a deaf man heard not, and I as a dumb man that openeth not his mouth." It is well to pray always (Ps. xix. 14; cxli. 5). Self confidence we must always avoid, but when weak and consciously so we will find His grace sufficient. He will not fail those who rely upon Him.

Almost a Miracle. One of the most startling changes ever seen in any man, according to W. B. Holm, of Clarendon, Tex., was effected years ago in his brother. "He had such a dreadful cough," he writes, "that all our family thought he was going into consumption, but he began to use Dr. King's New Discovery, and was completely cured by ten bottles. Now he is sound and well, and weighs 218 pounds. For many years our family has used this wonderful remedy for coughs and colds with excellent results. It's quick, safe, reliable and guaranteed. Price 50 cents and $1.00. Trial bottle free at Aycock Drug Co.
