Eloping Eugenically.

"Oh, my heart is fluttering so!" cried Gracia, as she reached the foot of the ladder, and Arnold's outstretched arms.

Arnold placed his ear to her chest and listened. "Appears to be a leaky valve," he gravely reported. "You told me you were perfectly sound."

"Dr. Ippyak said that I was," defended Gracia.

Silently Arnold helped her into the car.

"Did you bring your kissing-screen?" he asked, wrapping the robe around her. "I forgot mine."

"So—so did I," she faltered miserably.

"Would you mind if I borrowed the chauffeur's?"

"Arnold!" she ejaculated, horrified. And he relapsed into taciturnity until—

"What does that cough mean—asthma or weak lungs?"

"I swallowed a bug," she meekly explained.

"How did you happen to have your mouth open?" he demanded. "Have you adenoids?"

"I was starting to tell you that I loved you," she responded, less humbly. She was growing angry.

Smitten by contrition, he put his arm about her—and discovered that she was shaking violently.

"Got a chill?" he questioned suspiciously. "I didn't know you were subject to malaria."

"I'm not," she sobbed. "Riding besides an ice-man in this cold wind is enough to give anybody a chill."

"The certificate of your neurologist stated specifically that you were not hysterical, and here you are—" accused Arnold.

"Nor am I." Inwardly raging but outwardly composed, she withdrew from his embrace. "Perhaps we better call this off?"

"Don't, Gracia," he begged. "I didn't mean that. But you know a fellow can't be too careful in choosing a wife these days."

Presently Gracia's turn came.

"What did you put in your mouth just then?" she queried.

"Gum."

"Let me see that bottle."

Cornered, he confessed. "It was a liver tablet—for a touch of biliousness."

"Ah! Strange your doctor's certificate didn't mention liver trouble."

In the act of replying, Arnold sneezed thrice.

"Catarrh," charged Gracia. "You tak cold easily, and probably have a spell of tonsillitis every winter."

"Certainly not. I—ouch!" He grabbed his knee and bent over in a paroxysm of pain.

"Rheumatism!"

"It isn't," he protested. "I slipped and wrenched it."

Gracia shook her head inexorably. "Of course I love and trust you, but I must have a healthy husband."

"But, Gracia dearest—"

"Take me home."

At the cold finality of her tones, he buried his face in his hands. Gracia began to weep softly.

After ages and ages—

"Arnold," ventured a quavering voice, "do you love me?"

"I do," he fervently affirmed. "But I haven't much confidence in your family physician's statements. He's biased."

"That's just the way it is with me. I'd die for you; and I'm sure Dr. Squills would lie for you."

More silence.

"Arnold dear?"

"Yes, love."

"Instead of taking me home, let's go to a disinterested doctor, and then to the parson's, if—"

"FAGGED-OUT" WOMEN

Will Find Help in This Letter.

Overworked, run down, "fagged out" women who feel as though they could hardly drag about, should profit by Mrs. Brill's experience.

She says: "I was in a very weak, run-down condition. Life was not worth living. I could not sleep, was very nervous, stomach bad, and was not able to work."

"I consulted with one or two physicians, without benefit. I read of Vinol helping some one in a similar condition so I began to take it, and it simply did wonders for me. I gained in weight and I am now in better health and stronger than ever. I can not find words enough to praise Vinol."—Mrs. W. H. Brill, Racine, Wis.
