

A Different Sequel.

There was once a woman who lived in a one-room tenement with five children and a drunken husband. A London paper thus tells what followed:

The police reported her.
The church noted her.
Slumming parties held up their hands at her.
Experts compiled statistics about her.
Sociologists wrote about her.
Governments ignored her.
Her neighbors wanted to help her.
A small part of the world worried about her.
The landlord bullied her.
One day the agent of a charitable agency called on her and looking at him proudly with her back against the wall, she said:
"I don't want your help."
But a week later she was written up by a newspaper reporter who knew his business, and readers of the paper sent her $2,500.
That is a tribute to the power of publicity and is an altogether pleasant sequel to the story.

"What Is the Weight of a Bushel of Sweet Potatoes?"

As far as we can find only 27 States have established a legal weight for a bushel of sweet potatoes. Two of these, Florida and Mississippi, make the weight 60 pounds for a legal bushel; three make it 55 pounds; six make it 50 pounds; and four make the legal weight of a bushel of sweet potatoes 45 pounds.

The following are the legal weights of a bushel of sweet potatoes in the Southern States that have established a legal weight:

State	Lbs.
Alabama	50
Arkansas	55
Florida	60
Georgia	60
Kentucky	55
Mississippi	60
Tennessee	50
Texas	55
Virginia	55

A Safety Ordinance.

The city council of the city of Davenport, Iowa, has just adopted a safety building code that might well be followed by our cities before some tragedy of a fire panic disgraces the name of our fair State.

The following principal regulations were adopted for theatres:

"There must be no less than four Babcock type fire extinguishers in the theatre. The house must be provided with ample fire escapes under the State regulations. One direct exit for each 150 seats in the parquet or lower floor. One direct exit for each 100 seats on the balcony or upper floors. Aisles must be no less than 40 inches wide.

"There must be a space of at least 2 feet 8 inches from back to back of the rows of seats.

"Every seat must be no further than 8 chairs from an aisle.

"There must be no standing in the aisles except by ushers or other theatre employees.

"The aisles in vaudeville or moving picture theatres must be at least 36 inches wide.

"No seat must be farther than six chairs from the aisle in vaudeville or moving picture theatres.

"There must be a tested fireproof curtain in every theatre.

"Each theatre seating over 1,000 persons must have a standpipe.

"The chief of the fire department will instruct theatre employees in the use of fire extinguishers, hose, or other devices.

A Short-Sighted Business Policy.

An Arkansas reader writes as follows:

"Where can I buy 16 per cent. acid phosphate, muriate of potash and cottonseed meal for making my own fertilizers? You advocate home mixing, also the government, and I know it is best from my own experience. Heretofore I have bought the materials from an oil mill, but this year they refuse to sell me because I am not a dealer, and the dealers in my home town refuse to handle these materials and absolutely refuse to get them for me, as they claim it interferes with the sale of their mixed

Scott's Emulsion corrects nervousness by its force of concentrated medical nourishment—it restores the healthy action of body cells, enriches the blood, sharpens the appetite, and feeds the nerve centres by distributing energy and power all over the body.

goods. Can you give me the address of dealers who will ship me the materials I want in any quantity on receipt of order accompanied with cash price.

It is hard to believe that any merchant doing business with a farmer will be so stupid and short-sighted as to refuse to sell him the things he wants to buy. It is such stupidity as this that has caused the farmer to feel that the merchant and the middleman have not treated him fairly, and that has driven him to co-operative buying and selling direct from the manufacturer and to the consumer. Fortunately, however, few merchants who sell fertilizers or other goods to the farmer are as short-sighted as those with whom our reader deals, for most of them will sell their armer customers what the farmers want. When the merchant refuses to do this, there ceases to be any further need for his existence. We can and have told this reader where he can buy for cash these materials, in the quantities desired, and the result is that this merchant has gained nothing and has lost a customer, from whom he might have made a profit if he had been willing to sell the things which his customer wanted to buy.

There are many cases where the farmer ought not to mix his own fertilizers, but should buy ready mixed goods, because of the small quantity desired, or his lack of knowledge regarding the mixing of fertilizers. But on the other hand, there are cases when the farmer should and will mix his own fertilizers, as in this case, and the merchant is simply short-sighted or arbitrary who refuses to sell him the raw materials and make a reasonable profit on them. If a man wants these materials he can buy them, and any fertilizer dealer who refuses to sell them is simply losing a profit to no purpose.—The Progressive Farmer.

Milk Values.

If you do not appreciate already the value of milk in the diet and the importance of having plenty of it at all seasons, just consider how much it takes of other foods to equal one quart of milk in nourishment. A standard quart of milk contains 3.3 per cent. protein, 4 per cent. fat, 5 per cent. carbohydrate and 7 per cent. mineral matter, or a total of 13 per cent. nourishment. Here is what it takes of each of certain other foods to equal a single quart of milk in food values:

- 13.9 ounces beef; or—
- 38.2 ounces oysters; or—
- 19.1 ounces eggs; or—
- 6.1 ounces cheese; or—
- 5.1 ounces wheat flour; or—
- 4.9 ounces cornmeal; or—
- 25.7 ounces potatoes; or—
- 5.1 ounces dried beans; or—
- 61.2 ounces cabbage; or—
- 39.2 ounces apples; or—
- 27.7 ounces bananas; or—
- 6.8 ounces prunes.

Praying for More Preachers.

The month of May in the Shanghai district was observed as a special day of prayer that more of our young men would dedicate their lives to the ministry of the gospel, and our preachers at all points were urged to preach on that important subject. We expect our prayers to be answered, and yet at times we are almost afraid to pray, for fear that when the men offer the funds will not be on hand. May you who hold the purse strings in the home land discharge faithfully the trusteeship which God has granted you, and liberally give to the objects so thoroughly approved by the board of missions.—J. A. G. Shipley, Shanghai, China.

To The Democratic Voters of Franklin County:

I take this method of expressing my thanks to my many friends throughout the County who are urging me to enter the race for Clerk Superior Court. I assure them that I am very grateful for their many kind expressions in my behalf. Lots of them are of the opinion that 18 years in office for one man is long enough and I am inclined to be of the same opinion. I have under advisement the matter of becoming a candidate and will make a definite statement in the next issue of The Franklin Times.

Yours respectfully,
S. P. BODDIE.
April 9, 1914.
