Eighty Years on an Island. The houses, with their Moorish styled Venetian blinds over heavy balconies, were an echo of old Portugal. Don Cesar escorted us to the house of James Mackay, British vice consul, whose kindly help to various needy nationals has caused him to be known throughout the Azores as "the Consul of Europe" to which should be added, "and the United States," says Charles W. Furlong, writing of his visit to the island of Flores of the Azores group. He appeared in a frock coat and top hat—the only one I saw in Flores. During his four-score years and over he left the island but once—by accident. American whalers and long voyage vessels from Good Hope and Cape Horn lay off here when short of provisions. During a visit aboard one of these a north-west gale suddenly sprang up, making his return impossible, and in ten days he found himself in England, but in three more he took the first vessel back, and here he has been ever since.

Dog on Operating Table. Mack, a bulldog owned by Mrs. Charles Wright, teacher at the Palo school, says a Walla Walla (Wash.) exchange, got so many porcupine quills in its mouth and throat during a fight with that animal that it had to be chloroformed and hundreds of quills were taken out with pincers. The dog was protecting chickens owned by its mistress. Mack has successfully fought off badgers, snakes and coyotes which have sought to steal the chickens, and when the porcupine appeared it charged it. Even with its mouth filled with quills it continued the attack.

Win Victoria Crosses. Since the Victoria Cross was first instituted, sixty-odd years ago, as a reward for conspicuous valor in the Crimea, the bestowals have not amounted to a thousand. Five hundred and twenty-two was the number of the recipients before the beginning of the present war, and during the last three years 317 men have won the most coveted of all decorations.
