PE-RU-NA

Those who object to liquid medicines can secure Peruna tablets.

Mrs. Rosa A. Kline, 318 Clinton Place, Kansas City, Missouri, writes:

"I was very sick with Catarrh and Bronchitis. I also had a cold in the head. I used Peruna and am well pleased with the results. It has done me a great deal of good. I do not need any other medicine. I can cheerfully recommend it to any one who is troubled with catching cold frequently or any one who has a chronic cough or chronic catarrh. Those wishing further particulars concerning my case may write me. Be sure to enclose a stamp and I will answer."

Future Opportunity

Among the patrons of this Institution many are accumulating funds for future use—holding money until it is needed.

For their convenience, we issue Time Certificates of Deposit maturing in from four to six months, and bearing interest at 4 per cent.

There is in these Time Deposits a combination of security and profit, which makes them particularly desirable for temporarily idle surplus funds.

STARVING SYRIANS HAVE

KILLED AND EATEN THEIR CHILDREN, SAYS ROBERTS

St. Louis, March 11.—"The death rate in Beirut, Syria," says John R. Roberts, who is here in a relief campaign for that stricken section, "is 200 every night. They died on the streets and at the doorsteps in the winter. It is not at all uncommon, in going down the streets, to see poor, starved people lying in the gutters, dying or dead. Practically every person in Syria is near starvation. I have seen children grubbing in unspeakable filth to grasp some bit of orange peel or possible remnant of food. They pick up grass and devour it eagerly.

There were several cases of cannibalism well vouched for in Beirut. I know of two or three definite cases of starving men who killed children and ate them.

During the Armenian tragedies, the survivors of these massacres came down from the Lebanon mountains through Syria, and the Syrians cared for them as best they could.

There are 400,000 children in Syria and Armenia who are orphans. Most of them now have been picked up, and it is the purpose to find hospices for them. But they were in a starving condition. Many of them, after being picked up and fed for a little while, suddenly died. They could not assimilate food again, having been so completely broken down."

INGLESIDE ITEMS

We are glad to see such an early spring. Now the farmers can begin their patriotic farming; earlier than they had anticipated; they enter this work with much pleasure for they are anxious to begin doing their bit to help win the world war.

There will be a box party at the Ingleside school on the evening of the 22 of March. Everybody is invited. Now, be sure to go.

The Ingleside basket ball teams, boys and girls, are anxious to compete with some other team, either at home or abroad. Do challenge them at once.

Our young neighbor, Mr. P. S. Foster, has purchased a fine horse.

Mr. Holmes of Franklinton spent the past week end at the home of Mr. J. J. Holden.

Mr. R. W. Smithwick has been an Ingleside visitor for the past few days. He returned home Thursday afternoon.

Miss Ora Holden entertained a number of her friends at her home one evening last week. The occasion was much enjoyed by all who attended.

Mr. J. B. Beasley of Ingleside who is attending King's Business College of Raleigh, will return home the 22 of this month.

As our school year is only one month longer, our minds have been stayed for a moment to think of, "how have we spent the year?" Are we more efficient boys and girls than last November; better prepared to serve in our community and for our country? I'm sure each of us can answer with the one word, yes.

CALLS HALT ON SPENDING FOR PLAYTHINGS AND LUXURIES

Judge Stephenson Says Idlers Must Be Put to Work. Every Body Fighter of Some Kind

Winston-Salem, March 11.—Judge Gilbert T. Stephenson, Director of Service for the State War Savings Committee, is calling a halt on people's spending money for luxuries and playthings while the country is waiting for ships to be built to take the soldiers to the battlefield, for airplanes to take them into the heart of Germany across No Man's Land and for munitions which will be the only thing that will make their going to France and all that they encounter worth while.

"Everybody belongs to the army one way or the other," says Mr. Stephenson—"some fight, abroad, others work at home. The army in Europe is only the cutting edge of the battle axe; the real force of the blow struck by the army is wielded by the people at home. Idleness at this time on the part of any able bodied man or woman, rich or poor, black or white is not only unpatriotic but is akin to desertion from the army and should be treated as such. It is not enough," he says, "to enforce vagrancy laws and put to work the loafers who have no visible means of support, but public opinion should force all idlers and players though they have a visible means of support to produce something for their country. Another essential necessary to win the war, declares Mr. Stephenson is that every dollar in the State must be put into circulation. I mean those laid away in bureau drawers, iron safes and other places for safe keeping. I do not mean, however, that which is already in savings departments of banks and which is already at work, nor do I mean money loaned out, because that is also at work. England teaches us that it is not necessary to the success of any of our money campaigns to divert that which is already at work. In other words the withdrawal of money from savings departments of the banks, or the calling in of loans to any great extent would cripple productive enterprise and defeat a prime purpose of the War Savings Campaign.

"Is it any sacrifice, he asks, to take idle money out of its hiding place and put it into circulation, or is it any sacrifice to lend one's money at 4 per cent interest, compounded quarterly, non taxable, with the privilege of calling it in any day and getting 3 per cent simple interest for the time it has been out. This is all that is required of the people of North Carolina to make War Savings Campaign a complete success."

Potatoes are nourishing, palatable and well liked by all of us. The more we eat the more wheat we can ship to the boys at the front and the famishing people of the allies.

From now until next harvest watch your grocery list or there will be no groceries to list.
