

The Wartime Exposition now being held in Europe is attracting many visitors from this country, especially young men. Do not forget that the Kaiser pressed the button which started the whole show.

Rose Pastor Stokes is now finding to her cost what it means to "agin the government."

National and Local Meat Business

The meat business of the country is conducted by various agencies—

By small slaughter-houses in villages—

By local Abattoirs or small Packing Houses in towns—

both

Using only a part of the local live stock supply and

Furnishing only a part of the local demand for meat.

These slaughtering and distributing agencies fill a well defined but necessarily restricted place in the distribution of the products of live stock.

But only packers like Swift & Company, organized on a national scale, are able to undertake the service that is more vitally important, involving

An Obligation to the Producer
To purchase for spot cash all the live stock the producer may send to market for slaughter.

An Obligation to the Consumer
To make available to every consumer, everywhere, in season and out, the full supply and variety of meat products, of the highest standard that the market affords.

THE RED TRIANGLE IS KEEPING ITS PROMISES

Y. M. C. A. Secretaries Follow The Soldiers Out Into No Man's Land

No Job Too Small For The Biggest Of Men

The American Y. M. C. A. is keeping its promises. American secretaries are now, and have been for many weeks, at work in the forward areas along the battle front in France. To an indeterminate number of Red Triangle men "over there" gas and shell-fire and mud and actual battle are a grim reality—a part of the day's work.

A personal letter of absorbing interest was lately received from Mr. Ralph Harbison, president of the Pittsburgh Y. M. C. A. and a well known business man of that city, who has been in France on a special Y. M. C. A. Mission.

The Letter

"Casualties had occurred among our soldiers just before we arrived at our village," the letter reads, "and we were ordered to get under cover of our de suite. After a supper of chocolate, war bread, and canned beef, the six of us secretaries were ordered to the cellar of the 'Y,' together with fifty soldiers who happened to be in the old shell-torn building, as the boche were beginning again to shell the town. We took candles, a big basketful of canteen supplies, to last us in case we should have to be dug out later, overcoats and blankets. We fitted our gas masks on to be sure they were working well, and then settled down—or tried to—in the dungeon. We expected to have to stay all night, but in an hour a sentry called. 'All out,' and up we gladly went. The rest of the evening we spent upstairs in one of the reasonably whole rooms, with piano and songs and stories and the ever-present and wonderful canteen, at which I took my turn.

"Needless to say, I slept none that night, with all the bang and noise outside, but nobody does, I'm told, the first night. The night before I got about two hours of dozing with a stiff neck, sitting up in a crowded night train, but, strange to say, I never felt the lack of it for a minute.

"We were up the next morning at une bonne heure, and after breakfast at the officers' mess Clarke and I started off for the trenches, each of us laden with about fifty pounds of canteen supplies besides our helmet, gas masks, carried at all times at 'alerte,' etc.

"For two hours we pursued a tortuous way among the various lines of trenches and connecting trenches, stopping frequently to dispense our popular wares among the boys, some repairing the trenches, some building new ones, some on sentry duty, some sleeping in the dugouts, some manning guns and watching for German heads.

"As we entered the front-line trenches, we suddenly ran into Secretary Baker and accompanying officers. I stepped aside as well as I could, saluted and said, 'Good morning, Mr. Secretary.' As they passed I heard one of the officers say to the Secretary, 'You see, Mr. Secretary, the 'Y' men are right up in the front-line trenches with the boys.'

"Time was flying, and we knew there were still more soldiers further on who would be glad to see us. Soon we entered 'No Man's Land' by means of a trench, a land which we had seen from the rear lines in the distance an hour earlier, all uprooted and torn and desolate, and after some minutes we crawled, hot and winded, into a shell hole—the furthest most listening post in the line—and found our soldiers on guard, all very much alert.

"They gave us a warm welcome, and we conducted our communications in low whispers, for there were three German snipers in three different directions only seventy-five feet away.

"Needless to say, our gunnysacks were empty when we came out. We hurried back to the sign of the Red Triangle in the village, drank a cup of hot chocolate, and started in again in another direction.

"We watched the explosions getting closer and closer, each one preceded by the weirdest kind of a wail and whine through the air, and then during a let-up we rushed across the open and into the dugouts in an embankment, where our second pack of supplies disappeared.

"Two of the secretaries had been passed the day before we arrived at this place, and one slightly wounded by shrapnel, while others were breaking under the physical strain and need of relief. I'm sure we will hear of fatalities soon, but since my experience in the trenches I don't ask the question any more. Is it worth while? Never was such an opportunity given to man to serve his fellow-men as this.

"Pass the word on, and pass it quickly, that five hundred of the most capable, earnest, and big-souled Christian men are needed here today in addition to the weekly stream that is coming. We are cabling New York frequently, but they don't come. It is critical, and we must not fail, but we will arise; more and better men come immediately. As I see it, there is no Y. M. C. A. job over here too small for the biggest men in America."

Best Distance For Soy Beans.

A good many people are going to plant soy beans that have never planted them. And some of them are going to be disappointed, mainly because of mistakes in planting.

Soy beans for grazing or hay should be planted in rows two feet apart, and should stand about two or three inches in the drill. This will give more feed and a better quality of feed than planting thin or planting in hills.

An application of about 200 pounds of phosphate will be found beneficial. The Soy Bean gets its ammonia from the air, and does not need any ammonia fertilizer, unless it might be a small quantity to start it off.

It is a good plan to plant a patch for seed or plant between the hills of corn and save for seed.

FIRE INSURANCE.

Germany's Gull Established.
(Extracts from Prince Karl Lichnowsky's "My London Mission, 1912-1914," a copy of which has just reached this country. Prince Lichnowsky, who was German Ambassador to England when the war broke out, says that he wrote the document for his family archives, but it was made public in Germany and created a great stir, the Kaiser's government hastening to repudiate and suppress it.)

"On Aug. 2 (1914), when I saw Asquith in order to make a final attempt he was completely broken, and, although quite calm, tears ran down his face."

"Of course it would only have needed a hint from Berlin to make Count Berchtold (Austrian Foreign Minister in August, 1914) satisfy himself with a diplomatic success and put up with the Serbian reply."

"The impression became ever stronger that we (Germany) desired war in all circumstances."

"Thus ended my London mission. It was wrecked by the perfidy of the British, but by the perfidy of our policy."

"I had to support in London a policy which I knew to be fallacious. I was punished for it, for it was a sin against the Holy Ghost."

Drives Out Malaria, Builds Up System

President Wilson's address to Congress concerning the revenue tax sounded well to the ears of all except the profiteers.

The Poor Man's War.
The curbstone critic fished a 5-cent cigar out of his pocket and aired his views. "It's not my war—nor yours. It's a rich man's war. Let him fight it."

The man in the overalls with the dinner pail, who had stopped to wait for a car, butted into the talk.

"Where did you get that hunch, friend? My boss has two sons. Both of them are at the front. Neither could have got exemption if he had tried, and to give them their due they didn't try. Now take me. I've got three grown sons. One has a wife and two kids. He'll stay at home to support them. One works in a shipyard. He'll stay in this country. The third drives a truck. He'll go to France. You've got to show me before I'll believe it's a rich man's war."

"He's making money out of the war and we're paying for it, aren't we?"

"Some rich men are making money. Some aren't. I notice stocks are away down. That hits them. When it comes to paying for the war, I reckon we're all doing our share. The income tax and the super-tax, and the excess-profits tax all hit him. It's the first war I ever heard of where the capitalist pays his proportion. Of course the workman pays, too. I pay on tobacco, and the wife and kids pay when they go to the movies. That's right, too. They're not necessities. I like to think I'm taking a wallop at the Kaiser every time I light up. No sir; the rich man hasn't any monopoly on this war. It's my war, too."

And the man with the dinner pail swung on to a car so as to get home to work in his war garden.—Anon.

Five-ton motor tractors are to be used in place of horses for bringing up field artillery. Any method of speeding the war is acceptable.
