For Violating the Sugar Ruling of the Food Administration-J. S. Win-

County Food Administrator M C. Pleasants, who went to Raleigh Tues-day to be present at the hearing of two cases of alleged violations of the two cases of alleged violations of the sugar regulations of the Food Administration, informs us that in the case against W. W. Coley, Food Administrator H. A. Page found him guilty of a technical violation and required him to donate $10 to the Red Cross Chapter of Wood, N. C., and to promise not to become engaged in the purchasing or handling of sugar in such a way again. He also says that in the a way again. He also says that in the case of J. S. Winstead, of near Bunn, the evidence was not found to be sufficient to sustain a charge and was therefore dismissed, but upon the re-commendations of County Food Ad-ministrator and the State Food Administration Inspector, E. L. Harris, all privileges of Mr. Winstead to han-dle sugar in his store were withdrawn These two cases were reported to the County Food Administration last week and Mr. E. L. Harris, State Food Adand Mr. E. L. Harris, State Food Ad-ministration Inspector, was put in touch with them. Upon visiting Lou-isburg on last Friday he went imme-diately into both sections and made personal inspections with the result that the parties were summoned to Raleigh Tuesday for a hearing before State Food Administrator H. A. Page, with the above results.

State Food Administrator H. A. Page, with the above results.

While here Monday Mr. Harris addressed a meeting of the merchants in the court house. The object of the Leeting was to explain the new sugar rulings to the merchants that all may have a clear understanding of what is expected of them and their position with their customer. Quite a good number from both town and country were present. He also gave out much information regarding the flour meal situation.

SOCIETY.

Mrs. G. A. Ricks and Mrs. J. W. Mrs. G. A. Ricks and Mrs. J. W. Mann entertained at ten tables of bridge and rook Saturday morning in honor of Mrs. Sterling Boddie, of Henderson, who was in Louisburg; visiting friends and relatives the past week. A delightful morning was spent, at the conclusion of which Mrs. Mann and Mrs. Ricks passed trays, beautifully decorated with sweet peas and containing cards with the following verse written on each:

ing verse written on each:
"I saw a ship a-coming,
A-sailing on the sea,
'Twas full of ammunition For fighting Germany; And oh, but I was happy That I had done my share, Through purchasing Thrift Stamps To send it 'over there.'

On the corner of each card was a thrift stamp which could easily be detached, and the idea was a splendid close to War Savings Stamp Week, during which week many of the guests present had given almost their entire time, helping in the sale of these time, helping in the sale of these time, helping in the sale of these stamps, not only in every home in Louisburg, but every one in the coun-
