Liberty Bonds and War Savings Stamps

Do Not Sell or Trade Them

The importance of holding Liberty Loan Bonds is as great now as it ever has been during any period of the Government's financing. The war is over, but its costs and the expenses of demobilization must be reckoned with as well as other demands for current and extraordinary expenses. To provide therefor the spirit of savings and thrift must be maintained.

If solicitation by advertisement or otherwise for the exchange of bonds for merchandise or other securities is permitted to continue, the foundations of actual thrift and economic savings, which have been created will be destroyed. Those who solicit the exchange or sale of bonds must appreciate that they are only shifting responsibilities and that eventually, if those responsibilities are centered in one section, it will mean that the other sections will have to make up by the payment of heavy taxes what they have heretofore loaned.

In instances where it is absolutely necessary to realize on your Government bonds, any banker will be pleased to sell them at the market price and pay you the proceeds, less a nominal charge for service.

Do not sell your bonds unless it is absolutely necessary, and if you must sell, dispose of them through a bank or a reputable broker.

NATION'S CLOCKS TO AID GARDNERS

Hands Will Be Turned Ahead to Make 1919 Record Producing Year.

Washington, March 5.—The National War Garden Commission is preparing to launch this spring a campaign for "the biggest producing year the nation has ever seen." To spur the home gardeners to renewed efforts the commission reminds them that the clocks of the nation will be set one hour ahead on the last Saturday night in March in compliance with the daylight saving law, in effect for the duration of the war.

"We must help feed the people of Europe," declared Charles Lathrop Pack, president of the National War Garden Commission, in an appeal to the home gardeners for larger results. "Will you have a part in this great work at hand? Next to the sun, the extra hour of daylight is the best asset the victory gardener has."

"Will you meet the sun half way? Will you be up to take advantage of the health giving garden work in the cool of the morning? Have the spade and the hoe handy and turn the clock ahead one hour on the last Saturday night in March and be ready for the biggest home food producing year the country ever saw."

According to the estimates by the commission, the war garden crop of 1918 was worth $525,000,000. This was 51 per cent over that of 1917.

"Figures show that 5,285,000 home food producing plots were planted says the commission. "With twenty-six working days in each of the seven months there are 182 extra hours of time. If only one gardener worked this extra hour of time in each plot it would be seen that 961,870,000 hours of extra time would be added to the country's wealth. Since there are 8,760 hours in a year there is a staggering total of 109,803 years of 24-hour days. In an eight-hour working day the real advantage is found by multiplying 109,803 by 3, giving 329,409 working, or eight-hour day years."

The importance of this extra time in the opinion of Mr. Pack, cannot be over-estimated.

Cotton Control Encouraging.

Raleigh, N. C., Mar. 4.—The movement to hold the present crop of cotton and to reduce the 1919 acreage by one-third which has been inaugurated by the North Carolina Cotton Association, is making considerable headway. Mr. C. D. Orrell, Chairman of the executive committee of this Association, states, "We are receiving excellent moral support, and some money contributions." The State as a whole seems to be thoroughly aroused over the situation, with many farmers in communities voluntarily pledging themselves to hold their present crop, and reduce this year's acreage.

The organization meetings which were held in all of the cotton growing counties last week succeeded in arousing considerable interest, and, while the attendance in all of the counties was not as desirable as it might have been, still a good working organization was formed by those who had the interest of their country at heart, and who attended this meeting. At this time, plans were made and put into operation for pledging every farmer in the respective counties. This was done in some cases by dividing the county into school districts, and others by the township plan, with whichever way being adopted calling for a personal house to house canvass by the committee.

It is planned to hold an additional meeting in most of the counties during the latter part of next week, at which time the results of the canvass will be reported and plans made for future activity.

As yet, there are a few people who do not realize the importance of this movement. "Some of the business men and many of the farmers are lethargic," states Mr. Orrell. "If they could realize the consequences attendant upon a big crop of cotton being produced this year, and could see the danger in which the entire business structure of the State and South would be placed by this crop of cheap cotton, they would realize at once that this movement calls for the concerted action of every single individual in the State.

"The moral effect of the movement through the future years is immensely more important than protecting this present crop, or the next, though it has for its purpose the protection of both."

Mr. Orrell calls for the farmers of the State to rally around this movement, to organize their communities so that the acreage on every cotton farm will be reduced at least one-third, and the economic freedom of the cotton farmer assured for the coming years.

WHY THAT LAME BACK!

That morning lameness—those sharp pains when bending or lifting, make work a burden and rest impossible. Don't be handicapped by a bad back—look to your kidneys. You will make no mistake by following this Franklinton resident's example.

Miss Alice Card, Franklinton, N. C., says: "My back gave me a whole lot of trouble and mornings, I was stiff and lame. My kidneys didn't act properly and I used to get awfully dizzy. Black specks would blur my sight. Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me, so I took them and they entirely relieved this complaint."

Price 60c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Miss Card had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

To Our Friends and Patrons

"If you have not sold and do not intend to sell any of your Liberty Bonds, this letter is not intended for you.

"If you have sold or contemplate selling any of your Liberty Bonds, read and study this letter carefully, then put your Liberty Bonds in a safe place and KEEP THEM.

"Speaking recently on the subject of the selling of Liberty Bonds, which has been taking place, the Secretary of the Treasury said:

"Our boys at the front in the service of their Government have never quit. If you sell your Liberty Bonds, you quit at a time when the Government needs your continued support. Every time you quit by selling your Liberty Bonds, you hurt the credit of your Government and make it more difficult to finance the war. The cost of the war continues until peace is signed, and our gallant boys are brought back to American soil."

"We wish to urge upon every one of you not to sell your Liberty Bonds under any circumstances. If you are without food or are about to be dispossessed from your home, then is the time to consider borrowing money on your bonds, but not until then.

"This also applies to War Savings Certificate Stamps and Thrift Stamps. Do not sell either.

"Always remember that if the boys who sailed from this country for France, after arriving in France had turned and come home without fighting, we would not be talking about holding Liberty Bonds, but would probably be getting together all we own in the world, each and every one of us, for the purpose of handing it over to the Kaiser in the form of taxes.

"If Liberty Bonds sell at less than par on the Exchanges, it is simply because a lot of people are dumping them on the market instead of holding them as they should do. These bonds will eventually sell at par or above, and your money is safer in them than it would be in any other investment.

"If, in the future, the roll is called for holders of Liberty Bonds, be sure you have your badge of honor in the form of your original Liberty Bonds."
