

A TONIC
Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic restores Energy and Vitality by Purifying and Enriching the Blood. When you feel its strengthening, invigorating effect, see how it brings color to the cheeks and how it improves the appetite, you will then appreciate its true tonic value.
Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic is simply Iron and Quinine suspended in syrup. So pleasant even children like it. The blood needs QUININE to Purify it and IRON to Enrich it. Destroys Malarial germs and Grip germs by its Strengthening, Invigorating Effect. 60c.

Merey!
Little Ruth went with her minister father and mother to call on one of his parishioners. During the call she sat very quietly until they rose to go home, and then she asked her mother aloud: "Isn't she going to give us any of that?"
Mother, of course, asked: "Give us what, dear?"
But she wished she hadn't when Ruth returned: "Why, some of that taffy pop says she always gives him."

DANIELS PRAISED AS BEST BOSS AMERICAN NAVY HAS EVER HAD
WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Secretary Daniels was lauded today by Representative Sisson, Democrat, Mississippi, as "the best Secretary of the Navy the United States has ever had." During debate on the naval appropriation bill, Mr. Sisson reviewed the Secretary's accomplishments and declared that even those who had criticized his policies would eventually admit he had been highly efficient and far-seeing.
"There isn't a man in the Navy Department who works longer or harder than the Secretary," said Mr. Sisson. "He has set a splendid example to the men associated with him."

REPORT OF JUVENILE WORK.

Case No. 12—A young white man who ran away from home and joined the navy leaving his mother, a widow, without any means of support. He later tried to secure his release from the navy and a lawyer was employed to assist in obtaining his discharge. As he would not assist his mother but a very little while at home and as she was getting an allowance from the Government while he was in service information was furnished that prevented his discharge.
Case No. 13—A colored woman who tried to secure an allotment from her husband who was in service, but it was found that in three months after he went in the army she had married another man. The allotment was held up.
Case No. 14—A colored soldier who seduced a negro girl under promise of marriage. We located this soldier for the Red Cross who were trying to get the man to help support his child.
Case No. 15—The father of a colored soldier. This soldier died leaving his father $10,000 insurance. Through some technicality this insurance was held up. Assistance was rendered them in trying to get the insurance straightened out.
Case No. 16—The wife or mother of a soldier whom we tried to locate for the Red Cross.
Case No. 17—A white soldier whom we assisted in securing a new uniform he having returned his upon his discharge.
Case No. 18—A colored soldier who died in the Oteen hospital leaving his sister an amount of money in compensation which we assisted her to obtain. He also had $10,000 life insurance which we have been assisting her to get.
Case No. 19—An insane white man about sixty years old who had been living by himself for several months and who was reported as being in very needy circumstances. An investigation was made and it was found that he was in a wretched condition. A commission to determine his sanity was called, he was declared insane and a guardian was appointed. He will now be comfortably cared for.
Case No. 20—A young white man with a wife and two children. The man had an advanced case of tuberculosis and was falling rapidly. Sufficient money was raised to keep him in a sanatorium until he began to improve, later a place was secured for him at the State Sanatorium where he is improving rapidly. His expenses are being paid at the sanatorium by the Red Cross.
Case No. 21—A young white man who had a mild case of tuberculosis. A place was secured for him in a sanatorium in the western part of the state. He is now well.
Case No. 22—A feeble-minded child who we are trying to get in a training school.
Case No. 23—A feeble-minded child who we are trying to get in a training school.
Case No. 24—An aged white woman whom her step-son and son-in-law tried to get on the pauper list. An investigation was made and it was found that she had a life interest in the farm on which her step-son was living and that he was simply able to care for her.
Case No. 25—An old colored woman whom her son tried to get on the pauper list. Upon investigation it was found that the son owned a good farm and was making a good living. His tobacco crop for that year amounting to $2,000.
Case No. 26—Three white children whom their father had on the pauper list. Upon investigation it was found that one child was grown and working on the railroad, another married and with several children the youngest, a boy, was large enough to take care of himself. The man was addicted to morphine and was using the money to buy it with.
Case No. 27—A white man whom friends tried to get on pauper list. Upon investigation it was found that he did not need help from the county and the request was made rather against his will.
Case No. 28—A badly deformed white girl who was brought to this county and left with an old man and his wife who were no relation of hers. She was carried to the Wake County home.
Case No. 29—An old blind colored man who was driven from home by his son-in-law and who refused to let the man have his clothes although it was winter and the old man needed them. The clothes were secured for him. His daughter who was driven away at the same time having found work he went to live with her.
Case No. 30A—white soldier for whom we secured a new uniform and a Victory Medal.
Case No. 31—A colored soldier with tuberculosis and bronchial trouble who came to us for assistance. He was in a very bad shape, almost helpless. A place was secured for him in one of the Government hospitals where he is receiving treatment.
Case No. 32—A young white soldier who received an injury while in service and who came to me for assistance. He was helped to secure treatment and an operation without cost.
Case No. 33—A soldier who was in hospital and who could not obtain a record of his service in France. The Government wanted the information so that they might give him treatment he needed. They were informed of the source from which they could obtain this information.
Case No. 34—A young white soldier for whom we were able to secure hospital treatment for a wound received while in service.
Case No. 35—The family of a colored soldier who was killed in France. We were able to help them obtain compensation which was due the deceased soldier. Help was also rendered them with regard to his insurance which upon investigation was found to be lapsed.
Case No. 36—A colored soldier who disappeared while in service in France. We were able to locate this boy for his parents who did not know whether he was living or dead.
Case No. 37—A white soldier whom

CONGRESS TO PROBE BERGDOLL ESCAPE
Members of Committee Desire to Know What Methods Philadelphia Draft Dodger Used in Getting Started On Gold Hunt.
Washington, Feb. 11.—Investigation by a congressional committee of Grover C. Bergdoll's escape from military guard and his subsequent flight to Germany was in prospect today following testimony on the case of the wealthy Philadelphia draft dodger given before the House military affairs committee yesterday by District Attorney Charles D. McAvoy of Philadelphia.
Although in discussing Bergdoll's escape Mr. McAvoy told them he did not believe there was evidence of corruption against anybody connected with the War Department, members of the committee announced they were determined to go to the bottom of the case and press for early action on a resolution introduced by Chairman Keahn last May providing for a congressional investigation.
The committee plans to inquire particularly, members said, into the methods by which Bergdoll obtained from the Treasury Department the $105,000 in gold which he has charged in recent statements from Germany that he buried in Maryland to be used in effecting his release through bribery of government officials. It was permitted him to recover this alleged buried gold that he was granted a release under the military guard from which he made his escape. The committee also will seek to ascertain how the prisoner's lawyers were able to secure his release for that purpose.

It isn't wise to speak the truth at all times. Silence is often more satisfactory.

we assisted in securing vocational training.
Case No. 38—The family of a colored soldier who was killed in France. Due to his beneficiary being dead his insurance was held up. Assistance was given his family in getting the insurance payments started again.
Case No. 39—A white man of very poor circumstances who had a terrible tubercular affection of the nose, eye and face. When he came to me for assistance the extent that a portion of his nose had been eaten out. Very fortunately I was able to secure treatment for him under an expert at practically no expense to him. His improvement has been wonderful.
Case No. 40—A white soldier whom we assisted in securing a Victory Medal.
The foregoing comprise the major portion of the work that has been accomplished with children and with adults needing assistance though there have been many other cases in which we have been of assistance to people who were in need of help but for which we have not the room for publishing in this little booklet.

SCHOOL WORK
The different schools in the county have been visited and the children taught new games, etc., and how to have better recess periods.
The school attendance has been increased fifty per cent and the attendance is much more regular.
An appropriation of $275.00 was secured from another county for one of our schools which was situated near the county line and to which a number of the children from the adjoining county has been going.
Each of the community fairs were visited and assistance was rendered in judging the agricultural products and livestock.
