The Country Weekly.

I am the friend of the family, the bringer of tidings from other friends. I speak to the home in the evening light of summer's vine-clad porch or the glow of winter's lamp.

I help to make the evening hour record the great and the small, the varied acts of the days and weeks that go to make up life.

I am for and of the home; I follow those who leave humble beginnings whether they go to greatness or to the gutter. I take to them the thrill of old days, with wholesome messages.

I speak the language of the common man; my words are fitted to his understanding. My congregation is larger than that of any church in my town; my readers are more than those in the schools. Young and old alike find in me stimulation, instruction, entertainment, inspiration, solace, comfort.

I am the chronicler of birth, and love and death—the three great facts of man's existence.

I bring together buyer and seller, to the benefit of both; I am part of the market place of the world. Into the home I carry word of the goods which feed, and clothe, and shelter, and which minister to comfort, ease, health, and happiness.

I am the word of the week, the history of the year, the record of my community in the archives of state and nation.

I am the Country Weekly—From Bristow Adams' Newspaper day address, Farm and Home week.

Sad Fate of Lamb.

Teacher—You see, had the lamb been obedient, and stayed in the fold, it would not have been eaten by the wolf, would it?
