GREAT CLOUDS VOLCANIC ASHES IN ARGENTINA.
Buenos Aires, Dec. 19.—Vast clouds of volcanic ashes from the erupting peaks in the Andes are sweeping across Argentina, obscuring the sun in many sections. Carried by a south west wind from a point in the Andes range at about latitude 41, where the eruptions are supposed to be occurring, ashes are reported to have fallen at places nearly 10 degrees of latitude farther north and from the Andes to the Atlantic Ocean.
The first ash clouds reached the city of La Plata thirty-five miles southeast of this city at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Weather bureau observers also reported a slight film of dust over Buenos Aires, although it was not noticed by the inhabitants. Volcanic dust becomes finer as the distance from its origin increases.
In the town of Lincoln, two hundred miles west of here, fine ashes fell yesterday afternoon; the sun was obscured by clouds resembling a fog and objects 700 feet away were invisible. No alarm is felt in this section, as the fall has not been heavy enough to do any damage, but it is feared that livestock in the territory to the southwest is in danger through the ashes covering the grazing lands.
Reports continue to be received from remote villages along the Argentine western border of earth shocks and subterranean thunder, together with the renewed falling of volcanic ashes. A correspondent telegraphing from San Marlin Delos, in the Andes territory of Nuequen, says the sun was obscured by an ash cloud, while the houses of the village and the surrounding forests presented a curious aspect under their ashen blanket.

GOV. THOMAS WALTER BICKETT DEAD
Body Interred in Louisburg Yesterday
Death Came at His Home in Raleigh After Stroke of Paralysis—Large Crowds Attend Funeral.
Thomas Walter Bickett, Governor of North Carolina from 1917 to 1921, died at his home in Hayes Barton yesterday morning at 9:15, a little more than twelve hours after he had been stricken with paralysis Tuesday evening. He died without regaining consciousness with all members of his family at his bedside except his sister, Mrs. F. B. Ashcraft, of Monroe who reached Raleigh two hours later.
The going of the war governor was peaceful. Throughout the night he struggled for each breath, but toward morning the flickering pulse grew weaker, the labored breath fainter. From that moment they reached him physician held out no hope and as dawn drew on the family realized that he would not live. At nine o'clock the breathing was almost imperceptible, the pulse was almost gone. Presently it ceased to struggle. North Carolina's beloved citizen was dead.
The funeral which was held in Louisburg yesterday was possibly the largest attended ever before held here.

FADELESS FLOWERS
Flowers made of petals cut from paper tape and coated with colored sealing wax, are among the novelties that add to the cheerfulness of home and Christmas this year. A cluster of them in several different colors, in a vase that is also coated with the wax, makes a very pleasing bouquet for the living room or dining table. The colored wax is a substitute for paint and a small alcohol flame becomes the brush for making the fadeless blossoms.

STAYED OR STOLEN—From my home on Thursday night, December 22nd, one little fice dog, white, with black spots, black face, answers to name of "Spot." Liberal reward will be paid for information leading to his recovery.

ARMY OF YOUNGSTERS MARCHING RAPIDLY ON
With Respeping Of School, Boys And Girls Renew Their Efforts To Win Commissions.
With the reopening of schools, Uncle Sam's Army of Savers has stepped out to make new records for itself, and to enlist boys and girls who have not yet become members in the ranks of this wide-awake organization. Will it keep up the snappy pace with which it started last April? Many members have marched right on through vacation, and their example, together with that of an inspiring beginning, indicate that the motto will be "let's go!"
A feature of the school savings movement developed exclusively in this federal reserve district, Uncle Sam's Army of Savers was organized last spring, with youthful "officers" and "privates" whose insignia buttons and "commissions" were awarded by the Savings Division of the Treasury Department. Membership in the Army may be obtained by investment in one 25-cent Thrift Stamp, and future promotions in rank depend upon the number of additional stamps bought. The fact that before last session closed twenty-five General's "commissions" and buttons were awarded in this district to children owning 20 War Savings Stamps each, indicates the rapidity with which promotions are being earned, as this is the highest rank.
Summer banks are being opened, and summer savings counted with an eye to the coveted promotion they will bring—the Lieutenant's or it may be the Captain's button that will be awarded in recognition of patriotic service rendered through the purchase of savings securities. These banks were distributed at the beginning of vacation to members of Uncle Sam's Army of Savers desiring to save money during the summer in order to win promotions.

The activities of Uncle Sam's Army of Savers will be promoted to round out the Thrift instruction to be given in the majority of schools in the district. Boys and girls will learn the principles and theory of thrift in their classrooms, and will then be encouraged to put what they have learned into practice by earning money and investing the right proportion of it in safe, interest-bearing government securities.

MONEY GROWS FAST AT COMPOUNDED INTEREST
New Possibilities For Everyone To Invest In Securities Guaranteed By The Treasury Department.
Government Savings Securities, which may be had at nearly all post offices, were issued to encourage regular saving and wise investment. Many millions of dollars in the United States have been put into these securities, and, as a result, tens of thousands of people have the satisfaction of knowing how steadily money increases at 4 per cent interest compounded quarterly.
The fundamental characteristics of Government Savings Securities are that they are safe beyond question, easily convertible into money, and not subject to market fluctuations. Such merits give these securities a distinctive investment value.
The securities are safe because they are guaranteed by the United States Treasury Department. They are easily convertible into cash, because they may be redeemed at local post offices or from the Treasury Department at Washington, and they are not subject to market fluctuations because the Treasury guarantees the price, which increases by a fixed amount—in the case of the interest-bearing securities—every month.
There are three kinds of Government Savings Securities: The 25-cent Thrift Stamp and the $1 Treasury Saving Stamp—neither bearing interest; the interest-bearing War Saving Stamp, and the interest-bearing $25, $100 and $1,000 Treasury Savings Certificates.
The 25-cent Thrift Stamp and the $1 Treasury Saving Stamp are issued to help people save enough to buy War Savings Stamps, and these latter, when enough have been bought, may be converted into registered Treasury Savings Certificates.
The $5 War Savings Stamp cost from $4.15 in January to $4.15 in December, increasing in value one cent each month. The value of the $25 Treasury Savings Certificate increases $25 each month, that of the $100 certificates twenty cents a month, that of the $1,000 certificates $2 a month. Like War Savings Stamps the certificates are redeemable at their full face value upon maturity; that is in five years from the year of purchase.

A Decorative Pen
For the writing desk or as a companion piece to the guest book, a pen with a feather quill for a handle makes a beautiful gift. Natural feathers are as marvelous and beautiful in their markings as flowers and those in neutral colors can be tinted if one wishes to brighten them. Many kinds of feathers, including those of the ostrich, are used for these decorative pens and they make a gift suited to every grown-up.

Oil Cloth Table Sets
No housewife will fail to enjoy the new table sets of oilcloth with their cheerful borders of gay flowers and fruits. They are much handsomer than the stenciled pieces and many women use them for the dinner as well as the breakfast table. These sets consist of a centerpiece, plate doilies and smaller doilies. The fruits and flowers in the set pictured are in their natural colors and the oilcloth in a deep cream color.

Santa Remembers Baby
Santa Claus never forgets the babies and each year presents their little belongings made in new and pretty ways. This year "nightingales" and bonnets seem even better than their predecessors. A set to match is shown above, made of fine laces and trimmed with narrow satin ribbon gathered along one edge and feather-stitched down. A frill of narrow lace finishes the cap.
