Reports say the end of the Coal strike is near, but it is still far enough to gouge the Coal Consumer.

The action of the Board of Commissioners in the sale of part of the County Home farm stirred the wrath of quite a big lot of Franklin County citizens, judging from the many expressions Monday.

Information comes to us that Counsel has been employed to institute legal proceedings against the Board of County Commissioners looking to the return of the property that has been sold. For this reason we will not discuss the matter further in print.

The people of Franklin County will learn with much satisfaction and pleasure that Hon. Josephus Daniels, the greatest Secretary of the Navy the United States ever had, will visit Louisburg and deliver an address at Franklin County Fair on October 4th.

A rumor given the TIMES the past week is to the effect that when the County Home property was deeded to the County it was conveyed to the County so long as it was used for County Home purposes. If this is true all the land that has been sold from the original tract will have to be returned.

The Board of Health at a recent meeting postponed the application of the compulsory vaccination to November 15th. This action, we understand, was taken because of the fact that the Board has no means of paying for the vaccination and they cannot force an order calling for an outlay of money without providing for the payment. A committee, we are told, went before the Board of Commissioners to ask that the Board appropriate 25 cents for each vaccination, but the Board did not see fit to do so at this time and deferred action. Vaccination is supposed to prevent disease, and has proven its worth in many test cases. It is also a fact that practically all who are able to pay for vaccination or to stand the cost of a spell of sickness have had their children vaccinated. Those who have not been vaccinated are the children of parents who are not financially able to pay for it or to stand the cost of a case of sickness. If vaccination will do what is claimed for it and what it has proved it will do in hundreds of test cases, isn't it our public duty to provide a means to give the protection to those children who cannot get it. Isn't it a wise investment on the part of the County to save this cost to the families who cannot afford it? The medical profession is to be commended for their willingness to contribute three-fourths of their charges to the cause and no one will ask that they do more. Let the County pay the other one-fourth.

GOMPERS SAYS INJUNCTION IS WRONG IN FACT

Wrong in Principle and Violates the Constitution—Criticizes Government—Accuses Daugherty of Exercising Power Never Dreamed Of in History Of The Republic.

Philadelphia, Sept. 4.—President Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor, in a Labor Day address, said that the injunction issued against the railroad shopmen last week was a violation of the constitution and the laws of the land. He characterized the action of Attorney General Daugherty as "exercising a power never dreamed of in the history of the republic." The veteran labor chief said the injunction was wrong in principle and in fact and was a confession that the shopmen have nearly won their strike. He urged that the unions furnish money to support the women and children of the men on strike. "The men must fight and take care of themselves," he declared. Criticizing Harding and Attorney General Daugherty were criticized by Mr. Gompers for the issuance of the injunction and he asserted that both had advocated legislation to bring about compulsory labor. The party of Lincoln which freed the slaves, said Mr. Gompers, is now trying to force compulsory labor on the whites and blacks. Mr. Gompers spoke under the auspices of the Central Labor Union of Philadelphia. In introducing the labor leader, John A. Voll, international president of the Glass Bottle Blowers' union, said that according to Washington dispatches labor leaders have been admonished to speak carefully or "the goblins would get them." He declared that the open shop is dead, "despite the efforts of the administration to rescue it from oblivion." Telling his hearers that he came to Philadelphia to deliver a message of hope and encouragement to men and women who believe in freedom, justice and democracy, Mr. Gompers declared that the present is the time when organized labor must more firmly resolve to stand for the declaration of independence and the constitutional guarantees of the republic. "In view of existing conditions and circumstances," said the veteran labor leader, "now is the time that tries men's souls to overcome tyranny and injustice and to maintain the fundamental principles of America."

Against Company Union

Mr. Gompers compared the labor movement of years ago with the present and asserted that a company union is "a company union dictated by the company and not by a workers' union." "We are not going to have any such unions, if we can help it," he declared, "and we can help it." The labor president said that after the war a drive was made by hostile forces among the employers to reduce wages, but that labor refused "to consent to bend the knee to any industrial autocracy."

"New American Plan"

The drive is also on for the non-union shop under the cloak of the open shop, he added, and some men are so treacherous as to call the open shop the "new American plan" for the purpose of reducing wages and the standard of living.

Compulsory Labor

Mr. Gompers asserted that Mr. Harding, as senator and President, and Attorney General Daugherty both advocated legislation that meant "compulsory labor." Despite the President's appeal to Congress on August 18, he declared, to put "teeth" in the railroad labor law, Congress has so far refused to do so and Mr. Daugherty resorted to the injunction, more far-reaching than any legislation. In doing this, Mr. Gompers asserted, he was "exercising a power never dreamed of in the history of the republic."

Questions Asked

When Mr. Gompers closed a man in the crowd who spoke with a foreign accent and said he was a member of the carpenters' union, asked him whether he thought there should be a general strike. "Better ask Burns, the detective," Mr. Gompers replied. "Do you or Mr. Burns run the federation?" the man persisted. "If that is a conundrum, I give it up," said the labor leader.

ARE ENTOMBED MEN TRYING TO SIGNAL?

Jackson, Calif., Sept. 4.—Jackson was still thrilled tonight with the report that explosions had been heard which apparently were answering signals from the 46 miners who have been entombed in the Argonaut mine for a week, although officials in charge of the work declined to discuss the matter and insisted Thursday was the earliest date on which the men could be reached. The list of men was reduced to 46 today by the discovery that one of the men supposedly under ground in the Argonaut mine had quit shortly before the explosion and gone to work at the Argonaut mine. As his name had not been taken off the Argonaut payroll, it was at first believed he was entombed.
