Sunday School Convention At Centerville

From officers of the Franklin County Sunday School Association comes the information that arrangements are being completed for the County Sunday School Convention to be held at the Baptist Church, Centerville, N. C. Saturday and Sunday, September 1 and 2, 1923.

The County President, Mr. G. M. Beam and the County Secretary Miss Edna Beasley are sending communications to Sunday School leaders of all denominations in the county, urging each Sunday School to have a large delegation at the Convention. It is expected that practically every Sunday School in the county will be represented.

Announcements concerning speakers and program for the convention will be sent out later. Several of the best Sunday School workers in the county will take part at different sessions of the convention.

In addition to the local talent Mr. D. W. Sims, of Raleigh, General Superintendent of the North Carolina Sunday School Association has been secured to speak at each session of the convention.

The Franklin County Sunday School Association under whose auspices the convention is being held, is an interdenominational organization. The County Association is one of the integral units of the North Carolina Sunday School Association, which is a cooperative effort of workers from the different denominations to extend and improve Sunday School work in North Carolina. The Association stands for those interests that are common to Sunday School workers of all denominations.

PASTURES FOR THE PIGS

Raleigh, N. C. June 27—"Experiments have shown and experience has proven that no farrier should attempt to raise pigs, unless he first plans a definite system of pastures. This permanent pasture should be available for the hogs thruout the summer months and where provision has not been made for it, soybeans or cowpeas can be used to advantage by making plantings at different periods during the year so that other grazing field will be provided as fast as one is exhausted," says Earl Hostetler, in charge of swine investigations for the State College and Department of Agriculture.

Mr. Hostetler states that to have a good permanent pasture, it needs to be seeded in the fall and a mixture of 14 pounds of orchard grass, 6 pounds of red clover, 4 pounds of white Dutch clover and 6 pounds of Alsike clover per acre will make a good mixture to use. Where the land is in bottoms, the Alsike clover may well be increased to take the place of red clover. A pasture mixture of this kind or a seeding of alfalfa, red clover and alsike clover can be used with good results over all North Carolina. There are numerous other grasses and legumes such as Bermuda, burr clover, lespedeza or red top that will furnish good grazing for hogs, but these are not nearly so palatable as the legumes mentioned and will not give as good results, thinks Mr. Hostetler.

He says, "Through the fall and winter months oats and rye make fine grazing and may be sowed between rows at last working of the crops. This not only economizes on the land under plow but serves the two-fold purpose of soil building and grazing. During the spring months, the sows and their litters will thrive on oats and rape pasture and the hogs will later harvest that grain not consumed while the oats were being grazed.

"Good pastures are essential in hog raising but it must be kept in mind that the animal's also need a good grain ration in addition."
