Death of Mr. J. H. Burnette

On July 6, 1923, Heaven's gates were opened wide to receive the soul of Mr. J. H. Burnette, better known as "Mr. Gee."

Mr. Burnette was born Dec. 17, 1838. He fought through the war Between the States and received only one wound. Was a devoted member of Sandy Creek Baptist church over forty years, and never missed services when he was able to get to church. He was a good neighbor, kind husband, and loving father.

In 1862 he was married to Miss Mary Nash. To this union was born eleven children, only four living now, seven having preceded him to the grave. Those living are: Mrs. J. T. Mason, Mrs. W. H. Joyner, and Messrs. J. H. and W. C. and several grand children to mourn their loss.

Our sympathy and prayers go out to the family in their sorrow and loss. May God bless them all, especially the widow, may all of them be a reunited family where "There is no more sorrow, pain, or death."

—A FRIEND.

THANKS

I wish to express my sincere thanks and appreciations to all those who so willingly and kindly assisted me in removing my household effects on Saturday night during the fire. Your efforts will be long and pleasantly remembered.

The "Co-Ops" are coming. No one who heard the report of the first year's results of the cotton and tobacco organizations can but know that these organizations are a success.

When you run an ad in The TIMES we know that you want a good ad, nicely displayed. That is the only kind of an ad we want to give you, but it takes a little time to set good ads so get out of that habit of waiting until the last day before even thinking about your ad.

WHO SKIMPED THE SUGAR BOWL

If I am bitter, writes Dr. Frank Crane, it was I who skimmed the sugar bowl. It is true many can be sweet though sick, but the majority of people who are sweet find it easy to be so because they are well.

Health is a matter of nerves. If the nerves are under pressure at the spine there is disease; irritation, bitterness—and those who know you best will say you are not natural, because you are sick. When the pressure at the spine is removed by chiropractic spinal adjustments you are easy once more, your natural self.

This country store—typical New England general store and postoffice—is doubly distinctive. In this building in Plymouth, Vt., President Calvin Coolidge was born on the Fourth of July in 1872. And it was in this store, possessing the only telephone in Plymouth, that the official news of Mr. Harding's death was received from San Francisco. As vice president, Mr. Coolidge daily tramped between his father's farmhouse and the store to get bulletins on the sick president's condition. Inset shows the president.

—PROMPT DELIVERY—

The president of the United States sitting on the front steps of his father's farm home in the village of Plymouth, Vt. The upper picture showing Calvin Coolidge and his wife and his father, John C. Coolidge, was taken the day before President Harding died. Below is the farmhouse, and the barn, skirting the road where the grass does serve as sidewalk; the place has been in the Coolidge family for generations. It was in this house that the new president, roused from sleep in the middle of the night by the news of Mr. Harding's death, took the oath of office, administered by his father in his capacity as a notary public.
