TEACHING KINDNESS TO CHILDREN.

The enactment of a state law in Oregon requiring that kindness to animals be taught in all public schools from 15 minutes to half an hour each week is attracting nationwide attention.

F. Rivers Barnwell, Field Worker of the American Education Society, enclosed a statement from S. M. N. Marrs State Superintendent of Education, Austin, Texas, to the school children of Texas as follows:

"I take pleasure in directing your attention to the fact that education in its broadest sense includes the training of the individuals in order that good character may be the main result. We cannot have good character unless we observe the 'Golden Rule' and the observance of the 'Golden Rule' should be made broad enough in its application to include animals as well as people.

"To this end I wish to endorse teaching of humane treatment of animals as a means of instilling into minds of children proper regard for feeling of others. If we can have the conception that the word 'OTHERS' includes all animal life we will have taken a long step toward world peace, for the individual who has this feeling and will apply the 'Golden Rule' will not be found advocating harsh treatment of individuals. It is the function of schools to make this contribution to education, and the organization of local societies which have for their purpose the protection of animals and children will contribute very largely to the uplift of social conditions."

BREAKING TURKEYS' WINGS.

A Chicago woman writes the Oregon Humane Society that each one of the last three turkeys she has bought has a wing that had been broken during its life time in about the same place. The turkey she bought last Christmas came from Texas and the broken wing had not healed, the bones piercing the flesh.

Both Texas and Oregon are great turkey-raising states, and she asks if it has not become a practice to break one wing, making them easier to catch for market.

If such cruelty can be established, humane people should be warned against buying turkeys from states that tolerate this form of cruelty to dumb creatures.

NEWS AROUND SCHLOSS.

Guess everybody will be glad to hear from Schloss, as they have not heard from it in quite a while. The people at Schloss have not done much work, because of so much cold and rainy weather.

Messrs. J. W. Smith, J. H. Smith and A. G. Hunt visited Mr. J. E. Tharrington's Sunday.

Mr. J. E. Tharrington has got a nice lot of stove wood for the summer. Guess he is going to warm.

Boys, remember this is leap year and it is time for the girls to go courting. But seems as "J. R. B." can't wait for the girls, as he is looking the grass-widowers.

Mrs. Hugh Smith, of Nashville, spent the week with her people near Alert.

Edward Hall visited Mr. Otha Tucker's Sunday.

We are having some pretty weather now. If it continues to stay pretty it will soon be warm enough to go fishing. And we are sure that most every body likes the fun of fishing.

Well if this escapes the waste basket we will call again in warm weather. Jack Sparrow.

COTTON MANUFACTURERS WANT ORDERLY MARKETING

Raleigh, March 17.—North Carolina Cotton Manufacturers are not opposers of the orderly marketing system and are not found fighting the Cotton Growers' Cooperative Association. Cotton Manufacturers are as much opposed to speculation in cotton and the violent fluctuations in the cotton market, brought about by speculators as are the members of the Cotton Growers' Cooperative Association. Recently one of the best posted men in this state, particularly with reference to the views held by the Cotton manufacturers, said, "It should be unnecessary to state that cotton manufacturers in the south vastly prefer a good price for cotton, and make more money when cotton brings a good price; also that violent fluctuation either up or down in the cotton mar-ketting are disastrous and puzzling to cotton mill managements. Considering the law of supply and demand, based upon what the public will pay for goods, your association has our best wishes in maintaining the price of cotton to the very top of the market."

When baby needs a pair of shoes, I wonder what store ma will choose, for that partic'lar size! When father must dress up his folks, in Easter hats or all-wool cloaks, who wins this gladsome prize? What lucky dealers get the cash that people spend for plows and hash; for clocks and luscious pies? Just look these very columns o'er; you'll find an ad from every store that's owned by Tradesmen wise. They offer things you want to buy at prices low for values high; their goods delight the eyes. Their plan's not new; they learned the trick when Pharaoh had but just one brick—"Be Prudent—Advertise."
