EVOLUTION

Some think they from monkeys came,
Jocco an old family name
That grandpa lived in bambo trees
And evolution by degrees
Was the great Jehovah's plan
To change this grandpa-monk to man.

Mr. Darwin's theory
Is most to far fetched for me.
I've watched tadpoles grow feet
And from this to frogs complete
But beyond I find no trace
To monk and then the human race.

From Callos long long time ago
There must have come some zoo or show

From which this great grandfather ape
Successfully made his escape
Shed his tail and shaved his face
So from him sprung the human race.

If so, monkes now in the cage
Are grandpas in their tender age
Captives of their own offsprings
Yet too much brute to feel the sting
Their great grandsons must keep the key

Till evolution sets them free.

Monkey blood may fill my veins
And I may have some monkey brains
But by heck I've reached the stage
I do not occupy a cage
Or when e're I come to town
See cats bow up and canines frown.

Surely I would hate to be
A grandpa in my infancy
Walk upon my hands and feet
Until my making was complete
In my great great grandsons care
Or think peanuts were vlandrs rare.

No one can make me believe
That from this source came Mother Eve

It should be plainly understood
She never was in monkey hood
She walks erect with ease and grace
No monkey in her not e'en a trace.

She is the fairest of the fair
And no evolutionist should dare
To say he has a right to claim
Jocco was her dadies name
From Adams rib she was designed
And is not of the monkey kind.

Ignorant—"What can I do to avoid falling hair?"
Advisor—"Jump out of the way."

This is a joke taken from "Judge," but if you have that problem yourself we would give you different advice: Go to the

SERVICE DRUG CO.
Wood, N. C.

and get a supply of Hair Tonic, by measure, or if you have a favorite brand get supplied with that.

That is also a good place to get your prescriptions filled or to get anything in the way of drugs.
