No Worms in a Healthy Child
All children troubled with worms have an unhealthy color, which indicates poor blood, and as a result, there is more or less stomach disturbance. GROVE'S TASTELESS CHILL TONIC gives freedom from two of these worms which enrich the blood, improve the digestion, and act as a general health-giving tonic to the whole system. Mothers will then know off or dispel the worms, and the child will be in better health. Pleasant to take. 5c per bottle.

Those who labor indoors, especially busy mothers need to develop a healthy outdoor hobby. This vegetable or flower garden, poultry yard or children's play ground offers such an opportunity and the body will be quick to respond, say home demonstration workers of the State College of Agriculture.

METHODS OF BOLL WEEVIL CONTROL

By Keeton Arnett
(For the National Boll Weevil Control Association)

New Orleans, May 28.—Confidence in the methods of boll weevil control as recommended by the scientists and experts of the United States Department of Agriculture and the State College of Agriculture is being demonstrated in virtually every section of the cotton belt where there is an organized movement to combat the pest.

While there is considerable effort on the part of some organizations and business concerns to obtain the use by farmers of poison mixtures which have been proven by the scientists to have little or no value as a means of boll weevil control the indications are that a great majority of the farmers who are using control methods are heeding the teachings of the scientists just as they heed the advice of the doctor when they are ill.

The argument has been presented that tests of poison have been made only under conditions in one locality. This argument is readily refuted by reports of the experiment stations in practically every state in the cotton belt which show that calcium arsenate used in dust form or in the home-mixed molasses mixture for the pre-square stage and the dust only after blooming begins, increase the yield per acre, increase the money value of the crop and decrease the cost of production.

The figures in the reports are based on tests conducted on plots where different kinds of poisons were used, checked against each other and against unpoisoned plots under the same conditions.

It is significant that the findings of the various experiment stations so nearly coincide. It also is significant that for the first time since the boll weevil invaded the United States the scientists have agreed on a definite plan of controlling the boll weevil and have combined in making the same general recommendations for the entire cotton belt.

The method of control which is being employed in the pre-square stage by a very large number of growers and which is recommended by the experts is the use of either calcium arsenate applied with cotton dusting machinery or shaken on the plants from a bag; or a mixture of one pound of calcium arsenate, one gallon of molasses and one gallon of water applied to the tips of the plants with a home-made mop, using about one gallon to the acre.

Determination for pre-square poisoning is made by a thorough daily inspection of the plants and when as many as twenty weevils to the acre are found, poisoning should begin. Poisoning in the fruiting stage should begin when as many as 10 to 15 per cent of the squares are punctured and calcium arsenate in dust form only should be used. The reason for waiting until so many of the squares are punctured is because of the probability of weather control and no damage is effected by the pest until the infestation passes that stage because the plant would naturally shed that many squares without infestation.

Therefore, poisoning in the fruit stage before 10 to 15 per cent of the squares are punctured is a needless waste of time and money.

JUDGE CLARK'S DEATH BRINGS ABOUT A LEGAL COMPLICATION

Up to Attorney General Manning To Decide Method of Selecting Permanent Successor to Chief Justice, As He Must Be Elected at Hands of the People—Governor to Appoint Successor for Period Until Man Is Elected.

Raleigh, May 21.—Cameron Morrison, as governor of North Carolina, will appoint the successor to the late Chief Justice Walter Clark, of the supreme court, this being the third time Mr. Morrison has been called upon to fill a vacancy in the personnel of the high tribunal. On previous occasions he filled the vacancies caused by the deaths of Justices Walker and Allen by the appointment of Justices Clarkson and Adams.

Because of the fact that the entry list for the primaries have closed, the election of the man whom Governor Morrison appoints will bring about a legal situation which the state board of elections indicated would be left to Attorney General Manning to work out. Under the law, the governor will appoint a successor to Chief Justice Clark, but this successor will have to stand for election at the next general election, and will then only serve out the unexpired portion of Mr. Clark's term, which is two years from January, 1925.

Legal Complications

No opportunity will present itself before the general election for this successor to be submitted for approval to the democratic voters unless some special arrangement is made to reopen the democratic party list or a special democratic primary is held to nominate a democrat to enter the November elections. In either case the appointee of Mr. Morrison may not desire to enter for election to the bench and there may be a number of candidates for the position. The correct method to be used will be left to the determination of the attorney general.

Governor Morrison may appoint one of the present associate justices as chief justice, in which case he would have to resign as associate to accept the higher post. In this event there will be two positions on the bench to be filled at the elections in November, chief justice and associate justice.

Two other courses also are open. In the event that the governor delays action in filling the post until 20 days before the general election, the party named would serve out the remaining two years of Chief Justice Clark's term and would not come up for re-election until the general election of 1926.

It was believed, however that Governor Morrison would not delay action as this would leave the court with only four justices until October. The other method would be for those desiring to enter for the office to have their names endorsed by at least 10 per cent of the voters qualified to pass on them in the primaries, declare as nonpartisans and enter the general election in this manner. This it was believed, would disqualify any democrats now holding office as associate justices, as they were named to their positions as democrats.

Speculation was rife here tonight as to the possible appointee of the governor, but it was believed that he would name one of the present associate justices, and then appoint some one to the bench as an associate justice, throwing two positions on the bench into the general elections. Associate Justices Hoke and Stacey were the names most mentioned here tonight as possibilities for the higher post. Justice Hoke, being the senior member of the court, having served 19 years, was considered as the most eligible appointee.

TO THE DEMOCRATIC VOTERS OF NORTH CAROLINA

W. A. Graham, a life-long democrat and successful farmer of Lincoln county, will appreciate your support of his candidacy for nomination in the primary Saturday, June seventh, to succeed him self as Commissioner of Agriculture.

Duties of the office make it impossible for him to see many of his friends, but if honored with their confidence at that time it will be his delight to reward their trust with the best services of which he is capable. Mr. Graham pledges himself to use every agency and position of the Department of Agriculture not only for the development of the North Carolina farms, but that the farmer's sons and daughters may have equal opportunity with that of any State in service and leadership in our agricultural advancement.

Reduced cost of production, wider and better markets, efficient police protection of our agricultural interests, and cooperation with all agricultural agencies will continue to be the leading objectives in his administration of the North Carolina Department of Agriculture.

The Lincoln county Democrats through a resolution presented by their County Convention unanimously endorsed Mr. Graham to succeed himself as Commissioner of Agriculture. adv. 5-30-1f

NOTICE!

TO THE TAXPAYERS OF FRANKLIN COUNTY

The law requires all property owners and citizens liable for poll tax to list their taxes with the tax listers. The tax list will be open until June 1st.

It has been the custom of a good many in this county not to list with the tax lister, but to go to the Register of Deeds later and give in their property. This practice cause a great expense to the county in getting the property on the tax books, as it calls for extra work.

This year those who do not list their taxes with the tax listers of their respective townships during the month of May will not be allowed to list at anytime as heretofore they have done.

This is to notify you that all persons failing to list their taxes during the month of May must suffer the penalty of law prescribed for such cases.

This is to your personal interest, kindly give it your attention

By order of the BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS.
