

V-1, Largest Submarine, Is Launched for U. S. Navy

Photo of the launching at Portsmouth, N. H., Navy Yard of the U. S. Submarine, V-1, which is twice as large as any built previously for the U. S. Navy. The big undersea fighter is the first of a fleet of nine that will be able to accompany the battleships in any weather and at any speed of which the fleet itself is capable. The exact radius over which the V-1 can operate is not made known but it is hinted that it can cross the ocean and return without replenishing its fuel. The vessel is 341 feet, 6 inches, over all, has a maximum breadth of 27 knots and a speed of 9 knots submerged, and a surface displacement of 3,164 tons. She will carry a crew of seven officers and eighty men.

The Railroad Labor Board
The United States railroad labor board finds itself very much in the same position that senate investigating committees were placed when witnesses refused to testify.

The board assumed jurisdiction in a dispute affecting wages and working conditions of the engineers and firemen on forty-three of the principal roads of the west, northwest and southwest.

The railroad men's unions refused to appear and submitted reasons, among which was one that Ben W. Hopper, the chairman of the board, was biased toward the unions. In the support of their contention that the chairman was not impartial, the unions submitted his public utterances.

It was alleged that chairman Hopper had defended the courts, had antagonized the idea that the supreme court should be subordinated to the legislative branch, that an effort was being made to bring railroad labor into an alliance with socialism and the strikes were an outrage on the public and worthless to employees.

This scarcely appears to be cause for questioning the fitness of Mr. Hooper to have a voice in deciding the dispute. Any man that believed otherwise would be disqualified.

Any man who believes that the judiciary should not interpret the laws and that the United States supreme court should not have authority to pass on their constitutionality would not be safe on the railroad labor board.

The railroad labor board was created by the transportation act of 1920. In section 310 it is provided that the board may invoke the aid of any U. S. district court when a witness refuses to obey a subpoena with the penalty punishment for contempt.

Hooper is going to see if this provision can be enforced. If it can't be, the railroad labor board's usefulness has ended.

The purpose of the board is to prevent strikes. A railroad strike is disastrous at any time. It would be especially so just now in the region affected in the present dispute just when agriculture is attempting to stage a comeback.

IN REMEMBRANCE KATIE BELLE GRIFFIN

There is no flock, however watched and tended,
But one dead lamb is there!
There is no fireside, howsoever defended,
But has one vacant chair!

There is no death! What seems so is transition.
This life of mortal breath
Is but a suburb of the life elysian,
Whose portal we call Death.

She is not dead,—the child of our affection,—
But gone unto that school
Where she no longer needs our poor protection,
And Christ Himself doth rule.

Not as dead shall we again behold her;
For when with raptures wild
In our embraces we again enfold her,
She will be alive.

But a fair maiden, in her father's mansion,
Clothed with celestial grace;
And beautiful with all the soul's expansion,
Shall we behold her face.
HER MOTHER.

Sick Headache

"I have used Black-Draught when needed for the past 25 years," says Mrs. Emma Grimes, of Forbes, Mo. "I began taking it for a bad case of constipation. I would get constipated and feel miserable—sluggish, tired, a bad taste in my mouth, and soon my head would begin hurting and I would have a severe sick headache. I don't know just who started me to taking

HAYES-LEMMON

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Clay Ranson announce the marriage of their sister Margaret Elizabeth Hayes to Mr. Robert Preston Lemmon on Saturday August second, nineteen hundred twenty-four, Brevard, North Carolina.

This was a marriage of much interest to the many friends of the bride and groom in both North Carolina and Virginia. The wedding was a very quiet one, taking place at 8:30 in the morning at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Ranson with only members of the immediate families present, Rev. Wallace Hartsell, pastor of the bride, officiating.

The bride wore a handsome going-away gown of navy blue crepe with coat, hat and accessories to match.

Mrs. Lemmon was originally from Louisville, N. C., but several years has made her home in Brevard.

Mr. Lemmon was reared near Lynchburg, Virginia, but for some years has made his home in Spencer, N. C.

The happy couple left soon after breakfast for Washington, New York and Niagara Falls, returning to Lynchburg, Va., for a two weeks visit with the parents of the groom, afterwards making their way home in Winston-Salem, N. C.

A STEP FORWARD

It has been charged frequently that we are a "Nation of sixth graders" because of the looseness of our laws governing compulsory education.

This is a matter that is clearly within the province of the state and many have been negligent in providing legislation to prevent the exploitation of our children.

Kansas and Wyoming have added to their state laws the requirement that children shall remain in school until they have finished the eighth grade, or until they have reached the age of sixteen.

Indiana has had a law for many years providing that no school child shall be employed in any gainful occupation and kept out of school until he is sixteen years old, without a permit from the school authorities allowing the deviation from the statutes.

States behind in their educational ideals have been slow to adopt this method, but gradually they will awaken to the need of giving children an eighth grade education, at least, even though compulsion is required.

People learn from doing and also from being done.

Men win arguments not by arguing but with frank discussions.

Keep in touch with the world if you don't want to be touched.

What you take out of life is precisely what you put into it, and no more.

PIN MONEY AND OUR WIVES

The term "Pin Money" dates back to the 14th century when pins were first invented.

They, for some unknown reason, were only allowed to be sold on two days each year and being hand made, were high in price. So it became a custom for money to be given to women at their marriage to be used for the purchase of pins.

Today pins are cheap but the custom of giving women small sums for personal expense still exists.

That was the 14th century; this is the 20 century. Today the women are political and social equals of men and should be financial equals as well.

As the head of your household she should own a checking account and not be given just "Pin Money."
