MUST DO BETTER MARKETING LEWIS TELLS FARM CLUB

Raleigh, August 11.—"We are past the day of recommending that two blades of grass be grown until the one first grown is successfully marketed. If the second blade is needed it will follow," says V. W. Lewis in an address recently delivered before the Craven County Farmer's Club.

"Economic production and efficient marketing rather than mass production and indiscriminate handling of farm produce will determine if our farmers are to continue to succeed. We have recently been putting this into practice in many eastern Carolina counties by urging that farmers take the hogs and poultry now on hand and market them to advantage. This has been done in several cooperative shipments.

"These demonstrations have shown the possibilities of these various crops that so far have proved helpful sidelines. Both of these projects will grow to larger proportions during the next few years—one limiting factor being for Eastern Carolina—the extent to which the growers will produce feed."

Mr. Lewis stated that farmers' clubs over the State could well act as agencies for determining the money crops to be grown in certain sections, to help correct economic ills in production and to sponsor the marketing of farm products.

"Good farming practice," he said, "leads successful farmers to not attempt too many money crops but to limit these, say, to three major crops and one smaller one—and then such farmers will become more efficient and will more nearly succeed with these."

Sunlight and Moonlight

Sun shines and the wind blows,
Through the woods and over the hills
The little children go.
They look for flowers and shady brooks and go to fishing with their lines and hooks.
They go through woods and never stop
And gather lots of forget me not.

The moon shines bright this beautiful starlight night.
When the stars are twinkling so across the sky the moon will go.
The children sleep sound the beautiful monolight night.
When at the break of day, they all awake and take their toys and begin to play.

When the moon goes down and the sun comes up the dew is sparkling on every buttercup.
And then the birds begin to sing
And the flowers begin to grow.
And when the children's work was done to the flower garden they would go.

WILL CONDUCT CAMPAIGN FOR PLANTING PECAN TREES

Raleigh, August 11.—The campaign begun by the State College extension division last year to popularize the pecan in North Carolina will be continued this fall. The Division of Horticulture and the Forester are uniting their efforts to have more pecan trees planted, especially in eastern Carolina.

In announcing this movement, H. M. Curran, Forester, states that pecan growing in this section is no longer speculative or experimental. Owners of established groves have made careful and thorough tests of the pecan as a profit earner and are satisfied with the outlook for the crop. The Experiment station of the State College and Department of Agriculture has determined what soils are most suitable, the best methods of propagating the trees and the best varieties of nuts for the different sections.

"All these facts are now within the reach of the prospective grower," says Mr. Curran. "The Tarheel farmer who sets out pecan trees now will not only increase his present income but will also leave a heritage to his children. August is not too early to arrange for planting. Select the place and begin as soon as possible to get the ground in shape to receive the trees. If the land is in a cultivated crop this will help to get in condition. If the land is fallow, turn it under in early fall, plant rye, oats or some winter legume to be plowed under in early spring. Pecan trees will pay well for all attention given them."

Mr. Curran states that those who wish to plant trees this fall should not wait too long to engage them. The county farm agent or the Division of Horticulture at State College will help prospective buyers in securing the best trees.

VACATION

Vacation is the time of cheer.
For it comes but once a year.
The children all laugh and sing,
When they hear the last school bell ring.
For they know it's time of cheer,
During vacation of each year.

The children take their lines and hooks
And off they go to look for shady brook
They carry their hats and story books,
To read while fishing in the brooks.
They catch their fish and home they run.
To tell their mother of their fun.

After vacation is gone,
The children return to school which seems like home.
They study hard and try to learn,
Before vacation again returns.

Millinery Mode Approves White Silk Bengaline

The vogue for heavy corded silk finds charming expression in the chapeau made of heavy white bengaline. The sectional crown as shown in the picture is a favorite for this little hat of corded white silk. There are some outstanding points of especially smart significance in this model. One is, that the bengaline covers a firm foundation, rather than being a soft sports type. The narrow side bandeau is an unusual feature. Silver ribbon is a very important factor in millinery this season. It lends its charm to this model, and an added touch of attractiveness is the white feather brush darting out from beneath the wee brim. In some instances white bengaline silk is combined with silvery white artificial satin, the fabric alternating in the sectional crown.

The human system is full of laughs, but too many folks never open up the check valve.
