Arts and Crafts Products on Sale at Williamston Fair

The Arts and Crafts Department of the District Fair at Williamston, Oct. 29-31, will exhibit and offer for sale hand made baskets, rugs, articles decorated in stenciling, tie dying, block printing, wax work, etc. This does not include fancy work unless it is something very unusual in design. Anyone having such articles for sale or exhibit should communicate with Miss Daisy Caldwell, Home Demonstration Agent, at Louisburg.

Justice Home Demonstration Clubs

The members of the Justice Girl's Club at the meeting Wednesday afternoon began work on some different stitches which are to be handed in at the next meeting. There were twenty three members present at this meeting. The girls met at two o'clock and were through with their work by three when the Woman's Club was called to order. There were only a few of the women present. Teachers and parents joined in the discussion of school lunches. Classes of foods and standards of weights and measures were reviewed. The members of this club expect to have their certificates for the nutrition project soon.

Mitchiner Woman's Club

Mrs. Mitchiner was hostess to this club Thursday afternoon. Twelve members were present and the afternoon was much enjoyed. The demonstration was culling poultry given by the demonstration agent. At the next meeting the club will go back to the work in nutrition.

Bunn

The Woman's club at Bunn has been an active organization for fourteen years. At the regular monthly meeting Friday afternoon it was voted to use the money in the treasury to partition one of the school rooms and to purchase playground equipment. Mr. Davis, who is principal of the school this year, addressed the club on "The most pressing needs of the Bunn School." Miss Caldwell reviewed the demonstration work that had been done and a discussion of the work for the winter followed.

Cedar Rock

Cedar Rock Girls' Club met Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 about twenty five members being present. Hemming, basting and convent stitches were practiced. Some of the girls gave a brief review of the work done by this club in the past. At the next meeting a new president and vice-president will be elected and a program made out for the year. Cedar Rock Club is especially fortunate in being in a school where there is a home science department.
