BULLETIN BOARD OF JAMES POST AMERICAN LEGION

The publicity chairman of the James Post is in receipt of the following letter that is, in itself, sufficient reason that now is the time for all sensible Legionnaires to file their Adjusted Compensation Claims. Read it and then fill out your claim without FURTHER DELAY.

Dear Buddy:
 I received your notice of the fact that the oldest our papers is filled out to once, we air libel to cause our benny fisheries a grate loss when they lose us both financially and endearingly, and I tried my level best to git mine filled out last Sat, but it were in vane. I is what I calls a Agricultural Demmycrat. By that I mean that I is a Honest Tiller of the Soil, whereas a Agricultural Republican is a Dishonest Soller of the Till, jedging from the Teapot Dome Scandal. To yuse a everyday expression I be a farmer.

Well, last Sat. I went to Louisburg to git Sam Boddie to fill out my Adjusted Compensation Claim, and to git a hair cut. I decided to git a hair cut both on my face and head first. I kaint git to town cept on Sat, cause I am too busy endurin the week pickin cotton and strippin tabacco to sell on the best market in this hear section, sed market bein Louisburg. I together with a shop full uv other busy men (I counted twenty two bootleggers in thar) had come to town to git our fortnitely tonsorial tribulations alleviated, and we had had all waited like our creditors, that is to say a blamed long time. Suddenly auto suggestun told me that I needed a bath, so I giv up my place in the line uv torture and retired to the siflower bath. I give my shoes to the boot black and told him to make Sunday Shoes outen my every day ones by applyin that air stuff called Nu Shine. I thot that by leavin my shoes thusly, I wood save a few minutes time, I thought. After I had trod my weary way inch by inch in my bear feet over a yard of live coals in front of the stove, I arrived at the bath. After a intermittent serease of fust scaldin hot and then ice cold water, I emerged to enter the shop and git trimmed up fer Sunday. When I started through the curtain pertition, I spied a covey of female gals in the barber shop, and thar I wuz in my socks with no shoes to put on. It took an hour of broad castin to git the boot blacks attention and recover my dog houses. After three more hours waitin I got a seat in a chair presided over by a near wit. He said that a barber in the next chair to him had a lady customer that wanted a neck shave, and his friend didn't no how to shave a ladies neck, so he told him 'ef he couldnt do it to let Clem Shaver. While laffin at his jestful alibi, he clicked my neck with his clippers. I had got one forth of my hair cut and the barber had emtied his apron twist, when in comes Bill Overdue's grand ma to git her hair bobbed. I surrendered my seat to her, and waited another hour fer her to decide whuther to git a boylish bob or a Dutch Cut. I felt like I was the one gittin dutched but didnt say nuthin but I shore was glad that she warnt a mind reader. I read the Ladies Home Journal, whilst a flapper in the next chair red the Police Gazette, and a little gurl six yrs. old on the tother side uv me wuz readin Whiz Bangs.

I resumed my seat after two ours, and after the barber choked me half to death with the apron, I was rewarded by gittin my locks shorn. Then I was laid out fer a shave. Just as I was all lathered and purty well fed up on soap, in comes a K. O. Brunette, and onct more I done the Sir Walter Raleigh act and giv up my seat. She sot down and sed, "Ma Sells Waves." He replied, sayin "Nom, she sells fish." I still acted prelitte and laffed. She sot, and axed for a Water Wave. Well, two men in the chairs next to her was perlitte enuf to swallow there chewin tobacco, when she set down, and purty soon they got so sea sick a watchin her git a water wave and digestin of the tobacco, that they had to be took to the doctor's office. By now I had missed my supper, and had decided that ef the women kept comin in and takin my chair, I wood die of old age or starve to death, before I could get my Adjusted Compensation

Claim filled out. I had jes got all set agin and was peepin out frum under the lather, when I saw a purty lats clad in silk, peepin out frum under a grey serge skirt. Boy, I jumped out uv that chair determined to give the owner of that leg every chair in the shop ef she wanted it. When I had bowed and offered her my seat, and got so I could see, I was shore knocked cold. The owner of the beauty pin was one of these hear durned female hees, with its socks rolled, and dressed in ballon breeches. But for spillin my war record I wud a bumped him off on general principles.

Finally I got out 11 P. M. with ten miles of bad roads in front of me. I had donated $1.75, three square inches of skin, and had been stuck in the left eye by the barbers fraternity pin whut he got at the Barbers College where he grajewated. When I reached my Ford the night cop was waitin fer me and pulled me fer leavin my dumb beast parked fer 11 hours in one place. I tried to explain to him how come it, when he smelt the blamed hair tonic that the Smart Alex had insisted on bapthism me with, and he arrested me again fer being drunk offen distilled persimmon brandy. He then grafted me fer $27.00 additional, which wuz all that I had left, but I was mighty glad to git away frum town and back to nature. Still I hadnt had time to fill out my forms fer my Adjusted Compensation Insurance. When I got home my Old Lady was settin up awaitin fer me. She wuld not listen to my explanation of the Oil Scandal on My Dome, no more than I had been to the Demmycratic Convention. Well, she pulled out what few hairs on my head that the barber missed, and ever sense I have bin spendin $2 per week fur hair restorer, what that same barber sells me.

Now, buddy, ef you has any influence in Louisburg, please ax the ladies to git their barberin done on Mon., Tues., Wed., Thurs., Fri., and fur the sake of us pore workin folks, leave us one day in the week, namely Sat., when we can come to town and git our business tended too, and OUR barberin done.

Comrade, we sympathise with you fully, but try it again and the next time get your Adjusted Compensation Blank filled out FIRST. The time is getting shorter, if your hair is not, and we are apparently more anxious to fill out every Ex-Service man's blank in our county, than they are anxious to get them filled out. Just remember that:

So the wise folks say,
 a stitch in time, will save nine,
 But tomorrow is NOT today.
 We are anxious and willing to fill out all of them. Yours for promptness,
THE JAMBES POST.
