THIS WEEK'S CROSS WORD PUZZLE

"Hello!" This cross-word puzzle hails from Newport, Oregon. It is dedicated to Miss Iola Millen, Long Beach, California. The arranger, Mr. Earl L. Wriggt, claims that it beats anything and everything except a carpet. We don't know whether it would beat everything but a carpet, but we do know that it is a mighty good puzzle. It's easy, interesting, and has a nice design. If you can't work it out in 45 minutes you're not so good, because the longest word in the puzzle has only six letters.

ETIQUETTE

by FLO. Readers desiring personal points of Etiquette or heart affairs may write Flo, care of this newspaper, enclosing a self addressed and stamped envelope.

Dear Miss Flo: Should a finger bowl be used after the fruit course? (2) May a lady who has an escort dance with any other gentlemen? (3) When a young lady gives a gentleman permission to correspond with her, whose place is it to write the first letter? After meeting a person for the first time whose place is it to say, "I'm glad to have met you." What should the reply be? I don't care for a personal answer.

Thank you, E. L. M.

(1) A finger bowl should be used after a fruit course. (2) A lady may dance with her gentlemen. However, the gentleman who wishes to dance with the lady should first ask permission of her escort. (3) One would rather expect the gentleman to write the first letter. However, if the lady is going away, it is quite permissible for her to write the gentleman first. (4) The person leaving first should say "I'm glad to have met you." The other person may reply, "Thank you," and if she wishes also express pleasure at the meeting.

M. M. D.

It is the woman's privilege to speak first. However, in your case, there should be no question as to who should speak first. The greeting should be almost simultaneous.

Dear Miss Flo: When gentleman gets his check in a restaurant is it proper for him to verify it, when he is host at dinner party. (2) Which seat should the host occupy at a theatre party? (3) If a gentleman stops to speak to a lady in the theatre is it necessary for the lady to introduce him to her escort? (4) If a neighbor's hat is annoying the person who is sitting back of her in the theatre is it proper to ask the lady to remove her hat?

Thank you, R. T.

(1) A gentleman should not give any member of his party a chance to see the amount of the bill, and should not make himself conspicuous by adding up the items on the check. On the other hand, to pay the bill without first verifying its correctness in hardy practical. To prevent any embarrassment, it is always a good plan to arrange to take care of the check privately, either before or after the party, whenever it is possible to do so. If this is impossible, the only thing to do is to glance over the bill quickly and quietly. If there are any errors, the head waiter may be called and the readjustment made without confusion or noise. (2) The host at a theatre party takes the seat nearest the aisle. He is the last person to sit down. (3) The lady should introduce the two gentlemen. (4) It is quite permissible to request a neighbor to remove her hat. However, it should be done quietly and politely.
