

AT THE CAPITOL

er Gilliam Grissom, gives out the pleasing information (to those interested) that North Carolina corporations will be required to pay no capital stock tax to the United States Government during the next fiscal year, due to a change in the law. However, it is the federal and not the state law which has "undergone a change."

John D. Berry, grand secretary of the North Carolina Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows for many years, who expected to retire the first of July, has been requested by Grand Master Spaulding to continue to administer the affairs of the office until the first of September. Chas. G. Smith, elected as the successor of Mr. Berry at the last session of the Grand Lodge with the idea of transferring the office to Goldsboro, resigned before he got started and the Grand Master decided to take a few weeks time in picking another grand secretary. Grand Lodge officers will be called in conference before a final conclusion is reached. It is generally conceded that Mr. Berry is the best fitted member of the order for the position and that he can have the job again "without the asking." But he has likely made, or plans business connections which would prevent his continuance as grand secretary even if requested to do so, which is quite likely.

North Carolina is still classed as one of the wealthiest internal revenue tax districts in the United States, according to Collector Grissom, who reports collections for the fiscal year to be $192,859,000, or more than twenty-five million dollars more than was collected during the preceding fiscal year. The tobacco tax paid by North Carolina establishments aggregates $170,000,000 and the cost of the government for collecting it was only 10 cents a hundred dollars, the lowest reported by any other collection district in the entire country.

Chairman Brownlow Jackson, of the State Republican Executive Committee, has adopted a brand new plan or organization by dividing the State into zones and naming a manager for each zone. Six of these zones are to be created, with the eastern headquarters in Greensboro, Northeastern at Wilkesboro, Southeastern at Charlotte, Western at Asheville and Mid-west at Hickory. Johnson J. Hayes, national committeeman, is cooperating with Chairman Jackson, having recently visited the points mentioned and carefully explained the proposed new system to local committees. With Jackson to do the planning and Hayes the talking State republicans hope to make a better showing this year than usual.

"The healthiest in the Union" is the response to inquiries touching North Carolina received at the State Department of Agriculture. And it is not exaggeration either.
