Things You Should Know

"TUBBY" MEN

There are so many of them and the number seems to be increasing. They are graduates of the six o'clock dinner university. They are also Knights of the Swivel-chair; they may belong to the Don't Worry Club. They move about on foot when they find it impossible to ride on cushions. With every puff of shortened breath, they announce the badly-neglected sewer they carry around with them. No, Madame, I'm not talking to you; I know better than to tell a woman she's tubby.

I have been a sufferer from this acquired deformity, and, know whereof I speak. It came upon me by stealth; people said to me, "How wonderfully healthy you look; you are getting fatter every day." People love fat things.

Suddenly I was attacked one day on the street—I felt that I was dying! My pulse registered 145, weak and irregular. I "sat up and took notice" from that hour. Careful investigation revealed that I was suffering from a steady, slow-acting poison—Idios. This toxin forms in a neglected colon, and gradually undermines the entire circulo-vascular system—the circulation. Had I expired, the newspapers would have said that I died of heart disease; it would not have been true; death would have been due primarily to that 48 waist-band of mine, and the load of poison inside it! Just as many a "tubby" man dies today, from putrefying substances in a neglected colon. I have patience with laying the blame on the heart, when it is simply poisoned to death from the sewer!

It took me over two years to recover from a condition which would certainly have killed me. I used a mixture of the sulphates of magnesium, soda, lime and potassium for a "house cleaner" and I still clean house with it every day. I quit eating enormous lots of sweets, cake, preserves, etc.

OUR RALEIGH LETTER

By M. L. Shipman

Raleigh, May 16—The probe of charges filed against Raleigh policemen and the investigation of the attorney general of the charges of graft in the administration of the state health board were the outstanding matters of interest during the week in the Capital city. These two hearings continued the excitement which was created by the election. In addition, Raleigh folks were interested in the local tax collection situation and other matters.

W. E. Wilson, senior student at State College and one of the outstanding men at the college, created quite a sensation by charging in an editorial in a college paper that Raleigh policemen were selling liquor and collecting speeding fines and dividing them. He was summoned before the grand jury to substantiate his charges and, while official action will not be taken until the term of court a month away, it is understood that five policemen were indicted by the grand jury. At any rate five sealed indictments were returned in the case and, under the law these can not be opened until the next term of court. Specifically the student charged that a speeding fine had been collected and split three ways and police records show that he was arrested for speeding but not prosecuted. The other charges is that a sale of liquor to a prominent citizen and names have been called. The case has created quite a sensation in police circles and had to come before the election might have changed considerably the outcome in which the incumbents were returned to office.

The investigation of the health board activities was started in the last two days of the week by Attorney General Brummitt on orders of Governor McLean. The hearing continued the early part of the week and an announcement of the decision is expected in the near future. The evidence submitted the first two days was decidedly favorable showing that the board has been very strict in enforcing the sanitary laws. The evidence adduced today is a little more serious with Senator Rivers Johnson occupying the center of the stage.

Another move to test the validity of the new land laws has been taken in the injunction granted restraining Sheriff Turner of Wake county from selling any property or advertising it for sale for taxes before the 24th day of May. This is the third such suit started against county commissioners and it is expected that the matter will be decided during May. Under the law, the sheriff is required to begin advertising at once and to sell immediately if taxes are not paid.

There is considerable interest in Raleigh in the Brown will case now under fire in Superior court at Washington, N. C. Relatives of the late Judge George A. Brown are trying to break the will on the allegation that he was insane when it was drawn. A half million dollars is involved and it was left in its entirety to Mrs. Brown. Sisters of the deceased, nephews and others are trying to get a share.

Pearley H. Wade, of Dunn, a prominent farmer of this section of the State was killed by his wife last week, she alleging that the shot was fired in self-defense after the husband had been drinking steadily and had quarreled with her throughout the night. Another chapter in the real estate collapsed boom of Western North Carolina has been written in a suit filed here by J. W. Blalock against the Laurel Park Estates of Hendersonville alleging that he was sold a lot for $2,500 and that fraudulent methods were used in getting his consent to the transaction. He alleges he paid $1000 cash and three notes of $500 each and asks the return of his money and surrender of the three notes.

A. W. George of Surry county, former banker, has been granted a certain amount of clemency by Governor McLean. A five year sentence has been cut to three and he will get out of the pen in a few months. He was a school teacher for a number of years and bore a fine reputation in the community until he ran afoul of the banking laws. It is the first time Governor McLean has granted any clemency to a banker in states prison.

Bank resources of North Carolina showed a decline during the past year. This is the first time there has been a decline in resources in several years but notwithstanding this drop of about $12,000,000 in total resources the banks are in a healthy condition. The local Western Union office is being shaken up and M. W. Armistead, who has served for 25 years as
