Organization of Young Tar Heel Farmers of Gold Sand High School

The vocational agricultural students of the Gold Sand High School have organized a local chapter of Young Tar Heel Farmers, a state-wide organization for students of vocational agriculture in North Carolina. The following officers were elected: President, Walter Fuller; Vice-President, Thurman Griffin; Secretary, Thomas Perdue; Treasurer, Ruffin Harper; Reporter, Fuller Parrish; Advisor, Fred U. Wolfe, Teacher of Agriculture. The executive committee consists of the officers and Burt Perdue, Grey Lancaster and Perry Conn. The following were appointed as a program committee: Aubrey Gup-ton, Thurston Smith and Astor Parrish.

The purpose of the Young Tar Heel Farmers Organization is to create more interest in agriculture and a higher respect for the business of farming, to promote thrift among vocational agricultural students, to encourage scholarship, leadership and promote projects for recreation and community improvement.

There are three grades of membership in the Young Tar Heel Farmers organization, namely: Green Hand, Farmer and Carolina Farmer.

Green Hand. To become a Green

Hand the student must be fourteen years of age or the mental equivalent, enrolled in an all-day course in agriculture, possess suitable facilities for carrying out satisfactory farm practice and receive a majority of the votes of the members of the local chapter.

Farmer. To be elected to the degree of Farmer the student must have completed one year's work in agriculture including satisfactory supervised farm practice, at least $50 earned and on deposit or otherwise productively invested, regularly enrolled in an all-day class with plans for an enlarged program of supervised farm practice, lead the class in a five minute discussion when called upon to do so, recite the Country Boy's Creed and receive a majority of votes from the members of the chapter.

Carolina Farmer. The qualifications for the degree of Carolina Farmer, the highest rank in the organization, are as follows: The student must have completed at least two years of agriculture with outstanding supervised farm practice, at least $300 earned and on deposit or otherwise productively invested, be able to lead a group successfully for twenty minutes, possess outstanding qualities of leadership, make the high school debating or judging team, make an average of eighty-five or more, pass a subject matter test on agriculture given by the State supervisory staff, and be familiar with parliamentary procedure by having held office in the local chapter. The members of this degree will be elected annually at the State meeting, the number receiving degrees each year being limited to twenty-five from the entire State.

The Adventure of a Cotton Seed (Pattle Ruth Moore, '30)

One beautiful spring morning I was lying dreaming in Farmer Jones' big pack house, when, suddenly the door few open, and in came the hired boy after a bushel of cotton seed to plant an acre for experiment, using some test guano which had been sent out by a factory in Durham.

After the ground was prepared, I was placed in a cotton planter with some more cotton seed, and a few moments later, found myself covered with dirt. This was very disagreeable to me, so I began to move around and push as hard as my strength would allow, and in a few days, found myself peeping out into the beautiful sunny world once more. My, how glad I was!

When we had grown to be about three inches high, some hands came into the field and began to chop out the small shabby looking stalks, so I tried to stand up and look as good as possible. A cotton stalk which had come up in the same hill that I was in, had grown to be a very close friend of mine, but when the choppers came along, they took my pal away from me; it was hard for us to part, but I was glad they took her instead of me, since one or the other had to go. I was very lonely at first, but soon got used to it and did my best to make a fine stalk of cotton. This time luck came my way, that is, I escaped being bothered with that terrible insect, the boll weevil. I was very successful in my attempt of making good, and by the middle of September, fifty-two bolls were hanging on my stalk, ready to be picked. As I was standing in the field in all my beauty and luster of snow white locks, Uncle Ricks, an old colored man, came to the field and began picking, and in less than a weeks time, every stalk in the field was bare.

On Saturday morning the horses were hitched, and we were loaded on the wagon and carried to the gin. After reaching the gin, the first thing we had to do was to go through a large pipe; this was lots of fun and a good ride, but on a little further, such dreadful teeth and rollers, I never saw before. I never expected to come out of that terrible machine alive, but as it happened I wasn't mashed quite to death. After going through the gin, my lint was tied up with some more lint, in a bag and ties put around us. We are still in the bale now, waiting to be shipped to the New England States for manufacture.

THE PREVALENCE OF CANCER

The latest statistical information collected and published by cities, states, and the national government goes to prove that cancer stands fourth as the cause of death among the citizens of this country.

Cancer of the stomach causes 32 per cent of the cancer death rate; cancer of the female genital organs causes 14 per cent; cancer of the breast causes 9 per cent; cancer of the skin causes 3 per cent.

Cancer authorities agree that there are at least 300,000 cases of cancer in the United States today. North Carolina has more than 6,000 people every year ill from cancer, and every day there are in the State four deaths from this disease.

While children and young people have cancer, the disease attacks men and women beyond the age of 35 more often than prior to that time. Among all deaths in men between the ages of 45 and 70, one in eight is due to cancer and among all deaths in women between 45 and 65, one in five is due to cancer.
