BERRY KING SHOOTS BROOKS ARNOLD

Brothers-In-Law Fall Out In Drunken Spree and One Kills Other; Bound Over Without Bond

Berry King was bound over to October term Franklin Superior Court without bond Monday by Squire J. L. Palmer for the murder of Brooks Arnold, which occurred Saturday night about 8:30 o'clock near the homes of both parties at New Hope, about eight miles south of Louisburg, as the result of a drunken brawl.

From the evidence it seems that Arnold helped King fill his tobacco barn Saturday morning with an agreement that King would help Arnold distill a barrel of cider Saturday afternoon. Each were on friendly terms when the agreement was made and while each part of it was executed. However during the evening while the stilling was in progress and after both parties drank to excess, from the still they went to Arnold's home, and in the meantime King went to his home about one hundred yards away, he said to get a jug, others said to get a pistol, and returned to Arnold's. An argument ensued, bad words passed. Both parties with others present left Arnold's home to go to King's home. Arnold stating he was going after his wife who was at Kings. When about half way between the two homes the climax came when Arnold was shot, and died in a few minutes, by King. King's evidence showed that he turned, went home, got his wife and little boy and went to his grandfathers without knowing he had shot Arnold. Other witnesses stated he said after shooting Arnold "Damn you, if that ain't enough I'll give you more."

Arnold was taken by Mr. Mitchell, who had been trying to quiet the two, and was started for a doctor, but he died before he had gone but a short distance.

Sheriff F. W. Justice was notified and he went at once to the home of Mr. J. B. King where he found Berry and placed him under arrest bringing him to Louisburg and placing him in jail.

King is 22 years old and has a wife and one little child and is a son of Mr. Mance King. His wife is a sister to the dead man. Arnold was 23 years old and leaves a family. He was a son of the late A. W. H. Arnold. The evidence indicated the two men had been the closest of friends for many years.

The State was assisted by Messrs. Ben T. Holden and Yarborough and Yarborough, and the defense by Messrs. Malone and Malone.

Monday night robbers broke into the store of W. S. Pernel at Alert and took away a lot of flour, sugar, cigarettes and other articles besides about $12 or $15 in cash. Sidetracked

Here is the way the Hoover organization treats even those few friends of the farmer who are trying to remain within the Republican party. Claude H. MacKenzie, the present Republican National Committeeman from Minnesota, was pre-convention manager of the campaign of Governor Lowden in his state. Notwithstanding the fact that he is national committeeman, Mr. MacKenzie and most of his associates have been swept aside by Republican national headquarters, and conduct of the campaign in that state put into the hands of men who never made the mistake of offending Mr. Hoover by championing the cause of the farmer. This is not a surprising development to the leaders of farm organizations, who have been bumping up against the hostility of Mr. Hoover at Washington at every turn during the past eight years of fighting for equality. But as a warning to farmers of the sort of consideration and treatment they may expect at the White House should Mr. Hoover be elected, the incident ought to be enlightening.

New Meat Market

Mr. L. P. Hicks has added a meat market to his popular grocery business on the corner of Main and Nash streets. In Memoriam

In memory of our dear father and husband, Mr. H. C. Dickerson, who departed this life four years ago, September 7, 1924.

What would I give to clasp his hand, His happy face to see, To hear his voice, to see his smile That meant so much to me.

Gone dear father, gone forever; How we miss your smiling face, But you left us to remember, None on earth can take your place.

A happy home we once enjoyed, How sweet the memory still, But death has left a loneliness, The world can never fill.
