EDITORIAL

It now looks, judging from reports from Washington, that the tobacco grading bill will become law. This will become effective on markets upon approval by patrons of the market.

The editor of the TIMES has just noticed in a Raleigh dispatch, that Revenue Commissioner Maxwell says the law has never required nor the Revenue Department has never ruled that the Sales tax had to be added to the price of an article as a separate item. Merchants are at liberty to add it into the sale price the same as transportation costs or any other item of cost. This, to our mind, will relieve a big misunderstanding in this section and save the merchants and public much work and worry.

Big efforts are being made for the pardon of Col. Luke Lea. Possibly there may be much merit in the many appeals, but what is the use of having a law, spending money to apprehend, try and convict a violator and then relieve them of the punishment by the application of a pardon or parole. We sympathize with many of the criminals in serving their sentences but we can't help believe there would be more respect for and confidence in all laws if there was better enforcement both in conviction and serving sentences after conviction. It would be better to repeal half the laws, be more sure of convicting the right person and then forget paroles.

UNWISE

The action of those representing themselves to be the Drys in attempting to stop the voters in expressing their views and wishes on the question of whiskey control is hasty and unwise. The American government is built up upon the principles of Democracy, and it has been demonstrated time and again the people will not be arbitrarily governed. They have both a legal and moral right to have a "say" in their government, and just as often as they wish with few restrictions, and when this right is denied resentment is the result. No reasonable minded citizen wants a law that is unconstitutional to stand, even though he believes in the principle of the law. The test of this law could just as easily and effectively been made after the election as before. And it might not even be necessary at all as the voters might not have approved the Control. And the argument that it will save the County expense is "bosh." The election was called in good faith, under a law passed by the Legislature and the officials have or will have discharged most of their duties, which of course will have to be paid for and the cost of appearing in Court with attorneys will amount to more than the election costs. It certainly doesn't seem good judgment to attempt to keep the election officials from receiving what little pay they get for the important duties they perform, if this is what is meant by saving the County money. The action is unwise and unfair to all the public officials involved and especially to the voters who are entitled to some opportunity to express their wishes as to matters of government.

GRADUATES OF 1935

The colleges and universities of the nation have just turned out the largest crop of graduates in all their history. Practically every one of these young men and women is looking for a job. Many, perhaps most of them, will have a good deal of difficulty in finding satisfactory employment. Some of them will turn bitter and wonder what good their education has done them, if they cannot immediately obtain positions above the grade of filling station attendants. That is the usual first reaction of a high proportion of college graduates in their first few years of trying to fit themselves into the social scheme.

We think this is the result of over-emphasis upon the economic purpose of education. We do not know that the schools are to blame for the prevalent idea that a boy or a girl goes to college primarily to become fitted to earn "big money." We do not know of any university which teaches that the world owes a living to its graduates merely because they are graduates. It happens, however, that the economic standard is the one by which most people are inclined to measure everything.

The real purpose of education, as we understand it, is to fit men and women to understand and appreciate the realities of life. Those who come out of college equipped with such understanding and appreciation realize that contentment and happiness are measured by other standards than the size of the pay-check. They are the ones who get the greatest and most lasting benefits from their university courses.

SHIRRED JABOT FROCK

Pattern 8481: Shirrings are so popular this season and so much in the fashion picture that every one of us wants a bit of shirring here or there on this dress or that.

The larger woman who does not go in for too much flattery trimming will like the smart frock sketched which has its bit of shirring in the white jabot attached, as it logically should be, to the tab extension in the waist.

The V neckline is neither too low nor too high for the full figure, and small tucks on the shoulder add to the softness of the blouse.

One may use this pattern for a housefrock, too, by using the short sleeves given. The skirt has slenderizing panels in the front and back.

This frock would be nice in printed silk for the street, or in cotton for home wear.

For PATTERN, send 15 cents in coin (for each pattern desired), your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE to Patricia Dow, The Franklin Times, Patterns Dept., 115 Fifth Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The crop of red clover hay in Piedmont Carolina is reported to be above the average for this season.
