Sensational Technicolor Comedy
NOTHING SACRED
Charles Winninger, Walter Connolly

Screen story by BEN MCHET
Directed by ALFRED HITCHCOCK

and a grower who produced tobacco in only two of the last three years will be given an allotment equal to only part of his average production in the two years. From such base 1938 adjustments will be made.

"It will be noted that in making allotments from the new program, the committee will not be confined to the one factor of past production, but is given a rather broad and comprehensive formula to the end that fair and just allotments may be made.

"Producers whose acreage does not exceed the acreage allotment under the agricultural conservation program will receive the benefits provided in that act under which acreage allotments will be made to each farm. The new bill deals only with poundage allotments. I am sure that the department will make every practical effort to fix acreage allotments under the soil conservation program so as to result in production as nearly in line as possible with poundage allotments under the new bill. If, therefore, producers comply with the acreage allotments under the act, they need not have any fear of material penalty under the other and will at the same time be eligible for payment under the agricultural conservation program.

"The new act provides for the issuance of regulations under which poundage allotments may be transferred from one grower to another. In the event a grower on account of hail or for other causes fails to produce his poundage allotment and his neighbor or some other grower makes an extraordinarily good yield which results in his exceeding his allotment, under proper regulations a transfer of the allotment will be permitted.

Majority Leader Barkley (D-Ky.) assured tobacco growers today that the ever-normal granary program would be "satisfactory to the tobacco growers of the country."

Barkley, in a statement, said that the bill's provisions "are designed to stimulate and stabilize the prices of tobacco and I may give the assurance also that this measure will be completed and enacted in ample time to affect the crop of tobacco to be grown in 1938 and ought to have a desirable effect on the price of unsmoked tobacco of previous crops."

COOLEY EXPLAINS FARM BILL

cent below the acreage which could have been grown with maximum participation or diversion under the program.

"Under the provisions of the bill, not in excess of five per cent of the national quota may be set apart and allotted to farms on which for the first time in five years tobacco is produced to be marketed in the year for which the quota is effective, and for further increases of allotments to small farms upon the basis of the following: Land, labor and equipment available for the production of tobacco; crop rotation practices; and soil and other physical factors affecting the production of tobacco. The farm marketing quotas for farms on which tobacco is produced for the first time in five years may not exceed 75 per cent of the farm marketing quotas for farms which are similar with respect to the factors mentioned above. This means that the new grower's allotment may not be more than 75 per cent of the allotment of an old grower, similarly situated.

"The bill will be administered by the secretary through local committees of farmers which in making allotments, will take into consideration in addition to land, labor, equipment and other factors mentioned, the past production of tobacco upon the farm. In considering past production as a factor, they will in all probability take into account the average amount of tobacco produced upon a particular farm during the last three years. This means generally that a grower who produced tobacco for the first time in 1937 would not be given all of his poundage production as a base

FACTS ABOUT PNEUMONIA

By Dr. H. B. Hayward

A recent study of pneumonia shows an average of 96,500 deaths a year. This represents an annual rate of 77 per 100,000 population and places pneumonia fifth as a cause of death. If it should be combined with influenza, the average annual death rate would be 100, this placing this group close to cancer and near the second place. At least 85 per cent, or 500,000 of the pneumonia cases estimated as occurring each year are caused by pneumococci. There are thirty-two recognized types of pneumococcus which are identified by the swelling reaction of their capsules, when mixed with the specific rabbit serum of their type.

Types 1, 2, 3, 5, 7, and 8 are the most common types and probably account for about seventy per cent of the cases and eighty-five per cent of the deaths that are due to pneumococci. Anti-pneumococcal serums have been developed for pneumonia due to types 1, 2, 5, 7 and 8 pneumococci.

To be most effective, serum must be given during the first four days of the illness. The results from serum administration are, therefore, most successful if given at the time of the earliest recognition of symptoms.

In a series of one thousand cases at a metropolitan hospital, of serum and non-serum treated cases, these results were striking:

Serum-treated death rate
Type 1	15.7 per cent
Type 2	33 per cent
Type 5	9.6 per cent
Type 7	6.1 per cent
Type 8	7.5 per cent
Non-serum treated death rate
Type 1	32.7 per cent
Type 2	46.3 per cent
Type 5	28.3 per cent
Type 7	22 per cent
Type 8	18.6 per cent

Recent developments in laboratory procedure have changed the technique of typing the pneumococcus from a complicated process to one which can be accomplished in half an hour's time, with simple apparatus. As a consequence, the use of serum in the treatment of pneumonia has increased in great strides, and many lives which otherwise would have been lost have been saved.

Many progressive States have set up whole time pneumonia commissions, with typing stations and serum distribution centers. Massachusetts has pioneered in this work, with New York a close second.

The North Carolina State Board of Health and the medical profession of the State have a vital interest in pneumonia control and the reduction of its death rate, and plan to keep step with the other progressive States in the Union in the fight on this disease, which has been designated, "The Great Captain of the Armies of Death."

DANGEROUS

It is dangerous to sell a SUBSTITUTE for 666 just to make three or four cents more. Customers are your best assets; lose them and you lose your business. 666 is worth three or four times as much as a SUBSTITUTE. 1-21-12t

From Ingleside

The Rev. and Mrs. J. A. Martin, of Kittrell, were visitors here Friday, Mr. Martin, the new pastor on the Tar River circuit, was making pastoral calls in and near Ingleside.

Austrian winter peas planted by W. W. Fielder of Richmond county in October are now over four inches tall and up to a perfect stand, he says.

A friend sends a picture of the Dorothy Dix of Japan. She is Mrs. Waka Yamada, also the nation's most famous mother, who is now visiting this country. Her "advice to the lovelorn" column has more than a million circulation. It is said. But our Miss Dorothy's columns exceeds in a wider phase of "human ailments" and perhaps many more readers.

Rev. J. A. Martin, pastor of Trinity M. E. Church here, and Mrs. Martin were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. Y. Beasley Sunday.

Mrs. John Young Beasley is recovering from serious burns of her right arm as a result of the overturning of a kettle of boiling water which she was handling about the stove. A burn of that nature, covering the whole arm, entails much suffering and inconvenience, but Mrs. Beasley is one to meet such with patience. Her friends are pleased that she is recovering nicely.

Fred L. Peoples and Miss Sarah Jane Edwards were married at Epsom on Sunday, Jan. 16, by the Rev. S. E. Madren. Mr. Peoples is the son of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Peoples and the bride is the daughter of Mrs. Loula and the late Jack Edwards, former residents of near Ingleside.

The negro school has returning from Louisburg Monday afternoon turned over a mile from here near the home of J. Y. Beasley. Several of the children suffered minor injuries, and only one of a serious nature. The bus was badly damaged. It stopped bottom upwards with the top crushed in. On account of a death in the home of the regular driver he was not on duty at the time and another boy was at the wheel. It is claimed by the children on the bus that no blame is attached to the driver in charge for the accident which occurred on a wet slippery road.

It is reported here that Mrs. Ken May was robbed of $60.00 by two Gypsy women at her home in Moulton sometime last week.

The old-fashioned saloon may have had its iniquities, but it never had a stein with a lipstick on the rim.

THE MILLS HI MERRY-GO-ROUND

Mills High School Personalities
Another new member of the Mills High School faculty this year is Miss Camille Swindell, the very attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Swidell, of Fairfield, N. C.

She attended Fairfield grammar and high school, and later graduated from Eastern Carolina Teachers College in 1937. This year she is teaching a mixed class of fourth and fifth grade pupils.

The Latin Class
Every morning at 8 o'clock, four Mills Hi pupils meet in the senior room at Mills Hi, the object being Latin.

Under Miss Allgood's direction, the class has been conducted every school day since September.

As Mills Hi has no regular course in Latin, this class was formed by pupils who want Latin in high school. The pupils are Elizabeth Egerton, Sarah Davis, Billy Alston and Robert Smithwick.

They have found Latin very interesting, as many languages of today were originated from it. Queer words that we come into contact with now and then, the plurals of which are queerly formed, are quite simple to these four students now.

"Esse Quam Videre" and "Ego Amo Te" are no longer puzzles.

Around The Campus
Boys playground baseball has given way to football in the last few weeks. So far as your reporter can tell, the boys seem to be having a lot of fun, for a great many of them may be seen on the field at every recess. Mr. Huggins is their supervisor.

Another thing that's going "round Mills Hi is the page boys roll, a hairdress in which the hair is merely turned under instead of out. Gold necklaces, consisting of a chain hung with a cross or medallion, may be seen, too.

Everyone is anxious to know who will go out for debating this year. Miss Scoville will coach the affirmative side and Mrs. Bailey, the negative. The query for debate is: "Resolved that the legislatures of the several states shall adopt a universal form of legislation."

The sophomore Home Economics girls have begun a new unit of work, in which they will study home environment. Each of them will make a note book on this unit.

The topic for the essays this year is: "Social Security as a Safeguard for the Future."

The meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association was postponed from Thursday, January 20, till Thursday 27, because of the death of Mr. Ross Earle.

Henderson-Louisburg Game
Mills High played a basketball game with Henderson at Henderson last Friday night and boy was it a game! There is a beautiful court in their gym and it was plenty of fun playing on it. Louisburg girls and boys were beat badly, but just wait until the Henderson team plays us on our court. (We'll see what we'll see.) We'd better not be bragging too much because you never can tell, but we're honestly going to play harder than ever before.

Well, getting back to the game, Henderson girls beat Louisburg 30-14. That's pretty bad (but we admit it!) Henderson boys beat Louisburg boys 30 to — and that's pretty bad too. There were many boosters from Louisburg at the game, and they certainly showed the right spirit. The teams appreciated the interest of the outsiders and hope that they'll keep up the good work by continuing to come out to the games.

The teacher had forbidden the eating of candy and the chewing of gum during school time. One day she became suspicious of a lump in Jimmie's cheek.

Teacher—Jimmie, are you eating candy or chewing gum?
Jimmie—No. I'm just soaking a prune to eat at recess.

Youth—Let me tell you about a fancy thing —
Girl Friend—It is not polite to talk to your friends about yourself.

"Some fellows seem to think that just because they've driven 200,000 miles without an accident, they are immune. Nobody's immune if he gets careless."—American Magazine.

No matter how careful one may be, or how expertly he can handle his car, he is not immune to accidents. He must always take his chances against the reckless, careless and inefficient. If all drivers were careful, competent, used common sense, and obeyed the road laws, accidents would be reduced by at least 90 per cent.
