Y., its inventor. The invention is a device consisting of an aluminum encased circle of 16 bulbs, 15 white and the 16th red. FARMERS LIKE THEIR AAA TOBACCO QUOTAS

Find Their Pounds Quotas Are More Than They Had Expected

Wilson, Aug. 23.—Local tobacco farmers, who have grumbled much against their AAA tobacco acreage allotments, are in a much better humor as the opening of the 1938 marketing season in the bright belt approaches.

Many of them are now receiving official announcements of their poundage quotas under the control program, and have expressed general approval.

Farm agents in near-by counties have reported that a number of the growers were much surprised at getting higher quotas than they had expected.

W. L. Adams, local farm agent, who was in the center of much of the storm, reported that he and the local AAA committee are "very well pleased with the quotas."

The quotas are the number of pounds growers may sell without tax. Those who exceed their quotas must pay a tax of three cents a pound, or half the market price, whichever is greater, unless they buy extra poundage quotas from other growers.

MAPLE SPRINGS REVIVAL

Rev. John Edwards has announced that Revival Services of Maple Springs Church will begin Sunday morning at the 11 o'clock service with Dr. E. Earnhardt as guest preacher. The hour for the afternoon and evening services will be announced at that time.

Hard Facts

To foster, encourage and preach the doctrine of trade at home is the proper thing. It is the only way that will build a town or community and reduce taxes. But what do you think your prospective customers will think when they see you, Mr. Business Man, doing your shopping away from home, instead of at home where you say he ought to trade?

UNIQUE MISSION STUDY CLASS HELD AT BAPTIST CHURCH

The Young Women's Auxiliary of Louisburg Baptist Church Initiate Mission Study Class For Four Consecutive Evenings During The Warm Month of August

The demand today is for trained leadership in every activity. If the cause of missions is to prosper, men and women must be given the opportunity to know missionary conditions and be trained in the methods by which they can use their knowledge effectively in awakening interest in the hearts of others. The purpose of a mission study class is to provide such opportunity for all who will avail themselves of the rare privilege of studying, learning, living and thinking with the peoples of the world or whatever area or scope of territory the class may be directed.

The book chosen for this study was "The Keys of the Kingdom" written by Mrs. Una Roberts Lawrence, Mission Study Editor, of the Home Mission Board, located in Atlanta, Georgia. The book is a survey, giving a glimpse of all home mission work as done by the Home Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention, with special attention to foreign populations, Southern Highland regions, the Negro in the South. The approach is from the standpoint of personal responsibility for the going on of the Home Mission enterprise.

Much careful planning and preparation was done previous to the class periods. Through the counselors and committees of the Auxiliary three "Key Leaders" were chosen and given a large bunch of silver, gold and bronze keys, respectively; these leaders in turn presented to each member of their group a "key" with certain rules and regulations for the wearing and using of that key. First, it must be worn all the time and all questions answered concerning its significance.

The key was the symbol of entrance to the door of the study class. Fines were imposed upon those seen without their symbol key. The enlargement of the various "Key groups" depended upon the enthusiastic diligence of the members; and on each succeeding day the captains presented to each member, as well as, prospective members very cleverly and attractively designed personal invitations suggestive of the study of the "Keys of the Kingdom."

Standard bearers were made to hold the large key symbols. The keys were made of gold, silver and bronze. These bearers were covered in the Auxiliary colors, green and white, and the monogram Y. W. A. was placed upon each bearer, directly underneath the large Key symbol. Each group sat under their respective symbols each evening and reports were given and an average made at the conclusion of the class thus announcing the leading group which proved to be the "Bronze Key" group of which Miss Elsie Hudson was Captain.

Informing and attractive posters were made to assist in the teaching of each of the four chapters; while on Wednesday evening the chapter was taught through the medium of dramatics. A playlet entitled "One Woman's Vision" was given with costuming representing the "nineties."

Supper was served at the church each evening at 6:30 in order to convenience the business girls; on the last evening the supper took the form of a banquet table "around the world." The table was decorated with "cut out" people from different countries interlaced with colored patterned keys, with a large replica of the book—"Keys of the Kingdom," forming the center. The dessert carried the motif of the key, done on a toothpick which was placed on each of the oval shaped pieces of iced melon.

Each chapter was prefaced by informing reports from the various key groups, on collateral and especially assigned reports relating to the various countries and the work of the different missionary boards.

The culmination of interest, fun and fellowship was reached on the last evening when after sixteen young women took a "true and false" examination a delightful party was enjoyed at which the mothers of the girls were honored guests. A mental baseball game was played in which keys were used as the ball and bat. The teacher was the referee and the Captains of the various key groups led as the first "batters." The final score again went to the bronze group.

No little of the success of the happy and profitable occasion throughout the course was due to, Miss Mamie Davis Beam, who so ably and efficiently directed the study and utilized the methods of lecture, question and answer, and dramatics in her teaching. A presentation was made Miss Beam at the close of the last evening and words of appreciation were spoken to her by Mrs. R. H. Strickland, Associate Counselor; Miss Dorothy Person, representing the organization, and Dr. J. D. Simons, representing the church. Miss Lassiter thanked all who had made the study so profitable and worthwhile. "The Keys of the Kingdom" are in the hands of all who accept this personal responsibility. Daniel Webster said: "The fact of my individual responsibility to my Maker is the greatest thought that ever came into my mind."
