Phi Theta Kappa Holds Initiation

Phi Theta Kappa, national honorary scholastic fraternity, held its mid-year initiation Thursday evening, February 12, in the Faculty parlor.

Those receiving the vows were Eleanor Beasley, Oscar Fuller, Dayton Hardwick, and Eaton Holden, Louisburg; Shirley Helms, Scotland Neck; Shirley Smith, Durham; Lois Asbell, Hertford; Catherine Rowe, Aberdeen; and Ralph Pegrum, Winston-Salem.

Sidelights of the official initiation were a pledge service, a chapel program in which each pledge received the academic gown, and a banquet which was held in the home of Mrs. Gaither Beam.

Martha Ann Stroud, president of the fraternity, officiated at the initiation ceremonies. She was assisted by Horton Corwin, vice-president; Sara Hux, secretary; and Ira Helms, treasurer.

Martha Ann was also toast-mistress at the banquet. She gave the toast and Eaton Holden, the highest ranking pledge, responded. Dr. T. C. Amick gave a brief history of the organization and the local chapter, and J. Wesley Gentry and Horton Corwin directed a program of creative contests. John Norris, accompanied by Eleanor Beasley, gave the music for the occasion.

Guests attending the initiation and banquet were honorary members, President and Mrs. Walter Patten, Dr. T. C. Amick, sponsor, Mrs. T. C. Amick, Miss Lula Mae Stipe, Miss Virginia Pezatt, and Miss Ruth Merritt.

Miss Merritt, acting head of the English department, received her bid just before the recent initiation.

Old members of the fraternity are Martha Ann Stroud, Louisburg; Morton Corwin, Ahsokie; Sara Hux, Halifax; Ira Helms, Scotland Neck; Sue Margaret Harris, Oxford; MacNeil Iock, New Bern; J. Wesley Gentry, Roxboro; Mary Frances Handley, Goldsboro; and J. E. Norris, Jr. Columbia.

Student Conference Topic of Chapel Program

A resume of the Methodist Student Conference, held in Durham February 5-7, recently was presented in an informal discussion in chapel Tuesday morning. The Reverend Forrest D. Hedden, pastor of the local Methodist church and a visiting pastor at the conference led the student and faculty delegates in an inclusive summary of the three-day event.

Three outstanding phases of the conference were emphasized: fellowships, Dr. Benton's message and the cell group.

Fellowship was discussed from the individual stand point; How it was stimulated and promoted by the intersectional exchange of ideas.

Dr. Benton's messages were presented with emphasis on their vital and essential philosophy of Christian living.

The formation, work, and value of a cell group was particularly discussed and plans were set forth leading toward adaptation on the local campus, as a regular part of campus religious life.

Clatworthy in Atlanta

Willard C. Clatworthy, formerly of the Science and Mathematics departments, now has a position as draftsman in the Bell Aircraft Corporation, Atlanta.

Up to his recent transference to Atlanta he held a similar position in Durham.

NEGRO FARM AGENT

There will be a meeting held in the Franklin County Court House, February 25, beginning at 10 o'clock a. m. for all Negro farmers in the county. This meeting will be held to give instructions and demonstrations on the control of vegetable diseases and insects.

The instructions and demonstrations will be given by Howard R. Garriss, Extension plant pathologist, and J. Myron Maxwell, Extension entomologist from the State Extension office, State College Station, Raleigh. All Negro farmers are invited to be present.

W. G. Burleson of Yancey County, could not get a good stand of clover until he applied phosphate and lime. His resulting yield of hay was doubled.

FRANKLIN COUNTY HISTORY

By REV. E. H. DAVIS

Charles Applewhite Hill, University graduate, teacher, preacher, legislator and public man was another of the Hill family who left his impress upon the life and history of Franklin in these early days—possibly a deeper impress in a way and on one particular line than any of his forbears. He was a son of Wm. Hill, grandson of the first Green Hill and his wife, Grace Bennett, nephew of Henry Hill who had preceded him in the Senate, and of Henry Hill's brother, Rev. Major Green Hill. He was born 1784, was a student at the University in 1804 which he left that year without receiving a diploma. A tradition in the family was that he was displeased with the way in which awards and distinctions were made. There is little room to doubt however—that his leaving—synchronizing as it did with the departure of twenty young men from this seat of learning, to enter Dickinson's Academy in Louisburg on account of the monitorial system was part of the same episode. See quotation from Edward Hooker's diary before referred to in these pages. Hill married in 1806 Rebecca Long, daughter of Gabriel and Sarah Richmond Long, who on the death of Long, married Rev. Daniel Shine and was afterwards more widely known as Grandma Shine. Hill then moved to Georgia where he taught for a number of years. Returning here in 1815 he then went back to Chapel Hill and received his diploma, graduating with the Class of 1816 when he was 32 years old. Dr. Battle in his history of the University of N. C. page 248, has this to say of that class: "Of the 16 graduates of the Class of 1816 those most notable were Wm. Julius Alexander, a Trustee, member of the Legislature, Speaker of the House and Solicitor of the District. Thomas J. Haywood, Judge in Tennessee; John De Rossett, physician of great promise, dying young. Charles Applewhite Hill, who left the University in 1804, Principal of Classical Schools, Preacher and State Senator. John Patterson Tutor U. N. C. and preacher; James W. McClung, Speaker of the House in Tennessee, and John Y. Mason, Secretary of the Navy, Attorney General and Minister to France." As Minister he incurred the displeasure of his Chief, Secretary of State Wm. L. Marcy by wearing a simple diplomatic uniform at the Court of Napoleon III, when all American Ministers had been ordered to wear plain civilian costume at State functions—an incident that may have been responsible for Nathaniel Hawthorne's characterization of him as a "fat-brained, good hearted sensible old man." Mason was a Virginian. Associated with John Sidell of Louisiana, he was sent as Commissioner by the Confederate Government to Europe seeking recognition and help for the Confederacy from England and France. Taken from the British steamer Trent by a Union vessel he was imprisoned at Fort Warren in Boston but in 1862 at the demand of the British Government he was liberated and proceeded on his mission.

Hill on his return from Georgia devoted himself to teaching and became widely known as such in Franklin and Warren counties in both of which he labored. For a while he was Principal of Franklin Academy, afterwards for several years he held a similar position in Warrenton. His last work as a teacher was in the country in Franklin County at a point between Louisburg and Warrenton which he named Midway. In his advertisements in the Raleigh Register he says, "Midway is situated two miles from the Stage Road, ten miles from Louisburg, sixteen from Warrenton and four from Shocco Springs." In the same advertisement regarding the government of his school he says, "The principal will pursue that course which he would wish his own children. He will advise and admonish; where these fail the rod will be resorted to but with parental prudence." For a number of years he maintained at this place a classical school of high grade in which the enrollment ran as high as 60 pupils for the term. With all of his work as a teacher he still found time to represent his county—Franklin—in the State Senate for four years. Even as Senator his life work the matter of education was uppermost in his thought. It may have been responsible for his being there at all. His four years in the Senate—1822-1826—were characterized by two things, his advocacy of public education and his unyielding opposition to all lotteries—then being frequently licensed to operate for benevolent purposes. Prof. C. L. Coon, in the introduction to his "N. C. Schools and Academies" has this to say of him—"Hill was a graduate of the University of N. C., a Methodist preacher and a good teacher. He also found time enough while living and teaching in Franklin County to be elected to the State Senate, where he was the author of the law which created the Literary Fund of 1825. He was also the leader of the opposition to lotteries and was no small factor in creating enough sentiment to do away with those gambling devices in aid of schools and churches. x x x. It has so often been asserted that Bartlett Yancy was the author of the Literary Fund law of 1825 that I hesitate to utter a dissenting opinion. But the credit for the authorship of that law BELONGS TO CHARLES A. HILL OF FRANKLIN as I have said above." It may be added that that Literary Fund law was the beginning of public education in the State. In his advocacy of the measure Hill declared on the floor of the Senate that Education was the foe of tyrants and the foundation of liberty—that Education and civilization go hand in hand and that ignorance was the prolific cause of vice.

When, Where, And How Taxes Are To Be Paid

Taxes due on a return filed for the calendar year 1942 may be paid in full at the time for the filing of the return on or before March 15, 1943. The tax may, at the option of the taxpayer, be paid in four equal installments instead of in a single payment, in which case the first installment is to be paid on or before March 15, the second on or before June 15, the third on or before September 15, and the fourth on or before December 15, 1943. If the taxpayer elects to pay his tax in four installments, each of the four installments must be equal in amount, but any installment may be paid, at the election of the taxpayer, prior to the time prescribed for its payment. If an installment is not paid in full on or before the date fixed for its payment, the whole amount of the tax remaining unpaid is required to be paid upon notice and demand from the collector.

The tax must be paid to the collector of internal revenue for the district in which the taxpayer's return is required to be filed—that is, to the collector for the district in which is located the taxpayer's legal residence or principal place of business, or if he has no legal residence or principal place of business in the United States, then to the collector of internal revenue at Baltimore, Maryland.

In the payment of taxes a fractional part of a cent is to be disregarded unless it amounts to one-half cent or more, in which case it shall be increased to one cent.

The tax due, if any, should be paid in cash at the collector's office, or by check or money order payable to "Collector of Internal Revenue." In the case of payment in cash, the taxpayer should in every instance require and the collector should furnish a receipt. In the case of payments made by check or money order, however, the canceled check or the money order receipt is usually a sufficient receipt.

—On Pay Day, Buy Bonds—

Lower prices for eggs and increased costs for some feeds have caused some dissatisfaction among poultry growers. The purchase of day old chicks for layers next year is slowing down in Burke County.

M. S. Bridgers, Jr., of Conway, had an outstanding flock of hens in 1942, with a profit of $2.82 per hen over all feed costs.
