June 30 is Final Date for Cashing Old Cotton Stamps

Merchants of Franklin County who still have stamps redeemed for cotton fabrics under the 1941 supplementary cotton program must cash them on or before June 30, according to Mr. I. T. Insoe, chairman of the County AAA Committee.
 These stamps, the chairman said, were issued to farmers in 1941 in return for reducing their cotton acreage below their AAA acreage allotments, and were used to purchase cotton materials from local merchants.
 "Reports received by AAA officials at Raleigh indicate that some of these stamps issued in this state never have been cashed by the merchants who accepted them," Mr. Insoe said. "The federal appropriation under which these stamps were issued will expire on June 30, and all stamps not cashed by that date will become invalid as no funds will be available for this purpose."
 The cotton stamp plan, he said, was discontinued after 1941, but many farmers held their stamps for several months before using them. Any cotton stamps still in the hands of farmers can be used until June 30. During operation of the plan, it is estimated that Franklin County farmers received stamps valued at approximately $29,298.50.
 Merchants desiring to cash stamps still on hand must mail them on or before June 30 to W. Ellis Jones, Chief of Fiscal Section, Food Distribution Administration, Western Union Building, Atlanta, Georgia.

New Postal System Speeds Mail Delivery in Large U. S. Cities

As a means of speeding special deliveries of mails in the large cities of the country, the Post Office department has established substations for the delivery of mail, each substation having a number, it was announced this week by the office postmaster.
 The cities which have been selected for such service in North Carolina and vicinity are Charlotte and Winston-Salem, North Carolina, South Carolina; and Norfolk, Richmond, and Roanoke, Virginia.
 A total of 133 cities in the country, comprising practically all cities with population as great as 75,000 have been given this service because of the increased load of postal business and the shortage of clerks, more than 40,000 having gone to war.
 Persons corresponding with people living in these large cities are urged to find out their new address, complete with substation number and to address their mail accordingly.
 The postal authorities have received numerous favorable comments on this new system which enables them to render faster service with fewer employees than the old system of one central station for sorting mail for the entire city.

EFFECTIVE JUNE 28, 1943

Due to the very drastic cut in our gasoline by the Office of Defense Transportation we are compelled to curtail our delivery service. There is certainly no desire on our part to have to take this action, but when you cannot get the gasoline to run with it leaves nothing else for us to do.
 Beginning Monday, June the 28th, our schedule will be as follows:
 Mondays, one delivery at 10 o'clock.
 Fridays, one delivery at 3 o'clock.
 Saturdays, two deliveries, one at 10 a. m. and one at 5 p. m.
 This means four deliveries per week.
 No orders for less than two dollars will be delivered at any time.
 We ask your cooperation in this matter. You will of course realize this is a war measure and we are sure you will do what you can to help us out.

From where I sit...
 by Joe Marsh
 Really funny how some little every-day things can affect the course of history. For instance, did you know that one of the main reasons for the Pilgrims landing on Plymouth Rock was because the Mayflower was running out of beer?
 Yes, you can read it in an original manuscript of 1622, an account of the settling of Plymouth—where it says: "...we could not now take time for further search or consideration; our victuals being much spent, ... especially our beer..."
 Just goes to show how good beer has been a part of American life right from the beginning. Yes, and it's had a big part in making us a tolerant, moderate people, happy to live and let live. Because beer is a drink of moderation and good fellowship.
