Two-Way Stretch?

DAYTON, OHIO—How much can be put into a girdle? Most women feel they are lucky if they get themselves inside the contraption. But for two women arrested in a discount store recently, the abdominal bindings served as storehouses of merchandise.

One woman, who weighs about 240 pounds, had stuffed into her girdle 43 pairs of women's hose, 32 pairs of men's stockings, 14 slips, 5 pairs of anklets and 3 shirts. Another had enough room for herself and 33 pairs of women's hose, 20 pairs of men's stockings, 7 slips, a boy's cap, a pair of trousers and a set of girl's pajamas!

News Report From Washington

Kennedy Aid 1964—Rockefeller Running Tax Hikes Coming—France And DeGaulle

Washington, D.C.—The general opinion in the White House circle is that President Jack Kennedy is as good as elected in 1964 if some political blunder or a major turn of events can be avoided.

The reasoning is that President Kennedy has recovered in an area where the voters of the country were beginning to think the Kennedy Administration weak—the field of foreign affairs.

In the President's first eighteen months he seemed to stumble in this sphere. In the Cuban invasion attempt of 1961, the Cuban rebels were left without air support and were cut to pieces. We had to take the blame for having prepared this attack and suffer the consequences of having been defeated.

In Laos, we seemed to talk strongly—and back down in the clutch. In Berlin we were being pushed further and further and our situation there steadily deteriorated as Secretary of State Dean Rusk continued with his endless negotiations with Soviet representatives.

None of this inspired much confidence in the Kennedy Administration foreign policy. However, with one strong show of determination and strength, the President has apparently balanced the scales again.

When he forced the Russians to back down in the Cuban crisis, the average voter felt that at last the Administration had taken a firm stand and backed it up, and felt the United States had gained respect in the world. At least this is the conclusion drawn in the top ruling and party circles in Washington.

Therefore, the road to reelection is wide open, according to the White House braintrust. But the opinion is, at the same time, that New York Governor Nelson Rockefeller is off and running. And he is considered the most dangerous Kennedy opponent on the horizon.

After a pause to assess the situation, the Governor—far richer than President Kennedy—is now reportedly lining up delegates for the 1964 G. O. P. nominating convention. He is expected to be able to line up a majority by convention time if he needs powerful conservative circles.

Whether Rockefeller will do this is the question. His aides say private polls show that his divorce will not be a great handicap in the 1964 presidential election.

Along with an expected tax cut early in the next year the public is due to suffer a few increases. For one thing, social security rates rise again on January 1st, for both employer and employee.

When tax rates are tightened on such things as the reporting dividend and interest income, and when expense accounts are more rigidly screened, tax collections are likely to bite deeper here too.

The tax reduction will cost the federal government more than collection gains registered but when state and local tax increases are taken into consideration, many taxpayers will not benefit as much as had been anticipated.

President Kennedy has ordered a third of a billion dollars paid out in January, as insurance refunds to veterans, and this will be a boost to the economy. Business news continues to be better than many had estimated and the overall outlook is improved.

President Charles de Gaulle of France is given credit in the State Department for having established a firm and stable government in France. This is the result of the recent referendum and the recent general elections in France.

De Gaulle now has a constitution whereby French presidents are elected by popular vote and he has built a political party bigger than the Communist Party, plus shattering the strength of the splinter parties which have kept Paris in chaos for decades.

U. S. experts are not happy with DeGaulle in many ways but they admit he has stabilized France, which may in the long run prove a major blessing for the West.

Military Budget

Washington—The military budget for the next year is expected to emphasize conventional weapons and organization. Chances of a new division for the Army appear, at this time, to be slim.

Speculation is that the overall military budget request for fiscal 1962 may show an increase of $1,000,000,000 of more over the $48,200,000,000 for the current year.

Aids Receive Token

Washington—President Kennedy has presented a silver calendar for the month of October to each of the 14 men who made up the group that helped him devise the strategy to meet the Cuban crisis during the 13 days that it existed.

Informed quarters, at the United Nations, said that Adlai E. Stevenson, chief United States representative to the United Nations was among those who received the calendars.

Yet No Protection

"Why are you standing there throwing stones at that poor little boy?" "Because I don't go closer, miss. He's got whooping cough."

Abstinence Or Else

"So you attribute your longevity to abstinence from alcohol?" Inquired the inquiring reporter. And the centenarian admitted, "Yes, my wife would have killed me if I had touched a drop."

Senator Sam Says

Morganton—As individuals we are, I think, refreshed by reviewing the faith of others. This recalls that December 11th was the birth date of one of North Carolina's most beloved men, the late Clyde Roark Hoey.

Those who knew Senator Hoey were always granted a new insight into complex, difficult, and delicate problems after a conversation with him. A year before the Senator's death, May 12, 1954, Edward R. Murrow was conducting a radio program called "This I Believe."

Senator Hoey was called upon at that time to put into language his faith and creed. Without hesitation, I am told by Miss Ruth Meacham, now a member of my staff, Senator Hoey dictated to her his statement for the broadcast. Because Senator Hoey's creed is a living one, I present it as an inspiration for our day:

"This I believe. I believe in faith. I have always had faith. As an adolescent I pondered the full-orbed canopy of the far-extended skyline and believed that there was a great first cause — God. To me there was no other explanation of the universe and no other assurance of protection and guidance. When 12 years of age I was privileged to work in a printing office for long hours daily and many times far into the night. After concluding the labors of the day and night, I would walk along a dark and lonely road, through woods and uninhabited sections for a long mile to my home. Scared of the dark, yes, afraid, to be sure, but armed with a heavy hickory walking stick, I looked up into a starlit sky and thought of my free heritage and believed in a Father God and would not admit my fears to even my collaborators. From the standpoint of the world I was unafraid. I am still unafraid.

"Growing into manhood, with manifold responsibilities and perplexing problems, requiring all the resources of which I was capable, there was the constant and increasing need for some reservoir of power that could be tapped in periods of emergencies and hours of crises. In my faith I discovered that reservoir.

"I found matrimony a happy estate. Blessed with a radiant and lovely life companion, the establishment and maintenance of a home was a high adventure, and the coming of children into that home brought the full realization of the joy and happiness possible only in this most honored and ancient of earth's institutions. Ten years ago, after 42 years of happy married life, my wife and the mother of my children passed to her reward. My faith in her and her faith in God linger as a blessed heritage in the sanctuary of holy memories. Faith has been indispensable amid the sorrows and sadnesses of life, and has been exhilarating and sustaining in periods of joy and triumph. The experience gained through the years, and whatever learning of knowledge I have acquired, have not lessened, but rather increased my faith in a God who guides the destiny of nations and individuals and who even marks the falling of a sparrow.

"Conscious of my own shortcomings and sins, ashamed of my failures and omissions of duty, and fully mindful of the unfaithfulness which has marked my life, I have never doubted the wisdom and goodness, the might and the mercy of a gracious, loving Heavenly Father—God.

I join the late great Kansas editor, William Allen White, when he said in a period of crisis, 'I am not afraid of tomorrow. I have seen yesterday,

On School Prayers

Washington—The Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations has proposed settling the controversy over school prayers by instituting a "moment of silence" for devotion at the beginning of each school day.

The union deplored charges that the Supreme Court was attempting to "drive religion out of American life" by declaring unconstitutional official school prayers.

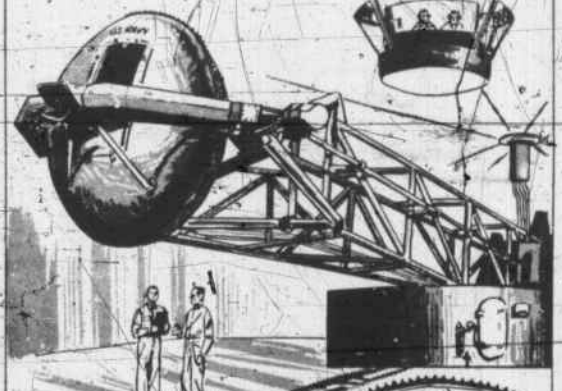

"In the period," they said, "let every pupil think in terms of his faith and parental religious heritage..."

Almost everyone is a liberal, by his or her definition.

I love today, and I face tomorrow unafraid. There are many clouds on the horizon of America; I have had and shall have many dark nights, but there has never yet been a night dark enough to put out the stars — and there shall not be. This is still 'My Father's World'. And my faith abides."

20/20 is not necessarily GOOD VISION at all!

Four out of 10 children start school each year with uncorrected vision defects which handicap ability to learn. When school health tests reveal that a child has 20/20 vision... ability to read a Snellen wall chart at 20 feet... parents often erroneously conclude the child has "perfect vision." But such tests do not show how well a child can see at 15 inches... the distance at which most school work is done... nor does it check other visual abilities which affect learning. That's why...
