Puppy Love

"Almost any youngster over six years of age can take care of a dog," says Clarence C. Fawcett of the Purina Pet Care Center. A child responds to love, and the love of a puppy is boundless. Puppy-caring will teach a child responsibility. So don't be afraid to let your child help care for his dog from the first. One bath every few weeks in a warm, draft-free room is plenty. Brushing every day can be fun, too. With a small brush your child will be able to handle the job more easily. Given a few parental hints, your child will "grow" right along with his pet.
