Hurricanes Open Season Friday

The Louisburg College baseball team opens its season here Friday against its traditional early-spring rival, Williams College from Massachusetts. The two teams meet again Saturday here.

The new field, rated one of the best in the area, is about ready for the opener. Dugouts are being completed today and advertisements of contributing sponsors are being attached to the cyclone fencing that encircles the field. New bleachers are already in place for the opener.

Coach Russ Frazier, in his pregame report, states: "Starting for Louisburg Friday will be Watt Moore in center, Larry Dean in left, Danny Smith in right, Jim Lanier, shortstop; Wayne Vick, 3B; Bob Queen, catching; Leo Sullivan, 1B; either Russ Sears or Steve Midgette, 2B; and Ronnie Johnson, pitching.

"We suffered a big blow Monday when a foul tip broke the ring finger on Chris Beck's hand. It took three stitches to close a cut on the hand, and he will be lost at least three weeks."

"Game time each day will be 2:45 at the new field," Frazier continued.

"Williams defeated Wilmington Monday, 4-2. They will be playing every day this week and most of next week on their tour. They have a real good ball club this year, dominated by juniors who have been together three years. I know most of the Wilmington players, and you just don't beat them every day. Righthander John Gardner will start Saturday, with Phil Winslow and Pete Eyer available for relief," he concluded.

ers do not include prospective acreage of soybeans to be harvested for beans. However, if the intentions are carried out for soybeans planted alone for all purposes and about the same proportion of the total acreage is harvested for beans as in the last 5 years (1960-64), about 840,000 acres will be harvested for beans. This compares with 810,000 acres harvested last year.

Based on reports from growers as of March 1 and other information, North Carolina farmers intend to plant 280,000 acres of cotton in 1966, according to the North Carolina Crop Reporting Service. This is 28 percent less than was planted in 1965. The sharp reduction in acreage is attributed to the fact that Tar Heel growers will divert more than 100,000 acres of cotton this year.

Cotton Producers Slow In Sign-ups

County farmers are slow in signing up for the 1966 Cotton Program, according to a release today by the local ASCS Office. A great deal of publicity has been given to the program, but many local cotton producers still have not come in and signed up for this year's program.

The latest ASCS release follows: "There are approximately 200 cotton producers who have not signed up to participate in the 1966 Cotton Program. Unless these producers visit the County ASCS Office on or before April 1, 1966 and file their intentions to participate in the program, they will have to market their 1966 cotton crop without receiving any government price support. This also means that they will receive about 21 or 22 cents per pound for their cotton on the open market.

"Producers with allotments of 10.0 acres or less can sign up in the program and plant their full cotton allotment; in turn, they will be eligible for diversion payments, price support payments, and their cotton will be eligible for government price support. Producers with allotments of more than 10.0 acres must also sign up by April 1, 1966 to be eligible for price support.

"It is believed that the producers who have not signed up in the program do not fully understand the benefits to be derived from participating in the program nor do they understand that their income from cotton will be drastically reduced for failure to take part in the program. This is the first year that producers have had to sign up at the County ASCS Office to be eligible for price support.

"Producers who visit the county office after April 1, 1966 will be left out of the program. They are urged to visit the county office immediately to avoid the deadline rush."

Coach Working

Coach Russ Frazier of the Louisburg College Hurricanes proves there is more to being a coach than just yelling from the third base box. An alert photographer caught this unusual shot of the Coach doing hand labor Wednesday in preparation for Friday's opening game.

If you take a minute to check our list of winning vehicle identification numbers, you may know how it feels this week.

The contest's in its last week. So hurry. Here's how it works. Look at the first symbols (the prefix) on your vehicle identification slip. Then look at the symbols listed above. If you find yours on the list, you've taken the first step toward being a winner. Now go see your Buick dealer. He has a list of 72 winners posted in his showroom. If you see your entire vehicle identification number on the poster—the symbols plus the rest of the numbers—$2,332 cash is yours. (If your prefix isn't listed in this ad, don't give up. Your numbers may have been posted during the past six weeks. Every week 72 winners were posted on the showroom wall.

Hurry. Buick's $1,000,000 Sweepstakes is in its last week. There's an authorized Buick dealer near you. See his Double-Checked used cars, too.
