

A Dazzling Compromise

NEW YORK (CFN) - The traditionally gay Christmas season, full of festivity and glitter, this year promises to outshine all those of the past. Quite literally, women at parties in every city of our fair land will dazzle as never before.

There's nothing half-hearted about the newly fashionable luminous look. It can go from inside to outside, from top to toe. There are girdles and bras in glowing prints, hosiery imprinted with light, and slippers of brocade or velvet with heels encrusted in gold sequins and multicolor stones.

belts, flashing pendant earrings, gloves with iridescent paillettes, and evening bags of gold and silver add to the overall sparkle. And finally, there are foundation lotions and lipsticks with a hint of gold.

Most women will, of course, use their sparkle sparingly here and there, but not everywhere all at once.

The big drawback of all the dazzling new fashions is, that while they're fun to wear and beautiful to look upon, they're not likely to last for more than a season. In a comparatively short time, people are sure to tire of all that brilliance.

There's nothing unobtrusive about an all-over sequined dress either. A sleek crepe dress can be worn again and again, but the glamour glitter gown is remembered after the first wearing.

For the woman who can't afford a new dress for every party, the best buys are the more timeless fashions made of classic fabrics such as chiffons, velvets and crepes. Some of this season's prettiest party dresses, for example, are in a soft, supple, opulent crepe of Celanese Acetate and rayon. Many are lightly frosted with glitter about the neckline and cuffs. Others have their own subtle sparkle in the form of lustrous satin trim.

Franklin Mem. Hospital Notes

The following were patients in the hospital Tuesday morning:

PATIENTS - Nancy Sue Alford, Louisville; Nanette L. Antry, Louisville; Kenneth A. Braswell, Louisville; Fannie M. Burnette, Louisville; Claude Felton Cash, Louisville; Eugene Collins, Bunn; Sterling T. Cottrell, Louisville; Billie Denton, Louisville; Wilson A. Driver, Louisville; Nonie B. Edwards, Louisville; Lucille H. Ford, Louisville; Eugene Foster, Louisville; James G. Gilliam, Louisville; Pattie Lou Gupton, Louisville; Braxton R. Holder, Franklin; Albe H. Horn, Louisville; Bernice R. House, Louisville; Bessie L. Pipkins, Henderson; Mamie Pearl Priette, Franklin; William H. Radford, Louisville; Sidney W. Ruffin, Louisville; Hubert B. Strickland, Spring Hope; James Darion Tony, Louisville; Frances Marion Tony, Louisville; Cassie L. Harris, Louisville; A. Floyd Davis, Castalia; Benjamin S. Alford, Bunn; Sue T. Alston, Louisville; Bessie P. Bartholomew, Louisville; Mary H. Bobbitt, Louisville; Bennie C. Champion, Louisville; Bettie Clifton, Louisville; Addie Collins, Louisville; James E. Collins, Castalia; Lillian J. Conyers, Louisville; Willie Melvin Coppedge, Louisville; Mattie S. Dickerson, Henderson; Nathaniel A. Ellington, Franklin; Andrew Lee Green, Louisville; Ralph Norwood Gupton, Louisville; Carrie L. Hayes, Franklin; Henry Jack House, Louisville; Joseph J. Leonard, Castalia; Emma W. Mitchiner, Franklin; Onnie T. Perry, Louisville; Jessie B. Sledge, Louisville; Annie E. Stallings, Louisville; Blanche B. Timberlake, Zebulon; Harvey H. Wheeler, Franklin; Emma Cash, Louisville.

Such dresses are a dazzling compromise, a case of having your cake and eating it too. Like the all-over sparkling sequined numbers they're "in" fashions, but unlike their gleaming counterparts, they'll be "in" for some time to come. And not only are they fairly timeless as fashions go, but they are the perfect foil for the new "glitter" jewelry and accessories.

Teenage Chat

By Bettie Lavender

Having one last fling before getting back into a regular schedule, many teens enjoyed parties, dances and the Embers Club.

Back in town for the holidays were Jay Bryan, Mary McFarland, Fran McFarland and Bryant Wrenn. Nice to see you all. Come back real soon.

Back at school was the main thing for many teens. Some attending college and other types of schools had one more day of vacation. You lucky people! Leaving our fair city for the new semester were Lee Lumpkin, Jane McKinnie, Talmadge Allen, Cora Ann Allen, Mary Ann Fleming, Dutch Strickland, Donnie Southerland, Emma Ruth Bartholomew, Buddy Stewart and Randy Fuller. Maybe the time will fly by and y'all will be back home. Let's hope!

Ballgames scheduled for tonight are Bunn at Louisville, Youngsville plays Franklinton, Epsom with Zeb Vance and Edward Best with Gold Sand. Good luck to you all!

Thought: She doeth little kindness which most leave undone or despise. --Lowell.

A good suit is a boon to city or country life -- and here's one that can go anywhere in the wide world. McCall's designs it with a ring-collared, single-breasted jacket and A-line skirt that would look well in a range of fabrics from pique to hopsacking to double knits. Pattern #8647 is the magic number.

Wherever you're headed, "country casual" is the ticket -- fashion-wise.

News From Hollywood

Actress Kim Novak was ordered from her wrecked Bel Air home after it was flooded with mud slides from recent rains.

Jane Mansfield, actress, developed viral pneumonia while spending ten days by her son's hospital bedside. She was ordered to spend several days in bed after a relapse.

Actress Ginger Rogers was recently honored by 250 fellow Missourians who attended a Broadway performance of "Hello, Dolly."

In Fashion

Featured in shops are soft textured wool suits that can be worn under coats or with furs now and which will be lovely as spring suits. The plaids and checks are particularly good in luscious colors.

Fur is used as a trimming on frocks and coats, it may be a mink collar or rabbit fur around the hem of a dress.

Skins for bags are in colors to harmonize with one's costume. They may hang from the shoulder or be of the pouch variety but, regardless of the type, they should be small and soft.
