

STEP-BY-STEP LESSON:

Fitting a Pantdress
Is that new pantdress pattern you plan to buy short and sporty or long and loungey? Both styles are quick and easy to sew, but require careful fitting.
Purchase pantdress pattern in same size as your dress patterns. Because of pattern shape make all needed adjustments on pattern before cutting out fabric. The vertical or lengthwise adjustments are most important. Specific instructions for measuring and adjusting crotch, back waist and finished length on a one piece pantdress (no waistline seam) follow.

Step 4
Next measure pattern crotch length. Draw a line across pattern back from widest part of crotch to side seam, at right angles to grainline (Step 4).
Step 5
Measure down to this line from natural waistline marking (Step 5). This should exceed your crotch length by 1 inch. This inch of ease permits comfortable fit while standing or sitting.

Step 1
First, use a ruler to measure your crotch length while seated on a hard chair. Tie a cord at your waist and measure from chair seat to point of ruler level with your waistline (Step 1).

Step 2
Secondly, measure your back waist length, from prominent bone at base of neck to cord at waist. (Step 2). Then continue measuring down to desired finished length (Step 3). Record these measurements.

Step 6
If pattern needs to be shortened, tuck out necessary amount using Easy-Rule guide. To lengthen, cut along dotted line; spread (Step 6). Adjust front, too.

Refer to pattern envelope for back waist length. If it differs from yours, adjust using Easy-Rule guide.
The finished garment length is also on envelope. If you have adjusted pattern for waist or crotch length, add or subtract amount of adjustment from given measurement. If remaining length is not same as desired finished length, alter the leg length. Add to or cut off necessary amount at lower edge of pattern. Be sure to leave recommended hem width.

Saturday was a big day for the Louisburg High School band. It all began early that morning as the activity bus made its way, slowly but surely, to Raleigh. There, activity bustled as bands, floats, cars, and people assembled for State's Homecoming Parade. It was a long parade, and when the march was over the blistered heels and fatigued looks proved it. After the parade, the band went to Carter Stadium for the exciting game between State and Duke. They took part in the "Star Spangled Banner." It was a wonderful game.

Thursday, each high school class at L. H. S. elected its homecoming candidate. The Senior candidate is Ann Merritt, Junior candidate is Beth Johnson, Sophomore candidate is Margo Raynor, and Freshman candidate is Debbie
