Walker, dean of the University, announced recently. In a letter sent to the honor students and their parents, Dr. Walker congratulated the students and shared with them some ideas for study programs and exchange semesters that Hamline is implementing.

To qualify for the Dean's List, a student must maintain a 3.25 (B-plus) or better cumulative average during his or her Hamline career.

Parents should see to it that "nothing interferes with the proper growth of their children physically, mentally, emotionally and spiritually. This is a big order and should be carried out to the best of their ability.

Physical growth depends on plenty of fresh air, sunshine and rest. Important also, is correct clothing, an adequate home and understanding parents. However, it could be said that the foundation for all this is proper food. For example, children who live beyond the semitropics quite often do not have enough exposure to sunshine to prevent rickets, but by supplying the necessary amount of fish-liver oil containing vitamin D and vitamin A, the threat of this dreaded bone disease can be avoided.

A high vitamin diet for children contains daily: One quart of milk, two servings of fresh fruit, one or more servings, fresh or cooked green, orange, yellow or red vegetables, one serving of a vitamin-heavy starchy vegetable, at least one egg, one serving fresh meat or fish, whole-grain cereal and whole-grain or enriched bread with butter twice.

In order to make use of body-building foods, the child must have proper eating habits. These habits depend largely upon the behavior and attitudes of the grown people around him. For this reason if adults in a family with young children have bad eating habits, such as not eating liver or spinach, they should be kept secret.

The young child should have a short period of rest before coming to the table.

The reason you sometimes hear more "news" on the street than you see in the newspaper is because the newspaper has to stand behind what it prints for all men to read.

"Where's the car?" asked Mrs. Diggs.

"Dear me!" exclaimed Professor Diggs, "did I take the car out?"

"Of course you did. You drove it to town."

"I remember now that after I'd got out I turned to thank the gentleman who gave me a lift and wondered where he had gone."
