

Basketball Tourney Starts Monday

Some Tickets Still Available

The annual high school basketball tournament gets underway here in the Paul Elam gym at Louisburg High School Monday night with the Gold Sand girls meeting the Louisburg girls in the opener. This will be followed by an opening round contest between the Gold Sand boys and Bunn.

The affair is to run continuously through Saturday night with Thursday night being reserved as an open date. Tuesday night at 7 P.M. Bunn girls will meet Wakelon and Louisburg boys will play Wakelon.

Ticket sales are brisk, but most schools report that tickets are still available. The League voted this year to sell one ticket good for all five nights. In the event the season tickets are not completely sold, single night tickets will be placed on sale at the box office at Elam gym, according to reports.

Youngsville boys now hold the conference lead and could take first place if Gold Sand happens to defeat the hot Franklin Rams. If the Rams win, as is expected, they will tie the Phantoms for the title. In both divisions, teams one and two get opening round byes and the positioning this year is not as important as in years past.

The Youngsville girls are undisputed conference champs, repeating from last season.

League balance this season is expected to make for a more interesting tournament. Youngsville and Franklin boys are equal favorites and the Youngsville girls are given the nod in their division.

The 1600-capacity gymnasium is expected to be filled by tap-off time Monday night. Increased enrollment in the member schools and limited seating in the gym necessitated advance sale of tickets.

Five girls teams and six boys squads will be scrapping for the coveted tournament title. The girls championship game will be played Friday night and the boys title game will follow on Saturday. There will be two games each night and awards will be presented following the final contest Saturday night.

As Years Go By

A man and his wife were out driving in the country. He was driving and she was reminiscing.

Finally, she broke the silence. "John, do you remember when we were first married and had our first car? Remember how close together we used to sit in that old Ford?"

With a twinkle in his eye, the husband replies, "I haven't moved."

The Best Part

A group of children was being conducted through the bakery. At the end of the tour, they were taken into the display room.

"Well, now," said their guide, "are there any questions about what goes on in a bakery?"

Little David gazed longingly at the beautiful frosted cakes in the display case. "Yes, ma'am," he sighed. "Could you please tell me who gets to lick out the bowls?"

towers. Two surveyors stand on the outer tower, while the delicate measuring instrument is placed on the inner tower. The surveyors will be working mostly at night because the atmosphere is clearer and less likely to disturb the precision surveying. Constant checks will be made of the air temperature, since the temperature and humidity determine the density of air, and light speed is reduced by increased air density. Laser geodimeters will be used for the surveying work. These instruments utilize the speed of light to measure distances. A beam of light will be sent from one tower to another, where a set of prism mirrors reflect the light back to its origin. The infinitesimal time this takes will be exactly recorded to measure the distance between the two points.

Each reading will be repeated 32 times and the mean of the findings computed to 1-100th of a second. The Coast and Geodetic Survey will be accurate to a 1-100,000th of a degree. This means an error factor of only 1 foot in 25 miles in the work to be conducted. That's pretty exact by anyone's standards.

The Geodetic Survey Division of the North Carolina Department of Conservation and Development requested the work to be done by the Coast and Geodetic Survey. North Carolina's efforts in this area have long occupied a position of national prominence. We were one of the first states to organize and create a geodetic survey division. The work of the North Carolina Division of Geodetic Survey has been frequently cited for its accuracy and preciseness.

The State of North Carolina currently establishes geodetic monuments at the rate of 500 per year, a rate which falls far short of the increasing demand for the precise markers. At the present rate of establishment, it will take North Carolina about 125 years to complete its work.

Bad Mechanic

A man was driving in the country when his car stalled. He got out to check the spark plugs. Suddenly an old horse trotted by.

The horse said, "Better check the gas line." Then the horse trotted on.

The motorist was so frightened that he ran to the nearest farm. He told the farmer what had happened.

"Was it an old horse with a flopping ear?" asked the farmer.

"Yes! Yes!" cried the man.

"Well, don't pay any attention to him," said the farmer. "He doesn't know anything about cars."
