

Louisburg Seniors Hear Dr. Bland

Dr. Thomas A. Bland, Professor of Christian Ethics and Sociology at Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary, urged the 103 graduates at Louisburg High School to look at Faith Frontiers for their futures in the baccalaureate sermon Sunday night. He told the students, "To your faith add integrity; to integrity add goodness and to goodness add knowledge."

Speaking before an audience of parents, teachers and friends of the graduates, Dr. Bland concluded by emphasizing the need for all to "add self control". Calling these "exciting times" he talked of the space frontiers where man "will in a few short weeks" place a man on the moon. He said there are many frontiers available today and he encouraged the graduates to meet the challenges of the times.

Thomas A. Riggan, School Principal, presided over the ceremonies and Mrs. James T. Anderson sang "How Great Thou Art" accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Alfred M. Goodwin.

Marshals for the event were Cassandra Lee Versteeg, Chief, Carolyn Jane Chadwick, Debra Elna Burnette, and Charles Hamilton Hobgood, juniors; Cynthia Ann Shillinglaw, Robin Lee Kerley and Jacquelyn Allen Smith, sophomores; and Brenda Joyce Bailey and Cecelia Kelliene Hall, freshmen.

Mayor Pro Tem E. J. Pearce was re-elected to serve in that capacity for another two year term.

Franklinton Grads Hear Dr. Moore

(Frk. B.W.) Dr. Donald D. Moore, Director of Counseling and Associate Professor of Pastoral Care at Southeastern Seminary, was the featured speaker at Franklinton Graduation Exercises Friday evening. He was introduced by the Rev. Horace Jackson. Dr. Moore stated that graduation was one of the chief milestones of life. He stressed the fact that the graduates were going into a changing world.

The speaker gave the graduates five suggestions to live by in their future: first - live courageously and with conviction; second - learn continually (study think and grow intellectually); third - labor hard; fourth - laugh often and learn how to live life with a smile; and lastly - love much. Dr. Moore said that the strongest emotional need is to love and to be loved. He closed his address with this thought - "What this country really needs is a good old-fashioned dose of real, genuine love."

Supt. R. B. Gordon presented the Valedictorian Award to Annette Ball, the Salutatorian Awards to Hope Medlin and Cheryl Alston. The Balfour Award was presented to Annette Ball by Supt. Gordon.

Mr. Wesley Jackson, assisted by Mr. Robert B. Pearce, chairman of the local Board of Education, presented diplomas to 74 graduates.

The Salutatory was given by Cheryl Alston and Hope Medlin. Annette Ball

Soul City

(Continued from Page 1) according to the Steele article, but unless some action is taken soon the General Assembly will adjourn and chances for chartering Soul City will disappear for at least two more years.

McKissick has already obtained the money, reportedly from Chase Manhattan Bank to purchase the land from a former Franklin resident, Leon Perry, for an announced price of $390,000. McKissick has said he will attempt to lure industry to the site which he says will become a "non-segregated" city.

The highly controversial project seems, for the time at least, to be stymied unless some unforeseen action is forthcoming. It is certainly doubtful that either Mr. Speed or Mr. Church will attempt to change the present status even if asked to do so. Thus far it is not believed that either has been asked.

Soul City may be farther away than expected. This may be disappointing to some, but many others will probably utter a sigh of relief.

The invocation was given by the Rev. J. Enock Kearney and the benediction was given by the Rev. C. J. Gilbert.

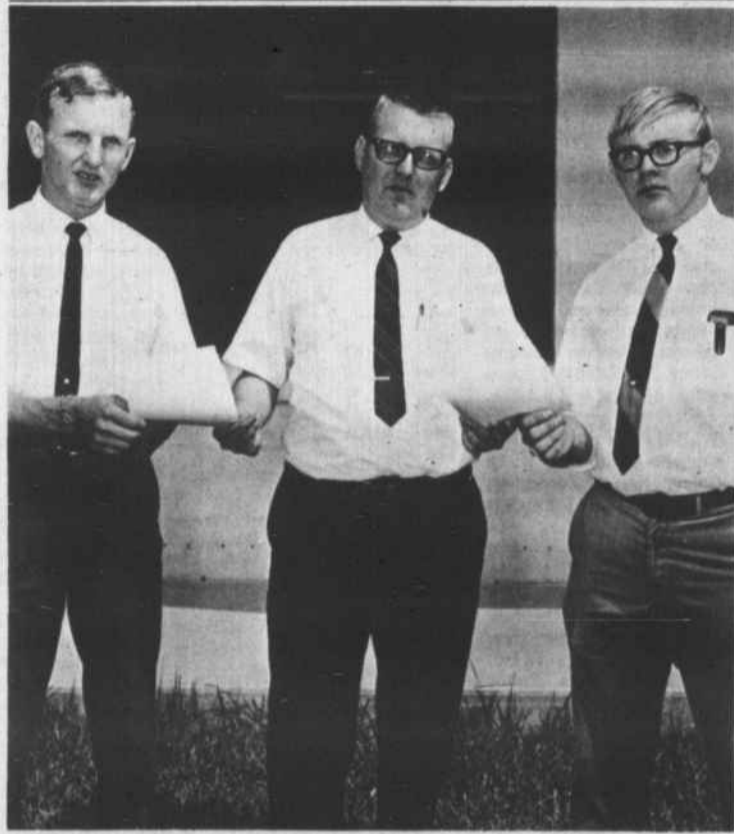

Special music was rendered by the Glee Club under the direction of Mrs. Bruce Honeycutt.

Marshals for the occasion were Al Thompson, chief; Karen Colbert, Cindi Dement, Gary Dement and Leesa Harris.
