In Fashion

A white frock with a black belt and a black border around the hem of the skirt is rather smart. The border is about four inches wide and makes the skirt seem even shorter than it is.

Scarfs and shawls are in the picture this season. Some of the shawls have fringe. Other scarfs may be worn at the throat, over the shoulder or attached to the belt.

Combination of stripes may be used on some dresses with the stripes running around the skirt and bodice while the midriff has them running up and down.

A riot of color and fabrics make a new fashion for summer in fisherwives skirts. Most of them are voluminous garments, long and bouffant—although some designs are quite short but also sporting layers of skirts.
