Blenders Can "Do Your Thing"

Many Durham County homemakers are aware of the numerous jobs a blender can perform. For example, at a "Small Equipment Workshop" sponsored by the Agricultural Extension Service, the women learned to make confectionary sugar from granulated sugar. By pouring a small amount of plain sugar in the blender and processing at a high speed for about two minutes, confectionary sugar can be the end product.

The women also discovered that a simplified method of chopping vegetables in the blender can eliminate a lot of clean-up. This method: fill the blender container about half full of water, cut the vegetable into one-inch pieces, regulate to switch to "on and off" positions quickly, and pour into a colander to drain leaving hardly a trace of the chopped vegetable in the blender container.

Mrs. Mary J. Whitmore, assistant home economics Extension agent, believes that if the homemaker learns to use her standard blender effectively, she would not have to invest in a more expensive, deluxe model.

Showing Your Age

No need to show your age, believes Mrs. Jo Simpson of Onslow County. Hard work can keep you young.

According to Mrs. Mary R. Howell, assistant home economics Extension agent, Mrs. Simpson, an active member of the Back Swamp Extension Homemakers Club, sells her produce twice weekly at the Onslow County Curb Market. She not only sells the produce, she plants, cares for and gathers the vegetables, the agent notes. And Mrs. Simpson is 80 years young.

Where There's a Will

"Where there's a will there's a way" was never truer than in the Silver Valley Community of Davidson County, believes Mrs. Martha B. Thompson, home economics Extension agent.

For the members of the Silver Valley Extension Homemakers Club took on a mammoth job as a community service.

The Silver Valley School needed a new stage drop curtain before commencement but costs were greater than the budget.

Shopping around in all sorts of unlikely places, the Extension Homemakers Club members found a large roll of pure linen drapery fabric in a bargain center. They bought 100 yards at the bargain price of a dollar a yard and started sewing.

"How much are potatoes worth now?"

"No more than they were, lady, but they're costing about six times as much."

With some financial help from the local PTA, the women finished the backdrop complete with eyelets and weights and put it up.

Mrs. Thompson adds that the stage looked "just right" for commencement exercises.

Enthusied Over Sewing Since her husband bought her a sewing machine, Mrs. Charles Timmons, a Scotland County homemaker, has added many garments to her wardrobe and her daughter's wardrobe.

In addition to having more variety in the family wardrobes, Mrs. Timmons is convinced she is saving her husband money by being a do-it-yourselfer. Mrs. Ann M. Braswell, home economics Extension agent, says.
