Celebrate 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney B. Foster of Epsom were honored Sunday, July 20, with a reception on their Fiftieth Wedding anniversary at Liberty Vance United Church of Christ. Host for the 3 to 5 p.m. affair were the sons and daughters of the couple. About 200 friends and relatives called during the reception.

For the occasion Mrs. Foster was attired in a dress of green imported silk accented by a gold orchid corsage.

Guests were greeted by Miss Sylvia Foster and Mr. Wayne Lancaster. Presiding at the guest register were Misses Judy Duckworth and Evon Foster, all grandchildren of the honored couple.

Introducing to the receiving line were Mrs. Bobby Moss and Charles Foster. The receiving line was composed of the honored couple and their children. Ben D. Foster of Raleigh, Uldine Duckworth of Greensboro, Harold Foster of Louisburg, Helen Lancaster, Hilda Moore and Ann Bartholomew all of Route 1, Henderson. Also in the receiving line were Mr. and Mrs. William D. Foster who were married the same day as the honored couple.

Presiding at the gift table were Misses Brenda Duckworth, Sylvia Lloyd, Gwen Lancaster, Mr. Ronnie Moore and Mike Foster, all grandchildren of the couple. The gift table was covered with a gold cloth on which was an arrangement of lilies of the valley which was centered with silver wedding rings entwined with white ribbon tied in lovers knots and sprigs of lily of the valley. Also on the table was a decorative bridal doll.

On the piano was a gold wedding ring with a miniature bride and groom in the center around which was an arrangement of yellow fifti mums and smaller mums also in yellow. On the base of the arrangement were bunches of green grapes. The serving table was covered with a white cloth overlaid with a white lace tablecloth. The centerpiece was an arrangement of gold summer flowers arranged in a gold and white cupid. On each side was a seven branch candelabra holding antique gold candles. On one end of the table was a four tiered wedding cake accented with gold flowers and gold and white bells. The bottom layer consisted of three heart shaped cakes joined together with white bells tied with gold ribbon. On the other end was a crystal punch bowl on a large crystal tray surrounded by green grapes. Punch was poured by Mrs. Ben Foster and cake was served by Mrs.

MR. AND MRS. SIDNEY B. FOSTER

Harold Foster. Other refreshments consisted of homemade mints, open faced sandwiches and peanuts.

Assisting with the reception were Mrs. Alton Foster, Mrs. Daniel Ayscue, Mrs. Hurley Murphy, Mrs. Curtis Stainback, Mrs. Ben Allen Newton and Mrs. Norwood Wynne. Mr. F. B. Foster was responsible for the punch.

Good-byes were said to Mr. Lewis Duckworth and Mr. R. A. Bartholomew, Jr., son-in-laws of the couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Foster were married July 19, 1919, at Laurel. They are both lifetime residents of the Epsom community and are active members of Liberty Vance United Church of Christ. Mr. Foster has served on several church boards and Mrs. Foster is currently serving as deaconess.

The couple has six children and eleven grandchildren.

Local Ladies On Canadian Tour

By Elizabeth Johnson, Editor

The eastern coastline of North America is something to behold. And the northern shoreline is so different from that of North Carolina and neighboring states.

Well, to catch you up with me, Mrs. Genevieve Perry, Miss Lucy P. Burt, Miss Adelaide Johnson and I joined a Trailways Tour bus in Henderson early Saturday morning, July 19, for a tour of Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and Gaspe Peninsula, all in Canada.

The first day took us to New York, a route that my readers know from having made visits along the way. So Sunday's travel took us the coastal route via Bridgeport, New Haven and Hartford, Conn. making a stop at Mystic, Convel, a seaport reconstructed for preserving history. Then we followed the Massachusetts and Maine turnpikes to Portland, Maine for Sunday nights' stay. Traveling thru Maine, we noticed the change in the coastline. It became very rugged and irregular all the way to Bar Harbor on Monday.

While in Bar Harbor, Me., we had a sightseeing tour of the Acadian National Park, a combination of ocean and mountain scenery that makes the area one of the most enchanting spots of America.

On Tuesday, we left Bar Harbor early for the 100-mile ferry across the Bay of Fundy to Yarmouth, Nova Scotia. After going thru customs [and mind you, when two bags of the 44 on our bus were picked for inspection, mine was one!]. We visited a woolen shop in Yarmouth and checked in our motel after a very long day.

Wednesday was an eventful day. Leaving Yarmouth, we headed to Halifax, N. S., stopping at Annapolis Royal, famous for its early history and the first capital of Nova Scotia (1710 - 1749) seeing Fort Anne National Historic Park, a fort which was important in early Canadian history and which overlooks the Annapolis Basin, scene of many battles between French and the British from 1613 - 1690. On then thru the famous apple growing country we arrived at Grand Pre which was the scene of expulsion of the Acadians from Nova Scotia in 1775 and was immortalized by Longfellow's poem "Evangeline." Late in the evening we arrived at Halifax, the capital city of the province. Halifax was celebrating its 220th birthday and the city was crowded. At night there were fireworks and street dancing. During the day all kinds of competitive sports had taken place, we were told.

Thursday morning we had a guided tour of Halifax; a city of about 205,000, I believe we were told. They had just recently taken into the city outlying area of a 10 mile radius. In the afternoon we traveled rugged coastline northeast through Truro to New Glasgow for the night.

In this section of Nova Scotia, we observed lots of building, both of housing commercial buildings and roads. It seems to be booming.

Today, Friday, July 25, has been a day to remember. Leaving New Glasgow we have traveled the Cabot Trail in Cape Breton, Nova Scotia to the north and around the northwestern shore of the island to Margaree Forks for the night. We climbed mountains and had the Atlantic Ocean just below us and as far as we could see. The coastline was very rugged and irregular. All along the way we saw piles of lobster traps and evidence of the traps set in the ocean.

Also we have seen in this section large piles of pulp wood ready to be shipped out.

The countryside is beautiful.

About Your Home

In order to get the most from your vacation—whether it be a month long stay at a luxurious hotel or a weekend at a friend's fishing camp—it is a good idea to go about the first fundamental step of getting ready in an efficient manner.

The ladies-teenage included—might try making a list of the outfits they think they will need. This list should include jewelry, handbags, gloves—in other words—all accessories. Next, list the necessary under garments, and so on until you have a complete list of the clothes you wish to take with you.

This same list-making technique is an ideal guard against forgetting necessary items for the baby and young children. Make a list of the things the man of the house will need. If he is one of those rare men who does his own packing for a trip—he will appreciate the help. If mother does the packing for him, she can get him to check the list for articles she may have forgotten.

The actual packing of clothes requires only common sense and carefulness. Never cram too many clothes into a suitcase.
