Locals Attend C & D Board Swearing

A number of local citizens attended this morning's swearing in ceremonies for the new State Conservation and Development Board members in the old House chambers in Raleigh.

Of interest to the Franklin area was the swearing in of Clifton D. Moss, an Enfield insurance man, with close ties here in Franklin County.

Among those reported attending were County Commissioner Norwood Faulkner, Industrial Development Director Ken Schubart, members of the Industrial Commission, Scott campaign leaders Bernard Walters of Louisburg and Clinton Carlyle of Rt. 2, Zebulon. Others attending the 10 A.M. ceremonies were not identified.

Driving carefully may not get you anywhere as fast as possible but it will get you there safely.

The man who was boasting of his love for hot weather some months ago is about to be fully satisfied.

Garden Time

By M. E. Gardner

Frequently I take an old book from the bookcase shelf and read. The last one was written by E. P. Roe in 1881, published by Dodd Meade & Company and titled "Success with Small Fruits."

I learned that Norfolk, Va. and Charleston, S. C., were the centers of strawberry production 85 years ago. While I found this newly-discovered data to be interesting, I was more impressed with the preface prepared by Mr. Roe, and am quoting from it:

"A book should be judged somewhat in view of what it attempts. One of the chief objects of this little (it is not so little, Ed.) volume is to lure men and women back to their original calling, that of gardening. I am decidedly under the impression that Eve helped Adam, especially as the sun declined.

"I am sure that they had small fruits for breakfast, dinner and supper and would not be at all surprised if they ate some between meals. The Adams and Eves of every generation can have an Eden if they wish. Indeed, I know so many instances in which Eve creates a beautiful garden without any help from Adam.

"The theologians show that we have inherited much evil from our first parents; but, in general disposition to have a garden, can we not recognize a redeeming ancestral trait?

"I would like to contribute my little share toward increasing this tendency, believing that as humanity goes back to its first occupation it may also acquire some of the primal gardener's characteristics before he listened to temptation and ceased to be even a gentleman. When he brutally blamed the woman, it was time he was turned out of Eden.

"All the best things of the garden suggest refinement and courtesy. Nature might have contended herself with producing seeds only, but she accompanies the prosaic action with fragrant flowers and delicious fruit. It would be well to remember this in the ordinary courtesies of life.

"The modern chronicler has transformed history into a fascinating story. Even science is now taught through the charms of fiction. Shall this department of knowledge, so generally useful, be left only to technical prose? Why should we not have a set of books as practical as the gardens, fields and crops, concerning which they are written, and at the same time having much of the light, shade, color and life of the out-of-door world.

"In writing this book, I merely claim that I have made an attempt in the right direction."

Big words do not always convey big thoughts.

In Service

LYNWOOD L. NEAL

U. S. Army, Vietnam (AHTNC) - Army Private First Class Lynwood L. Neal, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willie M. Neal, 822 Kenmore, Louisburg, N. C., was assigned to the Americal Division in Vietnam, July 22 as a mortarman.

SCHOOL-WISE - A-rated for classroom wear and at-home care is this school dress of wrinkle-resistant cotton. In a colorful gold print, it's styled with full skirt and its own petticoat. Rickrack trim adds a pert note to the white collar and cuffs. By Betty Oden of California.

So far, judging from receipts, our neighbors have poor gardens this year.

The call of duty, it seems, coincides with the highest salary available.
