

About Your Home

The husband who can walk into an orderly house at the end of a hard day at the office can count himself lucky. He may be under the delusion that housework is easy. Not only is "good" housekeeping hard work, it takes organization and skill.

It is all but impossible to run a household as it should be run without a desk or "home office" where the homemaker can snatch a few sit-down minutes while outlining the week's menus or paying the monthly bills. Far too few of us have this bit of private space.

The sit-down desk for the homemaker can be as elementary as a shelf in a niche, or a complete desk flanked with files. It can be successfully located anywhere—in the kitchen dining room, living room, or any place away from daytime traffic. If you will acquire the habit of organizing your housekeeping, it will not only look effortless, but will be much easier for you. You will probably find that you have a little more leisure time to do some of the things you really enjoy.

A good filing cabinet is almost as important as a stove when you are planning your home. The average homemaker has endless small articles, booklets, clippings and extra keys for the home and family cars that she is responsible for keeping track of. What better way is there to insure always being able to put your hand on these items than to file them away, under lock and key.

In this day of "built-ins" it should be no problem at all to have a hideaway home office designed with a drop-down desk and a cushioned bench with a slide-out step for reaching storage space and a seat for your work, all in one.

Mrs. Yarborough Speaks To DKG

Two County Teachers Initiated

Mrs. Elsa Yarborough, Librarian of Louisburg College and Franklin County, spoke on "Project: Delta Kappa Gamma" at the luncheon meeting of Xi Chapter, Delta Kappa Gamma, in Norlina Saturday.

Mrs. Yarborough viewed the historical growth of the activities of women, outside of the home, in the fields of politics, of education, and of social-professional equality and recognition. She cited the birth of DKG in Austin, Texas when five women educators organized, working toward the goal of social-professional equality and recognition, and for the recognition of the services of outstanding women educators! Following the growth and influence of this group and recognizing its many present day projects and large membership, she closed with "You've come a long way, Baby!"

Mrs. Christie Holland of Henderson, president, presided at the luncheon held in the Norlina Woman's Club building. Following the luncheon, a business session was held during which Mrs. Virginia Waller of Henderson, secretary, read the minutes of the spring meeting and of the Executive Board meeting. The president then called for reports of various committee chairmen.

The initiation service was held in the Norlina Baptist Church. The very impressive service was presided over by Mrs. Holland, president; Mrs. James Clayton of Louisburg, First Vice-president; Mrs. Lou Pitts Watkins of Oxford, Second Vice-president; Mrs. Virginia Waller of Henderson, secretary; and Mrs. Edith Adams of Henderson, Initiation Chairman.

who were escorted by Mrs. Evelyn J. Williamson of Louisburg and Miss Edith Jackson of Franklinton, respectively.

FACE UP TO FALL

Now's the ideal time to revitalize your summer weary complexion. How? Simply by using a basic complexion care program that includes cleansing cream, skin freshener and moisture cream.

Amway of Ada suggests the following three steps for the benefits of a professional facial... in the privacy of your home.

Step 1 - Cleansing: Spread cream generously over entire face using upward and outward motions, being sure to handle skin gently. Tissue off completely.

Step 2 - Freshening: Saturate a cotton pad with freshener and stroke over face and neck and enjoy the tingle!

Step 3 - Moisturizing: It's best to smooth moisture cream on nightly after cleansing and freshening or during the daytime. Apply gently with fingertips and massage well.

Health And Beauty

If you tried many times to reduce, and failed, presumably from the lack of will power, it may mean you need to change your attitude.

In the first place, you must really want to lose extra pounds badly enough to endure some uncomfortable days. This desire is the one thing that is the basis of all successful diets.

Psychologists tell us that in this department many people have a "mind set." They say that, although you don't want to fail, you fear you will, and half-way expect to. An extremely nervous person will over-eat because, by drawing a great amount of blood to the digestive tract to digest the food, body tension is relieved.

Over-large amounts of food are used as a kind of sedative by some.

There are numerous other reasons for over-eating-self an inferiority complex - the list could go on and on. The important thing is to understand your inability to diet.

Once this problem has been over-come, you are ready to choose your diet plan. If you want to lose a great deal of weight, it is important that you consult your doctor. He will tell you how fast to lose weight, the best diet for you, and how much exercise to take during your diet.

If you want to lose four or five pounds, you will probably be able to do this by simply cutting down on the intake of food.

Remember - exercise is more important while you are dieting than at any other time. It helps keep your muscles and skin firm.

When at a loss for words, say nothing.
