New Life

is given by using BROWN'S IRON BITTERS. In the Winter it strengthens and warms the system; in the Spring it enriches the blood and conquers disease; in the Summer it gives tone to the nerves and digestive organs; in the Fall it enables the system to stand the shock of sudden changes.

In no way can disease be so surely prevented as by keeping the system in perfect condition. BROWN'S IRON BITTERS ensures perfect health through the changing seasons, it disarms the danger from impure water and miasmatic air, and it prevents Consumption, Kidney and Liver Disease, &c.

H. S. Berlin, Esq., of the well-known firm of H. S. Berlin & Co., Attorneys, Le Droit Building, Washington, D. C., writes, Dec. 5th, 1881:

Gentlemen: I take pleasure in stating that I have used Brown's Iron Bitters for malaria and nervous troubles, caused by overwork, with excellent results.

NEWS OBSERVATIONS.

—“A miscarriage of justice” is what the Hartford Courant calls the result of the Malley trial.

—The Arkansas State Gazette concludes that Arthur's chances of election in 1884 “are better than any other Republican candidate.”

—The New Orleans Times-Democrat thinks that the revenue taxes, instead of being reduced $17,000,000, ought to be cut down a round $100,000,000.

—The stalwart Republicans of Pennsylvania now propose to have another convention in which the Independents shall participate, throwing overboard all nominations and making new ones. The stalwarts are whipped.

—The Press, Republican, says: The Republicans of Iowa voted for prohibition almost solidly, and in making the temperance issue their own they have avoided the confusion in party politics caused by the injection of the temperance issue elsewhere. They carried it by their usual majority.

—There are in Missouri 750,000 children of school age, of whom only 350,000 are enrolled, leaving 400,000 out of school and away from school training. The length of the term of attendance of the 350,000 who are enrolled is only 100 days of six hours each, provided all attend every day.

—The debt statement for July 1 shows a reduction of the indebtedness, less cash in the Treasury, of $12,560,696.70 effected during the month of June. This brings the decrease of the debt for the fiscal year which closed on Friday to $151,684,351, or about the total that was anticipated at the close of the last quarter.

—The Liverpool Journal of Commerce says: Another flagrant case of “sanding” cotton is reported at Oldham. A firm of cotton spinners bought forty bales at a little over 63d. per pound. On being opened some 300 pounds were found unmarketable, and the remainder lost 23 per cent. in being worked, through the quantity of sand and dirt with which it was impregnated. It is estimated that this raised the actual price of the cotton to 81d. per pound, a difference more than sufficient to absorb the largest profits.

—A singular and fatal accident occurred near Greenville last week. Rose Blasingame, an old colored woman, went to the death bed of her son-in-law who had died soon after her arrival. Soon after his death she began preparing his remains for burial. While thus engaged a storm came up, but she did not desist and still remained by the body, the door of the house having been allowed to remain unclosed despite the rain. Suddenly there was a vivid flash of lightning, followed by a terrific crash, and the old woman fell dead, struck down by the dreadful current. Her body was much mangled and torn and death was apparently instantaneous.

—The steamship France, of the National Line, which arrived Monday from London, by way of Havre, brought a large consignment of Norman horses for breeding purposes. The animals had been carefully placed in padded stalls and were in splendid condition when the steamer reached her dock. There were 168 horses, twenty-one colts and two foals. The animals were all fine and large, some of them weighing 2,000 pounds each. This breed is an unusually fine one. They make the best draught horses; few of them, however, ever show great speed. The consignment belongs to a number of stock breeders in Illinois. The animals will be shipped to the West in a day or two. Their average value is placed at about $1,000. They were purchased in different portions of Normandy by American agents.

—A dispatch from Corry says: A strange crank passed through here Saturday on the down express who professed to be on a divine mission to Washington to execute the command of God by avenging Guiteau's murder, as he termed it. He resembles Guiteau in personal appearance, and professes to be a distant relative. He said he had never taken much stock in Guiteau until the night before he was hanged, when God appeared to him in a vision and commanded him to go to Washington and avenge Guiteau's murder. As to the manner in which this is to be effected he is in doubt, as God promised to reveal it to him upon his arrival in Washington. He refused to tell his name or where he came from, but he had a ticket from Chicago to New York. He uttered terrible threats against Arthur and others. He is supposed to be crazy on the subject. When he learned that he was talking to newspaper correspondent he refused to talk further, and said that it would all come out in time.

—Some experiments have been made at the site of the proposed harbor of refuge at Duncanson Point, by the Captain the Hon. H. W. Chetwyn, R. N., district inspector of life-boats, to test the value of oil in calming rough water. There was a sufficiently heavy sea on at the time of the experiment to endanger a small open boat, and the Duncanson lifeboat, the David Hallett, was launched, and anchored in five fathoms of water. A small canvas bag, containing about half a gallon of oil, and pierced with several holes with a large needle, was attached to the anchor of a buoy. This had the effect of producing a space of still water spreading from the buoy to a distance of about twenty yards wide, and of considerable length. Every breaking sea that reached the oily surface immediately fell dead, and passed by it a harmless roll. The trials will be continued. The River Tyne commissioners are, it is stated, about to erect in connection with the harbor works now being carried on at Tynemouth a number of oil tanks, so that oil can when necessary be used to prevent the sea breaking against the north pier at the entrance of the river.

Judge Gilmer and Solicitor Strudwick Re-nominated on the First Ballot.

[Special to THE NEWS AND OBSERVER.]
DURHAM, July 4, 1882.
At the Judicial Convention of the fifth district held here to-day, all of the counties were represented. Hon. John A. Gilmer and Col. L. C. Edwards were put in nomination. Judge Gilmer received 2587 votes and Col. Edwards 1573 votes, and Judge Gilmer was declared nominated, and his nomination was made unanimous. Capt. F. N. Strudwick was then unanimously nominated for Solicitor. There was great harmony and much enthusiasm. R. B.

The Virginia State Regatta.
FREDERICKSBURG, VA., July 4.—The State regatta began here to-day at 11:45 a. m., with a four-oared shell race between the Potomac, of Washington, and the Rappahannock, of Fredericksburg. The course was three and a quarter miles and returned. The boats started at the word and kept even to the bridge, about one-third of the way up, when the Rappahannock fouled one of the piers, whereby they lost a length or two. The Potomac took the lead there and kept it. The turn was effected with great skill by the Potomac, who easily won the race by seven lengths. Time: 12 minutes and 5 seconds. A single scull between W. E. McKeeney, of Washington, and D. Barclay, of Norfolk, in a three fourth mile and return, was won with ease by McKeeney. Barclay took the lead, but was soon overtaken by McKeeney, who came in eight lengths ahead. Time: 12 minutes and 31 1/2 seconds. The races were rowed in a steady rain.

The Hatchett-Young Murder Trial.

PETERSBURG, VA., July 4.—The Court of Appeals has granted a writ of supersedeas in the case of Oliver Hatchett, colored, convicted in the Circuit Court of Brunswick county last April of the murder of Moses Young, colored, and sentenced to be hanged on the 21st of this month. The case will come up for trial in the Court of Appeals at its session at Richmond next winter. On the petition for a new trial a writ of supersedeas has been forwarded to Hatchett's counsel, Littleton Hatchett, the father of Oliver Hatchett, who was also convicted last April as a party to the murder. The case was subsequently brought before the Supreme Court on a writ of supersedeas, when the court decided that the evidence did not justify conviction. This case comes up again at the fall term of the county circuit court. Both murderers are confined in the county jail of Brunswick.

Washington News.

The conference committee on the bill to enable national banking associations to extend their corporate existence has failed to reach an agreement on the 12th and 13th sections.
Commodore R. W. Shufeldt has been detached from duty in China with the United States legation, under instructions from the Department of State, and ordered home. It is understood that his recall was due to his open letter to ex-Senator Sargent, containing severe strictures on the highest Chinese authorities, and also serious imputations against the Emperor's character, which letter is supposed to have been written to affect the legislation on the Chinese bill, which was then pending.
The Senate finance committee, at a special meeting to-day, had under consideration the bill to reduce internal revenue taxation, which passed the House June 29th.

Mr. Rogers, deputy commissioner of internal revenue, upon invitation of the committee, appeared before them and presented the views of the department upon the pending bill. Mr. Rogers opposed the proviso which the House appended to the bill, and gave strong reasons why it should be stricken out. The proviso allows a rebate or draw back of the full amount of the reduction on all original unbroken packages of checks, matches, cigars, cheroots and cigarettes held by manufacturers or dealers on the passage of the act, and upon which the tax has been paid. The proviso also makes it the duty of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, to adopt rules and regulations and to prescribe and furnish blank forms, necessary to carry out the act. Mr. Rogers stated that the effect of this proviso would simply be to take a large amount of money from the Treasury as a gratuity to dealers, while it would confer no benefit whatever upon the country. A difference of two mills in the tax upon each cigar would not be appreciable with reference to a single cigar and would make no difference in their cost to the consumer, and that the proviso, if allowed to stand in the bill, would give rise to hundreds of thousands of vexatious claims, entailing upon the department a vast amount of labor and expense in their ascertainment and adjustment. It would, moreover, open the doors for innumerable frauds which would be next to impossible to guard against by any system of regulations. The committee virtually decided to strike out the entire proviso. They will hold another meeting to-morrow, when they expect to be ready to report the bill to the Senate.

GLADSTONE'S TRAP.

How the Expulsion of the Irish Members Was Brought About.

LONDON, July 2.—The intense excitement caused by the expulsion of the Irish members subsided almost as soon as the act was done. Many members on both sides began to perceive that a mistake had been committed. Later, when Mr. Gladstone entered, he learned the circumstances of the suspension. It was easy to see from his pale and contracted face that he felt some one had blundered. Later in the day the whole story leaked out that the government had laid a trap for the Irish members. At a cabinet council it had been arranged that the Irish members should be suspended by surprise, something in the fashion of last year. It was hoped that in the course of the debate they would be tempted to say or do something which would give a colorable pretext for the action of the chair. In this hope the following plan was adopted: When at midnight the Irish party divided into two relays the government obtained a list of all the men composing the Irish night relay. It was then arranged with the Speaker that about 7 o'clock in the morning an alteration should be provoked, which would offer an excuse to the chairman of the committee to suspend the whole relay en bloc so that the government, having suspended all the Parliaments present, could pass the bill through committee before the day relay arrived to take their places. The plan failed because, contrary to calculation, the Irish members refrained from any act which would give the slightest pretext for the interference of the chairman. Thus disappointed Sir William Harcourt endeavored, early in the morning, to fasten a quarrel upon the Irish members, but he was only partially successful. The Speaker was anxious to carry out the orders of the government, and was ignorant of the fact that his list of the Irish night relay was only partially correct. He sent word to Dr. Playfair to suspend the members on the list on the charge of obstruction. Then occurred a scandal which shocked even many conservative members. Members were suspended by a vote of the House for obstructing business who had been at home in bed all night, and arrived to find themselves found guilty of the crime of obstruction. The Irish party sat at once the blunder that had been made, and were going to continue the discussion as if nothing had happened. Then the curious sight was exhibited of the House, which had executed a coup d'etat, struggling for three lines.

In an interview, after the expulsions, Mr. Parnell said: “I think that the suspensions were prearranged in anticipation of our giving ground for them by obstruction; but finding there was no obstruction, the coup d'etat did not come off as soon as was originally intended, but it was resorted to later on by Dr. Playfair, and a considerable body of opinion on both sides of the House holds that we have been most unfairly treated, and this opinion is growing. Many Liberals walked out when the division was called, and refused to vote, owing, I believe, to the absence of anything which could fairly be called obstruction. The Ministers had partly changed their minds, and had partly abandoned their intention of suspension when Dr. Playfair blundered prematurely into it. I consider this step as most dangerous to the government, and I believe that they regret it.”

In the confusion which followed the first motion to suspend the Irish members Mr. Parnell was seen to leave his place and go toward Dr. Playfair. A group of members gathered about, attracted by the unusual action of the Irish leader, who seemed somewhat angry. Having arrived at the chair, he addressed the following observations to the chairman of the committee: “Of course, I understand, Dr. Playfair, that you are bound to obey your orders, but I wish to say that there is no foundation for the statement you have just made to the Speaker. I deny that I have obstructed the bill, either by intent or deed, at any of its stages.” Dr. Playfair hesitated for a few moments and then replied: “I admit, Mr. Parnell, that you have not obstructed the bill or spoken much during its progress, but you belong to the party. I have therefore considered myself entitled to include you in the suspension.” Mr. Parnell replied: “I also deny that any of the party have obstructed the bill, and consider that your conduct is an abuse, even on your own showing, of the rule regulating the suspension of members, as this rule has reference only to individual action, and certainly does not entitle the chairman to make one member responsible for the acts of another.”

A Prominent Greenbacker Killed.

CHARLESTON, S. C., July 4.—L. W. R. Blair, a prominent Greenbacker, was shot and instantly killed at Camden, where he lived, to-day. No particulars are yet at hand.

We place our advocacy for the present system of county government on a higher plane. The object of all government is the security of life, limb and property. Does it better secure property, (there is no question about life or limb) to elect commissioners by the vote of the people or as now? Every one must answer, no. But it is said that no man can be taxed unless he has a voice in electing the taxing officers. Who are taxed in these eastern counties? Ninety nine out of a hundred of the negroes pay no tax except on their polls; white men and Democrats pay nearly all the taxes. Yet conscientious men say that negroes ought to love them because under our system of government the majority must rule; the minority, if it has got the brains and property, must bend its head before the obnoxious tyrant which the majority have erected for it.—Tarboro Dramatic Guide.

HOW HE CAUGHT A CRAB.

A Young Lady Gets Even With a Practical Joker.

[San Francisco Post.]
They tell a story of a would-be funny broker, who last season adopted a most fisherish method of getting even with one of the chronic flirts who are said to make the piazzas here lively later in the season. He obtained half a dozen energetic crabs from the fishing beach, and watching for an opportunity when no one was in a particular tank, except the inconsistent fair creature (way up term for crabs). The young lady continued her natorial exercises (jam up for padding) a few minutes longer, when she suddenly uttered a blood-curdling shriek, and was helped up the ladder with a crab hanging on to her pink little toe. She had several consecutive epileptic fits while the marine doctor was being removed. The Mephistophelean glee of the broker, however, gave him away, and for fear of some counter-trick he decided to bathe early in the morning thereafter. A few days after that the bath-house keeper was startled by some terrific yell, and hastily entering the tank-house he beheld the broker floundering out with a big, jagged-toothed spring rat-trap clenched on his heel.
“Who the devil put this horrible thing in the water?” roared the broker.
“I did, sir,” sweetly replied the crabbed young lady aforementioned, stepping out of a bath-room. “I put it there to catch those horrid crabs, you know.”
The broker went home on a crutch.

Richmond and Danville Railroad Company.

RICHMOND, VA., July 3.—At a general meeting of the stockholders of the Richmond and Danville Railroad held here to-day a resolution was adopted accepting the provisions of the act passed by the Legislature last winter authorizing that company to increase its capital stock, upon condition that it surrender its exemption from State taxation. President Buford was directed to make a deed releasing the company from said exemption. The meeting also adopted a resolution indorsing the action of the board of directors increasing the capital stock of the West Point and Terminal Company 10,000 shares.

To the Voters of the Third Congressional District.

In reply to many inquiries and letters received expressing a desire to know as to whether or not I am a candidate for re-nomination, I deem it proper to reply in this manner:
“Little more than two years ago the Democratic party, in convention, in the town of Fayetteville, tendered me the nomination for Congress. Under circumstances familiar to every voter in the district I accepted, I confess, with fear and trembling, because of the disorganization of the party, caused by its defeat in the former Congressional struggle. After a heated and bitter contest, with two political opponents in the field, with the aid of a united Democracy victory again perched upon our banner.
The nomination was unsolicited by me, as my friends well know. I have not sought re-nomination, nor have I requested my friends to influence conventions or executive committees to appoint delegates in my interest to the Congressional Convention, and will not. I don't believe in combinations and trades. Let the people, uninfluenced, nominate the man of their choice; victory will then be ours; otherwise defeat is inevitable. The people and not rings must control our conventions if we expect our candidates to bear the flag to victory.
I thank the voters of the district for their encouragement and support given me in the late contest. The thanks of the Democracy of the State are due you for redeeming the district, and perhaps saving the party in the Old North State.
Two years ago, at your bidding, I led a forlorn hope, with what success you know. As to my candidacy for a seat in the 48th Congress, I leave that with my friends, and shall be content to abide their decision.”
J. W. SHACKELFORD.

—Apropos of the recent solar eclipse, a story worthy of Hacklander has recently gone the round of the German papers. It appears that on the morning of the event alluded to Captain von S., of the — Fulmiers, issued the following verbal order to his company, through his Sergeant-Major, to be communicated to the men after forenoon parade: “This afternoon a solar eclipse will take place. At 3 o'clock the whole company will parade in the barrack-yard. Fatigue jackets and caps. I shall explain the eclipse to the men. Should it rain, they will assemble in the drill-shed.” The Sergeant-Major, having set down his commanding officer's instructions in writing, as he had understood them, formed the company into hollow square at the conclusion of the morning drill, and read his version of the order to them, thus: “This afternoon a solar eclipse will take place in the barrack-yard, by order of the captain, and will be attended by the whole company, in fatigue jackets and caps. The captain will conduct the solar eclipse in person. Should it rain, the eclipse will take place in the drill-shed.”
