-A special from Akron, Ohio, says: The people living in the coal-mining regions, embracing four towns and quite a large range of country, were awakened at four o'clock Sunday morning by low, rumbling sounds, accompanied by shocks of earthquake so distinet that houses were shaken and articles on mantels were thrown to the floor. Several years ago the earth settled several feet without apparent cause in this region, and people are new badly frightened, fearing they will be swallowed up. To make matters more unpleasant, a very large meteor yesterday morning passed over the shaken-up portion of country, travelling close to the earth and throwing off particles every few feet. The meteor illuminated the country for r great distance, and is supposed to have struck the earth near the eastern part of the city, as the shock in that locality was distinctly felt immediately after the great fire-ball passed. Sunday was a day of special prayer here by many people.

The Northern Settlers Convention. Savaunah News.

This North Carolina idea is a good one, and will, doubtless, be productive of excellent results to the State. It will help to make the State known, and will place before the public not only its resources and the character of its soil and climate, but, also, the fact that there is a progressive spirit among the North Carolina people, which, in itself, is an inducement for immigrants to seek

In some of the Southern States there s altogether too conservative a spirit respecting immigration. There is a disposition to let well enough alone. "We want the land for our children," say some, and "we don't care to have strangers come among us," say others. The strangers are coming some time, however, and why not have them come now when the best of them can be selected?

What is the use of permitting millions of acres to remain unoccupied and uncultivated while those who could cultivate them and make them productive are seeking the West, building it up and making it rich and populous? Immigration has made the West what it is, and it can make the South as great.

North Carolina is starting right in this matter, and her October convention will produce good results. If immigrants in considerable numbers begin to look for homes there it will not be long before her lands will rise in value and her towns and cities will pulsate with renewed life.
