TUESDAY, AUGUST 2, 1887.

The Craftsman has been removed from Charlotte to Greensboro.

Ex-Solicitor Strudwick and ex-State Senator Parrish are to establish a paper at Hillsboro. We wish them well.

Mr. Gladstone is reported in high spirits over the outlook and certainly victory for him does not seem to be a matter of many months now.

The Blaine men are very much amused at the meaningless endorsement of Sherman in Ohio the other day.

Boulanger begins to appear in the light of a charlatan. He seems to be meddlesome and seeking notoriety to the exclusion of patriotic devotion to his duty.

The report that Mr. Blaine would return hurriedly to America is denied. The famous tattooed man considers his fences in reasonably good repair.

The season at Morehead this summer has been perhaps the most brilliant in the history of the place. The breezy Atlantic will suffer nothing in attractiveness in future in the hands of the veteran hotelier Dr. Blackhall.

The prohibition issue is making things warm in Texas, warmer even than the season warrants. A paper from out there says it does not feel called upon to answer every hissing reptile that "crawls his slime" across its pathway.

Sherman was endorsed in Ohio with the particular understanding that the endorsement should not effect the choice of delegates to the national convention. The qualification Sherman thought "of no consequence."

The people of North Carolina do not propose to saddle themselves with the peculations of the creatures of a military satrapy. Those peculations in part are now known as the special tax bonds, and the amount of these bonds principle and interest is enormous.

The Craig Tolliver gang was exterminated from Rowan county, Kentucky, but their bad deeds live after them. There is further disorder in the notorious district and the governor has ordered troops to the scene of disturbance.

It is proposed that as "the star spangled banner was adopted as the national ensign and first given to the breeze" in August, 1787, a general display of the same on sea and land be made &c. &c., on the anniversary but is there to be no end to these centennial celebrations?

CELEBRATION OF THE CONSTITUTION'S BIRTH.

As our readers know, a commission was organized at Philadelphia in December of last year for the purpose of providing for the proper celebration by the whole country of the Centennial Anniversary of the Framing and Promulgation of the Constitution. This action was taken at the suggestion of the Legislature of New Jersey. The Governors of the thirteen original States took up the patriotic idea, met, either in their own persons or in the persons of worthy representatives, in Philadelphia last September, decided to secure the appointment of commissioners from all the States and Territories and the Constitutional Centennial Commission is the result.

The Constitution is nowhere more revered than in North Carolina, and nowhere more familiar to or better understood by the masses or the people—the white people at least. It has been often said, and is true, that the constitutional argument which may be advanced by the ordinary southern citizen—clad in homespun and far removed from what we call civilization though he may be—is capable of enlightening many a professional politician. The Tar-Heel is no exception to this rule.

We do not remember ever to have known a better crop prospect at this season. All things promise well. The corn and cotton crops are about assured. In oats alone is there any falling short of the brightest outlook, and this is but slight comparatively speaking.

The indications are all in favor of a most abundant harvest in all the various fields of agriculture, and the fact is gratifying indeed. The farmer will be able to do much towards setting himself straight with the world and entering upon that new and unembarrassed career which he has time and again wished for; the wheels of trade and commerce will feel the beneficial effect of the bursting granaries. The price of cotton may be low comparatively, in view of the large crop produced, but with a plentiful supply of corn the farmer can afford to laugh at this as all he gets for his cotton will be a surplus over and beyond his actual needs.

The CHINA DECORATOR is a monthly journal devoted exclusively to the art indicated. It is published in New York at $2 a year.

Charles Edward Greer, one of the sons of the owner of a large estate in the County Tyrone, Ireland, who was working as a porter at the Bancroft House, New York, was stabbed to death by an Astor House porter named John E. Emerson, who afterwards killed himself. The motive for the bloody deed is shrouded in mystery.

Western News. Asheville, N. C., July 30.

The Graded School vote was exceedingly close. Out of 1,440 registered voters only 723 voted for the school, giving two majorities. Eight votes were polled against it. The election was very quiet.

The Normal School closed yesterday. Addresses were delivered by Senator Vance, Mr. N. B. Broughton and ex-State Superintendent Scarborough. The session has been a successful and pleasant one.

The Inferior Court closed its week's session today. Much business has been worked off, and the new officers have given general satisfaction. The court is maintaining its well deserved reputation as a valuable public institution.

A California salmon weighing seven and one-third pounds was caught in the French Broad river yesterday near the depot. This strange fish is supposed to be the surviving member of the lot put into this river by the State fish commissioner some five years ago.

The crops are looking splendid. We are having rather too much rain now, however. The wheat crop of Madison county is said to be largest in the history of that county. The crop in Marshall township is estimated at 25,000 bushels.

Gov. Scales and family are still at the Governor's residence in this city and will remain several days and probably several weeks longer. The Governor is spending most of his time resting and goes to ride every afternoon.

The annual encampment of the Grand Commandery Knights Templar of North Carolina will be held in this city Tuesday, August 2d, and will continue three days. The local commandery at this place expect a large crowd and will give a grand banquet Wednesday night complimentary to the encampment.

The dynamo for the electric lights has been placed in position and it was expected that the lights would be tested last night, but the company state that all things cannot be gotten in readiness till August 5th, when the lights will be turned on.

The last charge at Gettysburg has passed into history not so much as a history of triumph or defeat, but as a history of heroism. It is in history side by side with the fatal ride of Balaklava "into the jaws of death, into the gates of hell." It will rank in history with the pass at Thermopylae, in which victory or defeat will be forgotten in the blaze of heroism, a battle in which heroes courted death and were enamoured of danger.

Errors Economist:—"Honor to whom honor is due." You said well and truly in your paper of July 12, that it was Pickett's and Pettigrew's commands that made history that day at Gettysburg, and it is a falsification for either alone to claim the glory; for Carolinians are equally entitled to the honor, if honor it be, for the desperate but unsuccessful fighting at Gettysburg. I called the company roll of the brave Tyrells, as brave a set of noble fellows as ever drew sword or fired a charge, and 69 Carolinians, the pride of Tyrrell county, marched on that fatal day into the cannon's mouth. Again I called the company roll when they came sullenly out of the fight, and but 18 blood-stained heroes answered to their names.

Commercial Epitome. New York Commercial and Financial Chronicle. FRIDAY NIGHT, July 29, 1887.

The weather has been so hot this week as to discourage physical effort so far as it could be avoided, and the effect is quite apparent in all business circles. Violent storms caused freshets in rivers and mill streams in New England and elsewhere that did much damage to mills and bridges and greatly impeded railroad transportation.

The speculation in lard futures has been dull, but there is no material decline in prices. Lard on the spot has also moved slowly, and there are but slight and irregular changes in prices, closing at 6.60c for prime city, 6.90a, 6.95c for prime to choice Western, 7.10c for refined to the continent and 7.50c for refined to South America.

The speculation in Rio coffee has been quieter, an upward tendency being followed by some depression, closing with sellers at 17.65a18.15c for summer and autumn months, and 18.20a18.35c for the more distant options. Coffee on the spot has not been active, and closes dull at 20c for fair cargoes Rio, with mild grades quite neglected.

Raw sugars have been quieter, and close somewhat nominal at 4 9/16 for fair refining Cuba and 5 1/16c for centrifugal, 96 deg. test. Refined sugars are scarcely so firm. Molasses nominal at 18 1/2c for 50 deg. test. Teas are rather quiet.

Spirits turpentine declined to 31c, leading to an active business, and a recovery of 31 1/2a32c. Rosins are steady at $1.02a1.10 for common to good strained.

Ocean freights have been dull in the shipment of grain, but rates are well maintained; Liverpool 3d. and London 3d. and nominal; business today was at 3 3/4d. to Hull and 8c to Amsterdam.

The speculation in cotton for future delivery at this market has been fairly active for the week under review, but the course of prices was quite unsettled, developing at times some irregularity, as between this and the next crop. On Saturday the heat and the half holiday caused an almost complete desertion of the Cotton Exchange after the first call.

President Cleveland has appointed special agents to divide the Indian reservations individually among the tribes. Our little son will be four years of age on the 29th inst. In May, 1888, he was attacked with a very painful breaking out of the skin. We called in a physician who treated him for about four weeks. The child received little or no good from the medicines which he was supplied by the physician to be given in an aggravated form, became larger in blotches, and more and more distressing.
