KEEP BEFORE THE PEOPLE!

It is urged by the Democratic organs that the law is to be enforced in State and municipal elections. This is done to make it more obnoxious, if that be possible, to their party. But, unfortunately, this is an error. The law applies only to Presidential and Congressional elections, though we heartily wish it could be made to apply to all others.—N. Y. Tribune.

When the rebellious Traitors are overwhelmed in the field, and scattered like leaves before an angry wind, it must not be to return to Peaceful and Contented Homes. THEY MUST FIND POVERTY AT THEIR FIRESIDES, AND SEE PRIVACY IN THE ANXIOUS EYES OF MOTHERS AND THE RAGS OF CHILDREN.—HORACE GREELY, Tribune, May 1st, 1861.

From the Tribune, 1871.
"I hold our Government bound by its duty of protecting our citizens in their fundamental rights, to pass and enforce laws for the extirpation of the execrable Ku Klux conspiracy; and if it has not the power to do it, then I say our Government is no Government, but a sham. I therefore on every proper occasion advocate and justified the Ku Klux act. I hold it especially desirable for the South; and if it does not prove strong enough to effect its purpose, I hope it will be made stronger and stronger."

Work.
An intemperate article, with the above title appeared in the Raleigh Standard, in 1868, which was immediately repudiated by the proprietors of the paper, and the writer discharged. Although this was done immediately and the article denounced by every Republican paper in the State, several Democratic papers keep extracts of this article standing at the head of their editorial columns. We are reliable informed that the writer of this article is one of the editors of the New York Tribune, now the leading Greeley organ of the United States.

"I have listened with unmitigated horror to some of the testimony which has been brought before you. The outrages proceed are shocking to humanity; they admit of neither excuse or justification; they violate every obligation which law and nature imposes upon men; they show that the parties engaged were brutes, insensitive to the obligations of humanity and religion. The day will come, however, if it has not already arrived, when they will deeply lament it. Even if justice shall not overtake them, there is one tribunal from which there is no hope. It is their own judgment—that tribunal which sits in the breast of every living man—that small, still voice that thrills through the heart—the soul of the mind, and as it speaks, gives happiness or torture—the voice of conscience, the voice of God. If it has not already spoken to them in tones which have started them to the normity of their conduct, I trust, in the mercy of Heaven that that voice will speak before they shall be called above to account for the transactions of this world. That it will speak to make them penitent, and that trusting in the dispensations of Heaven, whose justice is dispensed with mercy, when they shall be brought before the bar of their great tribunal, so to speak, that incomprehensible tribunal, there will be found in the fact of their penitence, or in their precious lives, some grounds upon which God may say PARDON."—Speech of Hon. Reverdy Johnson, in Ku Klux trials, December 18th.

Financial Logic.

Wherever and whenever the financial policy of the present Republican Administration is attacked, the stern reply of figures that cannot be form of themselves a simple and an effective answer. No financial policy could have been persistently followed and led the country forward with a steady and undeviating step, if it had been faulty or corrupt. A slight retrospect at the price of gold during the present Administration is suggestive and instructive, and is an evidence of the wisdom and faithfulness with which the fiscal branch of the Government has been conducted under Republican rule.

In March, 1869, when the Johnson Administration went out, the average price of gold during the month was $151. The public was then undecided as to the policy of the new Administration, and every impediment was made by Wall street combinations and adventurers to control the sales of gold in the manner to which they had been formerly accustomed. The Secretary of the Treasury had to combat clique after clique, and ring after ring, and to have certain legislation passed giving him certain authority before he could inaugurate any new system. It was a battle of giants, and during the months of May and June gold was run up to an average of 138 to 139 per cent. In the latter part of the year 1870 it commenced rapidly to decline, averaging in October, 130; November, 124; December, 121.

In the early part of January the decline continued steadily, reaching in April an average of 113, and so it has continued to the present time, sometimes being much lower, averaging in January of the present year 109. Does any one whose opinion is of any weight, or who is not blinded by passion or prejudice, suppose this steady decline in gold would have taken place if the charges of corruption or misuse of the public revenues were true? Take also into consideration the steady, gradual appreciation of the national securities.—The loan due in 1881, the one that has the longest to run before it can be redeemed by the Government, is the chief favorite with capitalists and investors. When the present Administration came into power, with gold at 131, it was worth, with accumulated interest, 116. In the month of June, 1872, with gold at 113, it is worth 119, with accumulated interest.

Few persons like to wade through an intricate maze of figures and calculations; the public eye wants to glance at results, not computations. To sum up, then, the result of the present administration of the financial affairs of the nation has been splendid, and beyond the expectation of the most sanguine. The citizens of the United States, the people of all countries, have become so inspired with confidence at the jealous watchfulness of the public credit by the present Administration, that any change would not only be impolitic but dangerous.—It is no use to say that these results would have been attained through the natural recuperative powers of the country. Other countries, with equal resources according to territory and population, are financially at the mercy of bankers and speculators. Take Mexico, for instance. If she were not torn by domestic feuds her inexhaustible mineral resources would make her loans the most desirable in the world. As it is her revenues are always behind her expenditures. Fidelity to principle and honesty in administration make the difference.

Can Greeley be Spared.

In two ways the country would lose by displacing General Grant and electing Mr. Greeley to the General Presidency. In the first place, this would involve exchanging a good President—one whose safe, conservative, wise, and economic financial policy and impartial execution of the laws, as between whites and blacks in the South, has won the entire confidence of all patriotic people for a man who, with all his undoubted personal virtues, holds certain extreme and impracticable views relative to finance and State rights, the practical embodiment of which in the administration of the government might plunge the country into irretrievable ruin.

Second, the election of Mr. Greeley would remove from the field of journalism the most brilliant and forcible editorial writer in America, and silence, perhaps forever, our most popular and effective advocate of protection to native industry. Indeed, his voice and pen have already been fettered so far as regards the advocacy of this great and vital principle. The Tribune, once so bold and trenchant a champion of protection in the very citadel of the foreign free trade missionaries, is now dumb as an oyster upon this important question. The New York importing agents of British and other foreign manufacturers who have long given tone to the metropolis on all questions affecting commercial policy, now have the field all to themselves.

Their liberal advertising patronage, whether supplemented or not by more direct largesses, has controlled hitherto the whole metropolitan press with the exception of the Tribune, and ranged it on the side of foreign interests, against the interest of this country.

Mr. Greeley was obliged to pledge himself to entire neutrality on this question, in order to secure his nomination, and this has resulted also in the neutrality of his paper with regard to the same great issue—the most important one now before the people.

The account, therefore, so far as American industries are concerned stands as follows: If we do not elect Greeley's Presidential aspirations, postpone them until he can become a nominee of a more patriotic party, we shall keep a staunch and unflinching protectionist in the Executive chair—one who would veto a free trade bill—maintain a good working Republican majority in Congress, save to journalism its brightest light, and preserve to the cause of protection one of its ablest and most eloquent champions. If we defeat Gen. Grant, on the other hand, we padlock the pen of this champion, and place him in a position where he would undoubtedly be called on to approve a Congressional measure looking to the overthrow of a bulwark which now defends against a destructive tide of foreign competition a system of industries which is the foundation of the nation's prosperity. Unfortunately, too, he would be bound by his distinct pledges to sign any such bill which might be passed. Can the ingenuities and capitalists of the country hesitate how to decide in such a case?

Horace Consults the Dictionary.
In his last letter of acceptance, addressed to the committee appointed by the Baltimore convention, Mr. Greeley uses the following language:
"Gentlemen, your platform, which is also mine, assures me that Democracy is not henceforth to stand for one thing and Republicanism for another, but these terms are to mean in politics as they have always meant in the dictionary—substantially one and the same thing, namely: equal rights, regardless of creed or color."

Here is a wonderful discovery made by the Philosopher of Chappaqua. Democracy and Republicanism mean the same thing in the dictionary. How very strange that Horace should have overlooked so important a fact for the last sixteen years! Is it the first time he has consulted that useful book of reference? Have not the terms always been synonymous in the dictionary? Webster says a Democrat means "one who is an advocate for or defender of Democracy—a Republican." He also says a Republican is "one who favors or prefers a Republican government—a Democrat." Yet Horace Greeley has lived in ignorance of this similarity until now. He has hated the very name of Democracy, has denounced it as little better than a league with the devil; has called its followers horse thieves, robbers, freebooters, conspirators, liars, traitors, lined agents paid by British gold, spoilers, the very dregs of society, scum of the earth, and other choice terms of similar import. But he didn't know that a Democrat meant the same as a Republican in the dictionary. Poor fellow! how suddenly the light must have burst upon him! He is made a candidate by the Democratic party; his vanity is touched; his ambition aroused; the shadow of James Buchanan falls upon him; his benevolent heart melts under the influences of Democratic affection; he sees the error of his ways; he falls down upon his knees and prays for light; for strength to live down the great wrong that he has done the purest and best of all parties. Look in the dictionary, O Horace! whispers the Spirit of Tammany. Horace looks, and the truth dawns upon him. He has labored under a fearful error all his life. He has been fighting Democracy because he thought it was something different from Republicanism. But the dictionary says it means the same, and as it has chosen Horace for President, of course there can be no mistake about it. Greeley is happy; according to the dictionary he is consistent. But dictionaries don't vote. The people know what Democracy means, and after November Greeley will find that our citizens have a dictionary of their own.

EDITORIAL BUDGET.
— There were 17 cases of sunstroke yesterday in New York.
— The first invoice of the new crop of South Carolina rice was received at New York on Thursday, being the earliest consignment ever received.
— Prince Augustus, of Saxe Coburg, husband of the Princess Imperial Leopoldine, of Brazil, arrived at New York yesterday from Rio, on a western pleasure tour, with six attendants.
— The notorious Judge Barnard is convicted, and removed from the office he has disgraced. The mills may grind slowly, but justice will triumph over Tammany corruption at last. "Though hand join in hand"—across ever so many chasms, bloody or otherwise—"the wicked shall not go unpunished."
— The two million Jews in Russia and Poland have hitherto met with little but prejudice and unkindness. It is hoped that a new era of tolerance has set in. Two Jews have recently been made advocates before the Court of Appeals, the first instance where a Jewish jurist has in Poland attained such a position. Sir Moses Montefiore is now on his way to Russia bearing to the Czar the congratulations of the English Jews on the late Peter Jubilee; and it is to be hoped that his interview will result in yet more friendly treatment of the Jews.

For eight days fighting has been going on in the streets of Belfast, one of the chief cities of North Ireland. The disturbances began on the 15th instant, the anniversary of the passage by the English Parliament of the anti-procession repeal act. They have continued ever since, and have grown into the nature of a civil war peculiar to the Celts.

TANBARK.

Tennessee has her Brown-low, and Missouri has her Brown-high.

Greeley waives his principles in order to become President; Grant waves the American flag.

Towns that possess three Greeley voters are noticed in the Chicago Tribune as being "all on fire for the old white coated philosopher."

Farmer Greeley has recently been interviewed by the dairyman, and in response to an inquiry, said: "The best butter is undoubtedly the old ram."

The Greeleyites have, it is understood concluded that money and eloquence will be wasted on Vermont, and have accordingly determined to reserve their strength for Maine.

The Democratic easy liars have claimed Judge Kelley, of Pennsylvania, for Greeley, but a dispatch from California states that he is stumping for Grant. Now they wish they hadn't praised him!

Reliable information from Detroit indicates that the Democrats of Michigan will send a large delegation to the Louisville Convention. Other States will in like manner be heard from in due time.

"The advocates of Disunion, we mean those who do not cautiously hint, but who do obstreperously hallow howl their nonsense, which is not respectable enough to be called treasonous, are usually half-witted Members of Congress and quarter-witted Editors. It is very easy for some newspaper man, who, when he bought his types, did not buy Murray's grammar, and who considers Webster's spelling book to be a vile incendiary publication, to stab the Constitution dissolve the Union, and annihilate New York and Boston, make an occidental London of Charleston, build up the East the ancients into oblivion and drive all other moderns to despair. Wrath whisky and tobacco are wonderfully rapid architects, only their fabrics are baseless, and when they fade away they leave not a wreck, but only a head-ache behind."—Tribune, July 21, 1859.
